Pigeons fail to show at execution

SIENA, Italy (UPI) - The guillotine was waiting for them, but the pigeons didn't show up.

But the pigeons weren't buying it. They stayed in their niches under the eaves of the city's roofs, refusing to descend to their usual haunts.

SOME RESIDENTS said a drizzling rain may have been the reason the birds stayed in their dry nests. But others noted that rain has never scared pigeons off before.

Siena's Socialist-Communist City Council earlier this week set Friday as the first day for netting and destroying the pigeons. A city spokesman said the birds are suffering from a form of salmonella first noticed in Copenhagen which could be dangerous to

Ray's suit against Time dismissed

A $2.25 million federal court suit against Time magazine, filed by the brother of convicted assassin James Earl Ray, was dismissed Friday by U.S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor in Knoxville, Tenn., but is expected to be refiled. Jerry Ray, employed by a Lake County golf course, had filed the action against Time, freelance writer George McMillian of Frogmore, S.C., and Henry Haile, former assistant Tennessee attorney general. His brother, James Earl Ray, was convicted of the 1968 assassination of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and sentenced to 99 years. Taylor said the suit was flawed in that it failed to show why the court in Knoxville had jurisdiction in the civil action. A trial date had been set tentatively for April 25. Jerry Ray has 10 days within which to refile the suit. The suit claimed a book by McMillian, parts of which were printed in Time, libels Jerry Ray and puts his life in danger because of allegations that he knew in advance there was a plot to kill King.

3 arrested in drug sale

Three men, allegedly involved in selling illegal drugs to Wheeling and Buffalo Grove high school students, have been arrested by officers of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group in the Northwest suburbs. Arrested wee James Palm, 20, of 238 E. Wayne Pl, Wheeling: Luz Marquez, 19, of Chicago; and Andrew DiBuduo, 26, also of Chicago. The three were charged with possession of marijuana, controlled substances and hypodermic needles and syringes, John J. Hinchy, MEG director, said. The arrests were made after officers were sold $800 worth of PCP, an animal tranquilizer, Wednesday night. The three were released after they each posted $5,000 bail. They will appear Tuesday in the Niles Branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

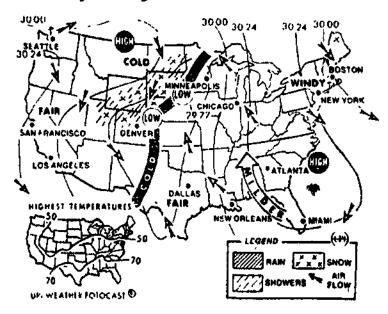

Ghost candidate on ballot

Ballots for the April 5 Schaumburg Township election list the name of a U.S. Supreme Court justice who died in 1835 as the Democratic candidate for a four-year term as trustee on the township board. Township officials now must move quickly to get a, court order to replace the name of John Marshall, the father of judicial review on the Supreme Court, with the name of Joseph W. Marshall, a 38-year-old data processor. Marshall — the candidate — noticed his name was incorrect on a specimen ballot this week. Township Atty. Norman Samelson said he will go to court to seek approval for the change. "There is no provision in the election code for things like this," he said. The printer said the ballot can be changed with little difficulty.

MILWAUKEE (UPI) - Henry F. Brennan, Jr., a 65-year-old former stockbroker becomes a Roman Catholic priest April 2 and he, his 7 children and 23 grandchildren are excited about it.

"They think it's great," said Brennan of his ordinanation at the St. Camillus Health Center chapel next Brennan, said his four sons, three daughters, a son-in-law, two daughters-in-law and 20 of his grandchildren will be on hand for the event.

Most like neighborhoods: study

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Four out of five Americans rate their neighborhoods good places to live, although nearly half of the residents have some complaints about the services they receive, a government study showed

A housing survey conducted jointly by the U.S. Census Bureau and the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development said the most complaints about services came from residents of rural areas. The least came from inner city residents.

But considerably more persons who live in the inner city of large metropolitan areas considered their problems serious enough to make them want to move away.

THE SURVEY ASKED persons living in three types of environments the inner city, the suburbs and areas outside the 60 largest metropolitan regions-to rate neighborhood services.

The services included public transportation, schools, shopping, police and fire protection and hospitals and health clinics.

Of the 72.5 million households included in the survey, 82 per cent rated their neighborhoods excellent or good while just 2.4 per cent said they considered their neighborhoods poor places to live.

Twenty-nine per cent of the inner city residents who said services were inadequate wanted to move while 8 per cent of the suburban residents and 6 per cent of the rural residents said they wanted to leave.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION was the problem most often mentioned in the survey. The services that most pleased residents of all three groups were fire protection and schools.

Of those persons who said they considered at least one of the services inadequate, 73 per cent said public transportation was the biggest worry. More than 80 per cent of suburban and rural respondents listed public transportation as a problem while 42 per cent of the inner city residents said it was bothersome.

Residents in the suburbs and rural areas said inadequate shopping facilities and hospitals and health clinics were not up to their liking and listed that as their next two biggest com-

Service takes grandparents off the rocker

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - Loren Deming is 78, grandfather of eight and a retured chef-

But he found a way to avoid idleness in retirement.

He runs a hiring hall for old folks called Rent-A-Grandparent. His idea is a spinoff of the Rent-A-Granny program originated by a woman in Albuquerque, N M. "I JUST ADDED men," said of his program which involves supplying grandmotherly or grandfatherly persons willing and able to do any odd job around the house.

Rent-A-Grandparent, which involves about 200 persons, is a telephone service, taking calls from those with job offers and relaying the information to its elderly chents

'We don't give out numbers, we don't have anything to say about how much they are paid, and we don't charge either the employer or the employe anything for our service," Deming said.

R e n t-A-Grandparent's clientele ranges from an 82-year-old Portland grandmother hired to crochet shirts for a Bend ski resort to a 39-year-old former apartment manager, also a grandparent, who pours concrete for new houses.

"HE WAS AN exception, since there were no other grandparents or elderly persons qualified to do that sort of thing," Deming said.

Rent-A-Grandparent recently came to the aid of a 73-year-old woman drawing $170 a month in Social Security, who almost was forced to sell her furniture to pay her $160 monthly apartment rent.

"We've got her working now for a lady who wants her every day for babysitting and who has found her a cheaper apartment and offered to pay the $50 cleaning charge," Deming munion for the first time.

An investment banker and stockbroker, Brennan said he had an annual income "in six figures" when he began thinking of becoming a priest in 1971. His wife died in 1969. They had been married for 36 years.

"This might sound simplistic but I decided to become a priest because I wanted more self-fulfillment and an opportunity to better serve Christ and my fellowman," he said.

Brennan said he gave all of his money and financial holdings to his children and grandchildren to become a priest in the Order of St. Camillus.

"I am a poor man now. I worked all my life so I could start at the bottom," he said laughing.

HIS FIRST assignment will be a chaplain at St. Joseph's Hospital, Milwaukee. When he first started thinking about becoming a priest, he said he worried about if "they would accept an old buzzard like me."

He came to Milwaukee from Manasquan, N.J., in 1974 to begin his preparation for the priesthood. He entered the Sacred Heart School of Theology in Hales Corners last August and finished his academic requirements in Brennan admits the size of his family is unusual for a priest.

"If I was a secular priest attached to a diocese, I could start my own parish with my own family," he said.

When a $4 cigar goes up in smoke, the man doing the puffing usually knows his tobacco.

Brand names like Montecruz, Macanudo and Don Diego are household words to the cigar connoisseur.

Headlines about a thaw in the 16-year chill in relations between the United States and Cuba are stirring old memories of the days when Havana meant the very best clears for American smokers.

Interest in Cuban clgars still lingers, although tobacconists say the stogles coming out of Havana today are not the same quality as in the pre-Castro era.

RECENTLY, TWO famous Cuban cigar names. H. Upmann and Partagas, were reintroduced to the American market, although the cigars themselves no longer come from Cuba.

"I was the first store in the Chicago area to get the Partagas cigars," says Bill Dietsch of the Village Pipe and Cigar Shop, Arlington Heights. "I was unwrapping a box at 8:30 in the morning when a customer came in, saw the Partagas name and bought a handful at $1.30 apiece. That evening, he came back and bought several

A Cuban name is part of the "romance" of selling a good cigar, Dietsch says. But in the years before the Castro-led revolt, it was the tobacco that made the Cuban cigar supreme.

"What makes a Franch wine something special? It's the grape. Well, with cigars, it's the tobacco, and Cuba had the best," says Sidney L. Rosenfeld, a Loop attorney, Arlington Heights resident, and a man who enjoys a line cigar.

When he comes across a Cuban cigar, Rosenfeld says he still has high expectations, although many of the premiere cigar-making families have left Cuba in the past 17 years to set up shop in the Canary Islands, Honduras or Dominican Republic, he says.

DR. E. JESSE JACOBS, Arlington Heights, says he paid $1.75 each for Cuban cigars of "just average size" in London recently. "They're really quite outrageously priced there, although I don't know if Castro or British

"Maybe my tastes have changed, but the Cuban cigars just did not seem to be what they used to be. The Cubans were the best cigar makers. They had the finest tobacco, grown in just the right soil and climate.

"But the cigar makers were capitalists. So when Castro came in, most of them left," he said.

If Cuban cigars are allowed back on the American market, Jacobs says he doubts he will smoke them again. "Not if the prices I had to pay in England reflect the price that would be charged in this country," he

William Symonds, tobacconist at Alfred Dunhill of London Inc. on Michigan Avenue in Chicago, says his shop still stores pre-Castro Cuban cigars for special customers.

THERE ARE STORIES that multimillionaire W. Clement Stone bought up entire warehouses of Cuban cigars after the Communist revolution in 1959.

Two of Stone's cigars were raffled off by the Illinois delegation to the Republican National Convention last August and fetched $50 apiece.

"If it's properly stored, a cigar will keep in excellent condition for years. We have some that are 15 to 20 years old," says Symonds in a British voice appropriate to the Dunhill shop where the Montecruz Individual cigar sells for $4 each.

"It was the leaf itself that made the Cuban cigar so special," he says. "And of course the handmade cigars are still the best."

Anyone that comes into Dunhill's today and asks for a Cuban cigar "is not much of a smoker," Symonds says, because serious smokers know they cannot be legally sold in the U.S.

But there are signs that may change. For the first time since diplomatic relations between Cuba and the United States were cut in January 1961 top Cuban and American officials are talking in New York.

THE NEGOTIATIONS involve offshore fishing regulations. But more importantly, they are being interpreted as the first step toward eventual normalization

DR. E. JESSE JACOBS, Arlington Heights, enjoys fine cigars, including Cuban brands he smoked on recent trips to London and Canada. Cuban cigars have been off U.S. markets for 16 years.

It is the second gesture toward Cuba to come from President Jimmy Carter. On March 18, Carter ended the 16-year travel ban for Americans who want to go to Jim Drake, Arlington Heights, has been a cigar smoker for almost 30 years. "Mostly American brands, such as Dutch Masters," he says. But if Cuban cigars came on the market would be try one? "Oh sure, I'd be tempted to try them "

"It's like merchandizing anything else in this country.

As soon as you make it hard to get, everybody wants it."

Tedious epic 'Mohammad' does little to enlighten

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Few persons had even heard of "Mohammad, Messenger of God" until the Hanafi Moslem scare in Washington, D.C., earlier this month.

In seeking to ban the movie, the terrorists fell prey to the oldest con game of them all. Talk about a film enough, exploit it for whatever the reason in the media and it will no doubt do phenomenally well at the box office.

That's too bad. Because "Mohammad" would have surely died a death of its own as the tedious, simulated epic it is.

IT IS HARD to say why a faction of Black Muslims became enraged over the film for distorting the facts of the Islamic faith. The approach to "Mohammad, Messenger of God" is so superficial, its message is too scant to be distorted. I know little more about Islam and its creator after seeing the movie than I did before.

In fact: "Mohammad, Messenger of God" comes off like an inferior replay of "The Robe," and the "Ten Commandments" together set in the deserts of "Lawrence of Arabia." It's a feeble attemnt to resurrect Cecil B.

DeMille pageantry that goes nowhere. Islam's ban against any depiction of its founder, Mohammad, long stifled the making of films about the 7th Century prophet.

Moustache Akhad, a Syrian-born producer/director, cut corners by simply leaving the title role out of camera range. We're first introduced to Mohammad as followers are urging him to come out of a cave after his self-imposed three-day holy retreat. The cave is dark. We can see nothing.

GRANTED, IT IS extremely difficult to make a viable image of a man who is never seen. But it had to be done and it didn't work. Mohammad's presence is never felt, and I for one tired of seeing the end of his walking stick or watching his people carry on conversation with him and for him, while facing the audience as though he were seated right next to every one

"Mohammad, Messenger of God," undertaken at a $17 million cost to instruct the uninformed about the Moslem faith, wins up as a hot and dry picture of the desert, offset by one giant battle scene.

Even the cinematography is brilliant only in spots. Some shots fall noticeably flat, like over-the-counter tourist "Mohammad, Messenger of God" takes in only the last 20 years of the prophet's life when the Moslems were persecuted and forced to leave the holy city of Mecca. They regroup and eventually return to wipe out all pagan worship.

ANTHONY QUINN plays Hamza, merchant-uncle of Mohammad who, though the billed star of the film, actually plays second fiddle to the absent prophet. Anthony Quinn looks just like Anthony Quinn - even ridiculous sometimes in his turban and Unfortunately, "Mohammad, Messenger of God" was doomed from the beginning. Midway in the shooting that took three years in all, Akhad was forced to move his elaborate Mecca set from Morocco to Libya, also due to religious pressures.

Yet the only one coming out ahead on "Mohammad, Messenger of God" is Akhad. He will surely turn a better profit now than if the Hanafi Muslim terrorists had kept quiet.

Racial quotas OKd by sheriff's police

The Cook County Sheriff's Police Dept. Friday agreed to racial and sexual quotas for hiring and promotions in an out-of-court settlement of a federal lawsuit. Under the agreement, at least 40 per cent of the police officers hired each year for the next five years will be black or Spanish-surnamed and 15 per cent will be women. Of the women, 40 per cent will be minorities. The agreement stemmed from a suit filed in 1975 by a group of minority sheriff's policemen and applicants called Minority Alliance Group

Students eating 'junk food'

State Rep. Peter P. Peters, R-Chicago, told a task force studying the nutritional value of school lunch programs Friday that $20 million worth of food in Illinois is wasted partly because students eat mostly "junk food." "We have allowed our bodies to go to pot," Peters said. "You can have all the nutritional means you need and the kid still won't eat his beans. All that most children eat is junk food." Hearings were being held across the state in response to a newspaper report that Illinois school children are not getting adequate nutritional lunches.

Judge releases funds to city

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice H. Marshall Friday authorized the release of nearly $29 million in federal revenue-sharing funds he ordered withheld in 1974 in the Chicago police discrimination dispute. A Small Business Administration employe and an appraiser, whose bodies were found in the rubble of a store destroyed by fire. were killed by several blows to the head with a blunt instrument. Chicago police said Friday. Police originally believed the two men had been shot in the head. Homicide Comdr. Joseph Dilleonardi said an autopsy showed SBA employe Thomas Patzke, 26, and appraiser Robert Fender, 54, both of Chicago, died from skull fractures received in a beating. Their bodies were found in the rubble of a South Side food and liquor store owned by Conrad Brown, 42. Brown pleaded innocent Thurday night to two counts of murder and one count of arson.

State resumes Medicaid payouts

The Illinois Dept. of Public Aid, as part of a settlement with the Illinois Hospital Assn., Friday agreed to lift its freeze on hospital Medicaid reimbursement rates and make back payments costing about $36 million. The agreement, reached in the chambers of U.S. District Court Judge Prentice H. Marshall in Chicago, ends a freeze imposed by former Gov. Daniel Walker's administration in October 1975. A spokesman for the department said a breakdown of the $36 million in back payments to hospitals had not been computed but that Gov. James R. Thompson has included $18 million in his fiscal 1978 budget to pay for the state's 50 per cent share of the Medicaid costs. The federal government pays the other half.

Unlicensed medics gain reprieve

Gov. James R. Thompson Friday signed into law legislation which allows unlicensed doctors to treat patients at the state's mental institutions until March 1, 1978. Thompson said the legislation is only -"a stopgag." He said the problem of unlicensed doctors practicing at state institutions has not been "properly addressed in 25 years." Thompson said his administration would do its best to replace the unlicensed doctors with licensed physicians by next March, but he said he cannot guarantee he will not ask the Illinois General Assembly for another extension.

Panel to probe Chicago cabbies

State Sen. Charles Chew Jr. announced Friday the Senate Transportation Committee will investigate the driving habits of Chicago cab drivers because some of them "make driving in Chicago more dangerous than driving in the Indianapolis 500." Chew, D-Chicago, who is chairman of the committee, said many taxicab drivers are "reckless and discourteous to private motorists."

Bill signed to allow MDs to practice

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI-Goy, James R. Thompson Friday signed into law legislation to allow unlicensed doctors to treat patients at the state's mental institutions until March 1, 1978.

In a bill-signing ceremony, Thompson said the legislation (H615) is only "a stopgap." He said the problem of unlicensed doctors practicing at state institutions has not been "properly addressed in 25 years.'

The bill was introduced because some 160 foreign-trained doctors were working at institutions with temporary licenses. The doctors were suspended when it was disclosed many of them late last last year failed to pass an unofficial qualifying test which would allow them to take examinations for full licenses.

THOMPSON SAID his administration would do its best to replace the unlicensed doctors with licensed physicians by next March, but he sa he cannot guarantee he will not ask the General Assembly for another ex-

He said he plans to look into the department's budget to determine if there is money for pay hikes when licensed physicians relieve the unlicensed doctors. He said if the mental health budget does not provide enough money, he would have to ask the legislature for an additional appropria-

The measure took less than three weeks to go through the legislature. The Senate passed the measure Thursday after a compromise amendment was added. Several hours later the House went along and sent the bill to Thompson.

The compromise amendment allows Dept. of Mental Health Director Robert deVito to hire unlicensed doctors to replace those who quit, but the grand total of unlicensed doctors could not exceed the current total of about 150.

In a letter to legislators, deVito also promised not to hire any more unlicensed doctors unless there is an emergemcy.

Man finds arrest no laughing matter

Arlington Heights police had the last laugh when they arrested a Schaumburg man who allegedly sniffed laughing gas before driving his car into a utility pole.

Police arrested Keith A. Chamblee, 19, of 1 N. Braintree Dr., and charged him with use of an intoxicating compound after he drove into a pole at Euclid Street and Arlington Heights Road in Arlington Heights.

Police said after the collision Chamblee jumped from his car and tried to hide a tank containing nitrous oxide, also known as laughing gas, in a yard of a nearby residence. Police recovered the tank and arrested Chamblee told police he had purchased two tanks containing 1,601 liters of nitrous oxide from a welding supply firm and was delivering one of the tanks to a dentist at the time of the accident, police said.

Police also charged Chamblee with leaving the roadway and damage to village property. He was released after he posted $100 bail on a $1,000 bond and was ordered to appear May 6 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

fillage asks ruling on unit vote

A request for a preliminary injunction to the April 9 Elk Grove Township unit school district referendum has been filed in federal district court by the Village of Arlington

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said he expects U.S. District Judge George N. Leighton to rule on the request Wednesday or Thursday.

A similar request has been filed in Illinois Appellate Court by High School Dist. 214.

Siegel also filed a suit in U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois charging the referendum is a violation of the United States and Illinois constitutions because it does not allow residents of Dist. 214 to vote.

THE ENTIRE Village of Arlington Heights is included in the boundaries of Dist. 214 and about 10 per cent also is part of Dist. 59, one of seven ele-

Dist. 21 absentee voting ends April 7

Residents of Wheeling Township Dist. 21 who plan to vote by absentee ballot in the April 9 school board election have until April 7 to vote in person at the district's business office, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

The deadline to apply for an absentee ballot by mail is April 4. Voters should write to the district's business office to get a ballot.

Two 3-year seats will be filled in the board election. Running for the seats are Xenophon Daniel Kafcas, Linda Kurtzman, Herbert Stein and Stuart Weinstein.

mentary school districts in the Dist. 214 area.

The unit district would combine Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools, Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village and Forest View High School in Arlington Heights under one school board administration.

Unit school district opponents insist Dist. 214 would suffer through the reorganization because the new district would take 42 per cent of its assessed valuation and nearly 27 per cent of its students.

The village's suit also charges that it is illegal for State Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin and Cook County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick to order the referendum, saying the two men do not have the legislative authority to

Sadat to visit with Carter April 4

Egypt's Pres. Anwar Sadat, the first Arab leader to accept President Carter's invitation for face-to-face talks on the Mideast, will make a "working visit" to Washington April 4-5, it was announced Friday. Carter already has met Israel Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and invitations have been extended to other Middle East leaders in an effort to bring peace to that troubled area.

The White House said Sadat and Carter will discuss "in depth continuing efforts to move toward peace in the Middle East, as well as other matters of mutual interest in our bilateral relations."

I did nothing wrong: Califano

HEW Sec. Joseph Califano said Friday he did nothing wrong in hiring a personal cook and a special office aide. President Carter avoided involvement in the Califano controversy, saying, "I trust him." The health, education and welfare secretary made clear he does not consider the hiring of his $12,000-a-year VIP cook or his 544,000 a year office side and bodyguard as violations of Carter's drive to reduce expensive frills in government service. Califano said he was not even aware that Carter has condemned the practice known as "double dipping," in which a person - like both of Califano's new employes - draws both a federal pension and federal salary from a post-retirement job.

Hostile greeting for Vance?

See of State Cyrus Vance will probably find Kremlin leaders hostile over President Carter's human rights crusade and expects no quick breakthrough in the arms control talks that begin Monday. State Dept. officials said Friday. One official, briefing reporters before Vance's departure for Europe and the Soviet Union late Friday, and he felt sure Leonid Brezhnev and other Soviet leaders are unlignant over Carter's human rights campaign. In consequence he said, the atmosphere is likely to be tense and some of the exchanges heated during Vance's groundbreaking mission on strategic arms control and other arms issues.

FCC loses case to cable TV

The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled Friday that the Federal Communications Commission cannot stop cable TV programmers from "siphoning" movies and sports events away from regular, free TV. A three-judge panel nutlified four FCC rules controlling cable TV programming, saying the agency exceeded the authority given it by Congress and violated the First Amendment guarantee of free speech by what amounted to program consorship. The rules prohibited cable TV from showing feature movies more than three years old but less than 10 years old, banned the use of specific sports events shown on free TV in the previous five years, and limited the number of sports events that had not been broadcast

Rhodesia warns against Russ plot

With Soviet and Cuban leaders on either side of the continent white Rhodesia Friday warned again of Moscow's alleged grand strategy to establish a chain of black Communist states across southern Africa. Rhodesian Foreign Minister Pieter K. van der Byl said the invasion of Zaire's mineral-rich Shaba province, allegedly by former Katanga rebels based in Marxist Angola, provided the latest evidence of the Soviet plot. He said the Kremlin was putting the Carter administration "to the test to see how far they can go and what they can get away with. They did the same with (President John) Kennedy.

Should Shaba fall to the invaders, Soviet influence would extend across Africa from Angola on the Atlantic Ocean to Tanzania and Mozambique on the Indian Ocean, he said. Van der Byl's remarks coincided with a visit by Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny to Tonzania and by Cuban President Fidel Castro to Angola.

Bhutto's opponents arrested

Police Friday arrested most leaders of Pakistan Prime Minister Zulfikar Bhutto's opposition and the army was called out to quell antigovernment riots in a major city in his home province. The military takeover of Hyderabad, 680 miles south of Islamabad, was the latest move to put down rioting and demonstrations that have tern Bhutto's Sind province for more than a week. Details of the trouble in Hyderabad were sketchy. A government spokesman said only that troops had been called out to maintain order.

The way we see it

Berwyn move a noble effort

The Berwyn city council has struck a blow against the 6 p.m. a home rule ordinance making it illegal for stores to close the meat cooler any earlier than they close their doors.

It is a noble effort to break the meat cutters' stranglehold on the Chicago area buying public, and while there may be constitutional problems with the Berwyn ordinance, the sentiment is well placed.

The reason we can't buy meat after 6 p.m. is because of a clause in the butchers' contract with the stores. It is a restriction peculiar to the Chicago area and one that is manifestly unfair to consumers.

Not everyone can or wants to do their food shopping between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. It is absurd that working persons must find time in their day to run to the store to buy meat for the table that night.

A move is being made in the Illinois General Assembly to upcurfew on meat sales by passing set the evening meat sale ban. The measure cleared a House committee Wednesday, and backers say they are optimistic about chances for eventual pas-

> Neither the Berwyn ordinance nor the proposed state law requires butchers to work evening hours. The measures are aimed at permitting the store to sell the meat that is cut, packaged and sitting in the cooler waiting for sunrise.

> Union officials say the laws are an unconstitutional interference with their right to collective bargaining. But the public interest ought to prevail in this instance.

> One way or another, the time has come to lift the white plastic cover that comes between the public and the meat counter every night at six o'clock.

Declare endorsements?

Public officials never seem to stop coming up with ideas, some good and some preposterous. State Election Board Chairman Franklin Lunding had one of the preposterous variety the other day.

Lunding suggested that candidates be required to report news media endorsements as campaign contributions on their campaign finance reports. He said $1,000 might be an appropriate value to place on the words of wisdom newspapers, radio and television offer in favor of candidates every time an election rolls around.

Lunding's proposal could be disregarded as frivolous except for the fact that it shows a basic misunderstanding of the role of the news media in political cam-

Endorsements are not "campaign contributions" so much as they are efforts by those who have direct contact with candidates to advise the voters, who rarely have the opportunity for such direct contact.

Some candidates, it's true, actively solicit media endorsements. Others consider them mere formalities that have little effect on voters.

Whatever their worth — and The Herald has consistently said we believe they have worth as one means for voters to judge candidates — media endorsements are not campaign "contributions."

Lunding should learn that.

Prejudice hits Marines

Somehow, a place with a name like "Butch McGuire's" just doesn't seem like the kind of bar that would turn away a group of Marines bent on celebrating St. Patrick's Day.

Last week, however, eight Marine officers and four of their wives were denied admission to the festivities in the Mount Prospect tavern.

Robert "Butch" McGuire, owner of the bar, has apologized for the incident, saying the assistant manager responsible "should have known better."

His action, McGuire explained, was an "error" based on "an unfortunate experience with servicemen a couple of months back."

Whatever the cause, the Marines — in the uniforms of colonels, captains and lieutenants suddenly found themselves outcasts because of their attire.

There is a more serious point to the incident, however. It's another example that the conviction that people can be judged by outward appearance — whether dress or skin color still exists.

Perhaps pointing out that even the U.S. Marines can be victims of such discrimination makes a point. Anyone can be singled out because of fear or prejudice.

That's the best reason for continuing to work against all prejudice.

Andrew Young's nonsense gets boring after awhile

One of the more arresting phrases I can remember from the Letters to the Editor column of the Pine Bluff Commercial over the years was the observation, "It gets boring not having peace of mind all the time."

Think about it. All right, a fellow who doesn't know how to count his blessings may get bored having peace of mind all the time, but bored with not haviing peace of mind all the

The phrase left me nonplussed at the time, and despite sporadic efforts to unravel it, still does. But our new ambassador to the United Nations -Andrew Young — may be helping me to understand its thrust.

IT'S GETTING awfully boring having Ambassador Young not make much sense all the time. See his statements on Communism not being any threat to black people, or on Pat Moynihan's sin in criticizing African states for not only tolerating but honoring Idi Amin, that homicidal clown, or on the necessity of the United States taking a strong stand in southern Africa in order to solve the problems of the Middle East — yes, the Middle East — and of course his statement on the stabilizing effect of Cuban troops in Angola.

At last report, Cuban troops were stabilizing Uganda and Zaire, too. That kind of stability now has moved the Carter Administration (Andrew Young, member in good standing) to itary and other equipment to Zaire. The official reports from Zaire describe the invading force as numbering about 5,000 "led by mercenaries from across the Atlantic" and using the same weapons "used in Angola by the Russo-Cuban coalition." Whether Fidel's Sepoys are physically present with the invading troops, it is clear where the invasion has come from neighboring Angola, or Havana East. Whatever it is the Cubans are contributing to Africa, it ain't stability.

AT FIRST, AMBASSADOR Young's statement puzzled, then shocked, but by now they mainly bore. By now the ambassador has unburdened himself on the prospects of this country's allvolunteer, newly professional army refusing to obey orders. "An army that is 30 per cent black isn't going to . fight on the side of the South Africans," as the ambassador put it in one of his dogged answers to unasked questions.

What's more, said the ambassador, any American alignment with South Africa would cause "civil war at home." As it happens, American blacks have fought alongside South Africans, and Rhodesians, too - in the Second World War.

A good part of the Rhodesian army even now is made up of African blacks. And predictions of a racial civil war in America sound even stranger now than they did in the heat of the Sixties or in the weird calc lations of the Manson Cult . . .

BUT TAKING SUCH speculations seriously is to get caught up in Mr. Young's own problem. The question he raises most pointedly is why an American ambassador to the UN or anywhere else would want to go trailing off into fruitless speculation at such merciless prolixity.

One wonders what he's going to say next — that an old Tory like Winston Churchill would never ally himself in war with a Bolshie like Joe Stalin? One suspects that it will be something equally relevant as the ambassador's self-dialogue with the tangential goes on and on and on . . . If Andy Young keeps up this general quality of thought and circumspection, the only thing for it may be to have him put on a hundred pounds and become a prototype Southern sheriff.

Everybody's mind may have its clutter of wild irrelevancies and gratuitous nonsense, but why impose it al? on others with such unrelieved menotony? It gets boring not hearing sense made all the time.

Don't raise library tax'

What is this I read? Mr. Parson, library board president wants to have a referendum to obtain additional funds for running the library, because the board of trustees will not approve more library expenditures.

Why, it was just a short time ago that Mr. Parson strenuously opposed having a referendum to determine if in fact we should have a new $3.2 million library. I personally debated the point face to face at village board meetings and both he and the mayor said a referendum would be a waste of the tax payers money. It would be too costly, they said.

I ask then, how can Mr. Parson justify having a referendum for $175,000 when he didn't want one for $3,200,000. It seems apparent he feels he can slip this one past the public, not noticed.

It is especially irritating to read "'The (library board) directors are indicating in all probability there will be a need for a referendum (to increase the tax levy)', library board member Sam Hess said Wednesday. 'It is something the citizenry has the right to make a decision on. Some people would rather have their child read a good book than have a pot hole repaired.' "

Where was Mr. Hess when so many of us simply wanted to have a referendum on the new library. May I add, some people would rather have a new pair of shoes for their child, than a good book to read!

My advice to the library board is be patient. Be satisfied with your budget, as was given you by our elected officials, for they know best what is good for the community as a whole.

Fannie Lou Hamer's legacy makes us her heirs

by MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON — They buried part of the political past the other day when they laid Jack Pollack to rest in Baltimore, but the funeral was just a formality. The power and influence his name once represented died long before he did.

Few outside of Maryland ever heard of Pollack. He held no public office, preferring to cut the deals and pull the strings that put others in the limelight. For decades, he was king of the clubhouse crowd that ruled Democratic politics in Baltimore — a city where Democratic politics was the only kind that counted.

There was a time when a word from Jack Pollack would open any door in the city of Baltimore or the state of Maryland. There was a time when governors and mayors, councilmen and judges, leapt to do his bidding.

THE OLD POLS who once sought his favor saw him to his grave last week and mourned the changing of the times that had made Pollack an anachronism. "It was like a dinosaur died,'' marvelled Tommy D'Alexandro III, the ex-mayor of Bal-no inclination to impose her will on others.

But in her battle for simple dignity, for herself and other blacks in the Mississippi of the 1960s, Fannie Lou Hamer became a driving force of the civil rights movement which transformed the political landscape of the South and indeed the nation.

She had no clubhouse, no patronage plums, no key to city hall. All she had was a strength of spirit that could not be broken even by repeated beatings, jailings and threats on her life.

And when she died, the people, black and white lives she had touched journeyed to Ruleville, Miss. to pay her homage. They went not because she belonged to their past but because she had helped them to have a future.

U.N. AMBASSADOR Andrew Young was there, along with Hodding Carter III and Pat Derian of the State Department. Presidential assistant Peter Bourne was there, and so was his wife, Mary King, deputy director of Action.

They were there because they had shared her life and her cause when neither was safe nor sure to triumph. And they were there because President Carter wanted them to be. "None of us would be where we are now had we not been here then," said Young in delivering the eulogy to Mrs. Hamer, and he was right.

QUITE SIMPLY, Fannie Lou Hamer would not concede that black Americans who happened to be born south of the Mason-Dixon line should have any lesser citizenship rights than whites.

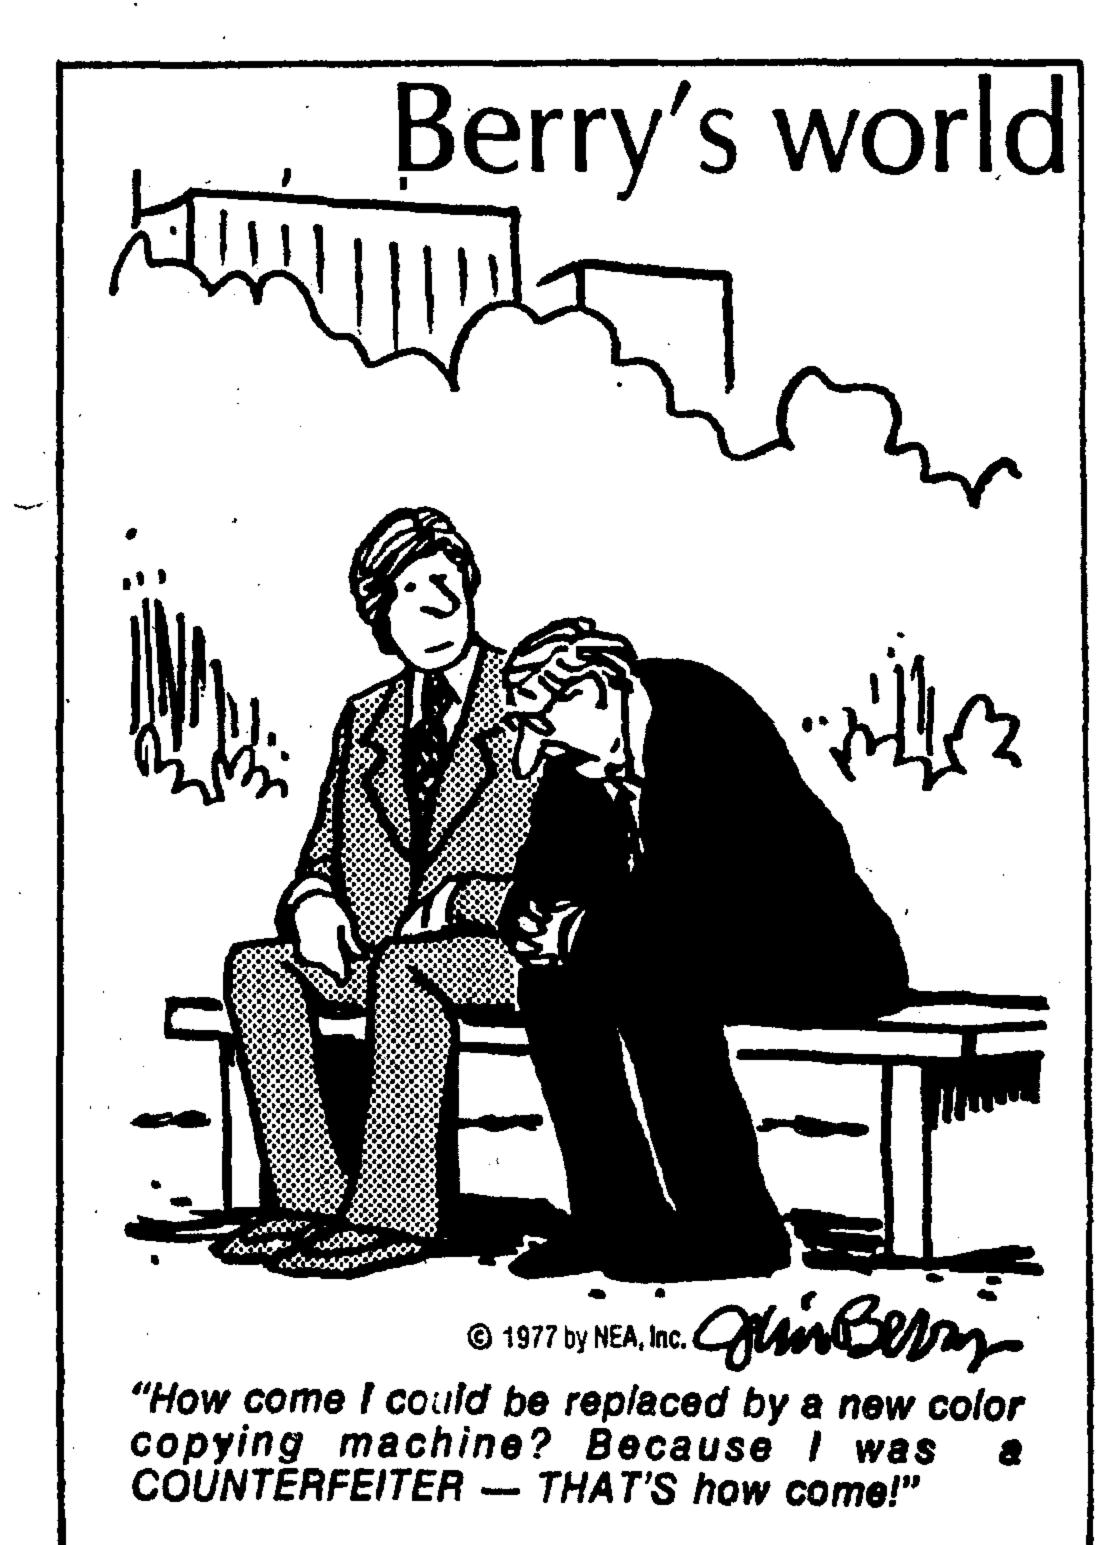

And because she would not so concede, because she and others like her would not be cowed, black Americans went to the polls by the hundreds right to control her own life; she had of thousands last November end cast their ballots for a white man from Georgia who understood the meaning of Fannie Lou Hamer's life.

They say that old Jack Pollack died a rich man, and that will no doubt be a comfort to his immediate family.

But on the scales of history, it is already clear that Fannie Lou Hamer - poor, black and powerless - left a far greater legacy. We are all her

Commentary

Television has been bombarding us for so many years with products promising fast, fast, fast relief for everything that bothers us, it is an ironic kind of justice that the medium is being increasingly exploited by people seeking instant redress for their grievances or instant publicity for their causes.

It began with the civil rights and antiwar demonstrations and protests of the 1960s and early 1970s. Rather than being mere witnesses to and recorders of a news event, the television cameras, crews and commentators often constituted the event itself.

The phenomenon may have reached a climax recently in Warrensville Heights, Ohio, where television newsmen found themselves active participants in a drama in which a disturbed young man held hostages at gunpoint for 40 hours in the city hall and issued a number of outlandish demands, including a public apology by President Carter for the nation's treatment of blacks.

THE WEEKEND BEFORE. Corey Moore had told friends, "You'll be seeing me on television on Monday. The Ohio episode has occasioned some long-overdue soul-searching by news professionals.

"It's time we took another look at our coverage of such incidents," says Virgil Dominic, news director of a Cleveland TV station. "While we are glad it ended without bloodshed, we are disturbed that the media, especially television, overplayed it to the extent that another one is almost guaranteed.

"We feel that the coverage we give such incidents is partly to blame, for we are glorifying lawbreakers, we are making heroes out of nonheroes. In effect, we are losing control over our news departments; we are being

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Kings of old sometimes

DESPITE THE tremendous competition that exists among local television news teams, and at the risk of losing part of its audience, Dominic's station will no longer automatically grant live coverage to future Corey Moores. In fact, it may not cover them at all.

This does not mean that we are going to ignore news events," says Dominic, "but rather that we are going to report them in reasonable perspective."

Also in the wake of the same incident, one Cleveland newspaper has called for a code of news coverage restraint, agreed to by both newspapers and television, locally and nationally, to stop the exploitation of the media by fanatics.

"CRAZY PEOPLE are of the opinion that they can pull off any kind of terror activity, especially murder threats, and make themselves prominent," says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. "This is unfortunately true because of the way the media cover these episodes."

But just what is "reasonable perspective" in the reporting of news events like the one in Warrensville Heights - or the even more frightening ones that were staged in Washington, D.C., the same week - is not an easy question to answer. As Dominic indicates, they cannot simply be ignored, especially when the lives of innocent people may be at stake.

Nor is it easy to say just how a code of "news restraint" would be enforced.

Nevertheless, it is becoming imperative that some kind of journalistic code in this area be formulated and be put into practice - even if it means calling the bluff of the next terrorist who threatens to kill someone if his demands are not accorded front-page space and primetime publicity.

Otherwise the news media will find themselves increasingly being held hostage by the fanatics among us. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Are skinny rats creating scare?

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A couple or three decades ago, the classic lament of the times was: "Everything I like is either illegal, immoral or fattening."

If updated to include the taboos at work today, that ancient plaint would read: "Everything I like that isn't illegal, immoral or fattening causes cancer in rats.

The ratio is approximately as follows: for every three people who will now do something they didn't used to do because it was illegal or immoral, there are seven more people who have gone on a diet.

Indeed, some scientists are coming around to the conclusion that there is an either-or relationship involved here - either something will cause you to gain weight or it will cause cancer in rats.

Certainly it has worked out that way with respect to sweeteners.

FTC probes unions in Northwest

WASHINGTON, D.C - The Federal Trade Commission has authorized restraint of trade investigations involving the Teamsters Union in Alaska, and six other unions that handle food distribution activities in Alaska, Washington, Oregon and

The two investigations authorized in recent months are the first FTC investigations involving trade unions, according to a high FTC officials.

One investigation involves Alaska Teamsters Local 959 and allegations that it put a squeeze on the distribution of Prinz Brau beer in concert with major liquor and beer distribution outlets in Anchorage and Fairbanks.

THE OTHER involves six local unions in the Seattle area and their relationships with Safeway Stores, Inc. The Seattle unions are Meat Cutters Local BI. Packinghouse Workers Local 186, Retail Store Employees Union Local 367. Retail Clerks Union Local 1105, the Amalgamated Mest Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America Locals 247 and 529.

John E. Rinehart, Jr., and Hugh Hafer, attorneys for the Seattle locals, have filed motions to quash or limit the FTC subpoenas that would require each of the unions to produce records on negotlations of agreements with Safeway for a ten-year period.

The FTC resolution authorizing the subpoenas for the Seattle unions' records speaks only in general terms of an investigation of "the food industry." makes reference to the law prohibiting restraint of trade and names Safeway and the six local nore them.

There is no public FTC record on the investigation of Alaska Teamster Local 959, but a high FTC official confirmed an investigation of allegations that Prinz Brau Brewing Company has been the victim of an economic squeeze involving the union and some major liquor and beer distributors in Alaska.

Prinz Brau Brewing Company is a new firm constructed in Anchorage by the West German firm, Oetker. It is the first brewery in Alaska and started producing beer last September.

Within a matter of a month, Prinz Brau had succeeded in placing its product in 90 per cent of the retail outlets in Anchorage and about 80 per cent of the outlets in Fairbanks.

Representatives of the major liquor distributing firms in Alaska approached Gerhard Konitsky, manager of Prinz Brau, to ask if they could have distribution rights for Prinz Brau in Alaska. Konitsky refused them.

A few days later Jesse Carr, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters Local 959, asked Konitsky to put his 40 employes in the Teamsters Union Konitsky said that though his employes could join the Teamsters Union if they wished, he would not force them to join the union. He said Carr should feel free to try to organize the highly paid brewery workers.

Instead of tackling the job of cohvincing the brewery employes they should join the Teamsters Union, Carr sent a letter in November to the 25,000 members of his union and to the bars, taverns and retail liquor outlets across Alaska informing them that Prinz Brau was brewed by nonunion employes.

Union spokesman admit the circulation of the letters to the Teamsters union members and to the retail outlets, but declare it is "not a boycott."

Between late" November and

January, Prinz Brau was dropped by ten per cent of its outlets in Fairbanks and by about ten per cent of its outlets in Anchorage.

In early January the FTC regional office in Seattle noted the widespread publicity about the Prinz Brau brewery problem and sent investigators to the Prinz Brau plant while other investigators started questioning the retail outlets as to why they had dropped Prinz Brau.

Within a few days after the FTC mvestigators visits, many bars and other retail outlets were placing orders again with Prinz Brau. By the end of February, Konitsky reported he had regained nearly all of the outlets lost in November and December. Also the Teamsters made no more efforts to have him place his employes in the union or to organize the brewery employes. There had been no repetition of the Teamsters advisory letter to union members and retail outlets.

FTC officials in Washington said they could not comment on the status or purpose of either investigation, and on the record could not even confirm that there is an investigation of the economic squeeze on Prinz Brau. Nor would they say what the policy is or will be relative to future FTC investigations of labor unions for restraint of trade.

Two slates vie in Elk Grove Twp.

The April 5 election marks the first time Democrats have run a slate in the Elk Grove Township election.

The Republicans have put up a nine-member slate with eight incumbents and one newcomer, while all but one of the nine Democrats are new to politics.

BUT A CHECK of the board meeting minutes from March 5, 1973, showed salaries were raised then. The election was April 3.

Democrats also charged that Supervisor Richard Hall was actually earning from $15,000 to $18,000 yearly, rather than the $12,000 budgeted.

A check of township books and W-2 statements showed Hall was earning $12,000, and most members of the Democratic slate have since backed off their original claims.

The Democratic slate has since split on its contention that salaries are too high. While most members pledge a reduction of their own salaries if elected, some candidates say the salaries are in line.

For supervisor

Richard Hall

Richard M. Hall, 51, of 176 W. Dulles Rd., Des Plaines, served as township trustee for four years and as supervisor since 1973. He is a manufacturing representative for the R. M. Hall Sales Agency, Des Plaines, and has lived in the area since 1962. He is married and has three children. He is director of the Regular Republican Organization of Elk Grove Township and is a former president and precinct captain of that group.

- · Qualifications: Hall says his experience and the current administration's record are his qualifications.
- · Issues: Hall says the current administration's record is the main issue. "We think we've done an outstanding job," he says. He also emphasizes the administration's knowledge of township government, saying the opposition has "absolutely no background" in it. He said incumbents' salaries are not high, considering the time and effort put into

Richard

• Ideas and goals: He wants to expand the bicycle safety program and the senior citizens' bus program in a joint plan with Wheeling Townsip. Hall says the current board members "aren't sensational, we just operate day-to-day."

James Truschke

James R. Truschke, 34, of 601 Huntington Commons, Mount Prospect, is the Democratic supervisor candidate in his first bid for public office. He is an attorney with Whelan and Associates, Arlington Heights, and previously worked as a researcher in the Illinois Appellate court and with the Cook County State's Attorney's office. He is married.

· Qualifications: Truschke says his age, education and experience in dealing with people qualify him for the job. "I'm old enough to have a certain amount of experience and young enough to remember what it's like to be young," he says. He says his private law practice has taught him to work with people. "I've been told I have a big mouth and sometimes I do. But that's good if you have in-telligence to back it up."

. Issues: Truschke says incumbents' salaries are too high and pledges a reduction. He says the supervisor should earn between $6,000 and $10,000, and, if elected, he'll reduce his wages within the first month of his term. Truschke also says township government is the "muscle of the people" and that it should work to coordinate the five villages in the township. He calls the incumbents "a status que administration" and that if that's what voters want, "Dick Hall and company should be put back in."

For assessor

Ronald Soucek

Soucek

Ronald L. Soucek, 36, of 1225 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights, is seeking his first political office as township assessor. He is president of Homes North by Northwest Real Estate, Rolling Meadows. He is married, has two children and has been a resident of the area since 1969. He is married, has two children and has been a resident of the area since 1969. Hodlmair

Charles A. Hodlmair, 63, of 100 Landmeier Rd., Elk Grove Village, has been township assessor since 1961. He also is an assesor for Ben F. Eidamiller and Co., Des Plaines. A former president of Elk Grove Village, Hodlmair has lived there since 1954. Married and with three children, Hodlmair is a director of the Des Plaines National Bank, Cragin Federal Savings and Loan Assn. and the YMCA.

Ronald

Cesario

Joseph Cesario

Joseph G. Cesario, 37, of 1141 Wilson Dr., Des Plaines, is the only Democratic trustee candidate who previously has sought political office.

He ran unsuccessfully for township trustee in 1969. He is field service administrator for General Electric Co., Chicago, and has lived in Des Plaines since 1964. He is married and has three children. He is president of the cratle Organization.

- Qualifications: Cesario says the election of even one Democratic trustee would cause a "major change in control of the funds being spent." He views himself as "an alternative to what they have."
- Issues: Cesario says the biggest issue of the campaign is the incumbents' salaries. He supports the Democratic slate's pledge to cut salaries by 10 to 50 per cent and says "if I am elected, I'll return that portion of my salary to the township I don't feel is justified."

Frances Valerio

Valerio

Frances M. Valerio, 43, of 601 Huntington Commons, Mount Prospect, is running for political office for the first time as a Democratic trustee candidate. She is an insurance sales representative for Metropolitan Life, Chicago. She is divorced and has two

- Qualifications: While Mrs. Valerio says she's not sure she's definitely the best person for the job, she says she has a lot to offer. "I have the time. I care," she says, adding those qualities are supplemented by her business background.
- Issues: Mrs. Valerio says the main issue is getting citizens involved in township government. "Nobody seems to know anything about anything here," she says. She says incumbents' salaries are too high and that, if elected, she would have no qualms about returning some of her salary to the town fund if asked.

Douglas

Antonik

Douglas A Antonik, 20, of 599 Exmoor Rd., Elk Grove Village, 15 the youngest candidate for township office. The Democratic trustee candidate is a sophomore majoring in political science at Augustana College, Rock Island. His permanent residence is in Elk Grove and he says he is able to be in the township whenever he is

- age can being "new life" to the administration. He views it as an asset because he has new ideas, is more active and has more time to spend on
- Issues: Antonik says salaries are the biggest issue in the campaign. He claims they're too high and if elected will return a portion, between 10 and 15 per cent, to the township or to a charity after he sees what the job entails. He's also concerned that for the amount of federal revenue-sharing funds spent, "services have not been increased in proportion."

Helen McMahou

McMahon

Helen McMahon, 37, of 22 Evergreen Circle, Elk Grove Village, was prompted to join the Democratic trustee slate by her daughter, who is interested in politics. Mrs. McMahon is a school crossing guard, an Avon representative and a secretary for Apperson Business Forms, Elk Grove. She has lived in the area since 1984, is divorced and has two children.

• Qualifications: "I'm not a politi-Mrs. McMahon says. "I want to do the best job I can for the people." She says she has been active and interested in the community. which has familiarized her with various needs.

• Issues Mrs. McMahon says fire protection in unincorporated areas is a concern. She says that since she's not an engineer, she can't say exactly what is feasible to bring sufficient water to the areas, but she wants to look into the problem, Mrs. McMahon also contends that incumbents' salaries are too high, and that elected officials should take a cut to help the economy and that she's willing to put a portion of her salary in a township fund.

For highway commissioner

Steil

Alfred C Steil, 65, of 1030 Linneman Rd., Mount Prospect, has served as highway commissioner for five years. He was appointed to the township's only full-time job in December 1972 and was elected in 1973. An area resident since 1954, he is married and has five children. Steil is a director and deputy committeeman for the Regular Republican Organization.

· Qualifications: He worked for the Cook County Highway Dept. from 1952 to 1969 when he became supervisor of the state's highway department for the northern district,

• Issues: Steil says there are no real issues in the campaign, "I'm running because most of the people I work with asked me to run again," he said. He said the Democrats' criticism of salaries is not valid. "When I took this job, I took a drop in salary. I think I am working very cheap. If they make this an issue, they haven't been doing their homework."

Paglia

Ronald N. Paglia, 47, of 489 Arlington Heights Rd., Elk Grove Village, is a Democrat seeking his first elective office as highway commissioner. Paglia is a pavmg contractor and president of Chicago and Suburban Asphalt Paving Co., Elk Grove Village. He is married, has five children and has lived in Elk Grove Village since 1958. He is on the Elk Grove Village Zoning Board of Appeals.

- Qualifications: Paglia says he can perform the job well because of more than 25 years experience in paving. He says he can do a "better job" than the incumbent.
- Issues: Paglia said one issue is that the incumbents are not "reaching the people." However, because he is a candidate for road commissioner, he says "I wouldn't know" how to change that. He says salaries for township officials are not too high.

William Schneck

Schneck

William H. Schneck, 51, of 340 Norman Ct., Des Plaines, was appointed trustee in 1975. He is president of Century Graphic Design, Chicago, and has lived in the area since 1966. He is married and has three children. He is a deputy committeeman for the township's Regular Republican Organiza-

- · Qualifications: Schneck says his experience, along with the slate's experience, qualify him for the trustee's spot. Schneck says he's running on his record because he thinks the board's done a good job. He says the township provides "service for everyone who
- wants it." • Issues: Schneck says the current administration has been "oren and above-board. We want to show people township government works." He said the salary issue is not valid because it would be difficult to find a person willing to manage the township's budget for less money. "I think the salary is justified for the amount of hours that go into the job," he says,

Bernard

Bernard F. Lee, 52, of 1440 Blackhawk, Mount Prospect, was appointed to the township board in 1965 and was elected in 1969 and 1973. He is an attorney with Lee, Hanlon and Shumway. Mount Prospect, and has lived in the area since 1957. He and his wife have four children. Lee is on the board of directors for the Northwest Suburbon YMCA, the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Assn and the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District and president of the township

Regular Republican Organization · Qualifications: Lee says he's the best man for the job because of his education in law, his broad business background from former jobs and his experience in dealing with people.

· Ideas and goals: Lee is particularly interested in seeing that the proposed mental health facility is built and services expanded. He also is anxious to expand the bicycle safety program and senior citizens' bus pro-

Robert Jacobson

Jacobson

Robert Jacobson, 49, of 510 Oak St, Elk Grove Village, is the only nonincumbent Republican trustee andidate. He is the regional insulation sales manager for W. R. Grace Co., Park Ridge. He is married and has four children. Jacobson is a deputy committeeman for the Regular Republican Organization and is chairman and a member of two consumer

- · Qualifications; While he has to find out exactly why he's the best person for the job, he says his business and marketing background have prepared him to deal with financial matters. He's also been involved with environmental groups. Jacobson says he has "a lot of homework" to do on the township, but he adds that he's attending meetings and studying township books.
- Issues: Jacobson says the main issue of the campaign is the incumbents' record, but he adds that residents don't always know what's happening in the township.

Larry F. Hintze, 48, of 41 Kenilworth Ave, Elk Grove Village, is seeking his second term as a Republican trustee. He is supervisor of the Illinois Secretary of State's office on Chicago's South Side. He is married, has two children and has hved in the area since 1966.

- Qualifications: Hintze says his four years experience qualify him for the job. "I've learned a little bit of something about running township government," he says.
- · Issues: Hintze says the main issue of the campaign, at least from his challengers' standpoint, is incumbents' salaries. "They've got to find something to pick at," he says. Hintze says he would like to receive a higher salary, "but you've got to stop someplace." He says he "really hates to make any kind of issue" other than salaries because he'd prefer a "nice, clean campaign."

For clerk

Sharp

Sharon Sharp, 37, of 1306 W. Cedar Ln., Arlington Heights, is running in her first election after being appointed township clerk spot two years ago. She is Cook County Republican chairwoman and on the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Township Mental Health Commission. She is married, has two children and has lived here since 1967.

- Qualifications: Mrs. Sharp says her experience and knowledge of township government show her more ways to help residents. "Although I'm not directly involved in policy making, I am aware of the programs and that makes it easier to work in the
- · Issues: Mrs. Sharp says there are no specific issues in the clerk's race because few persons are interested in it. She says the incumbents' salary level is not a credible or realistic is-

Stevens

Lorina Stevens, 50, 15 W Emerson St., Arlington Heights, is the Democratic candidate for township clerk. She is a homemaker, is married and has two children.

Mrs. Stevens worked as Northwest suburban coordinator for U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, as well as in former Gov. Daniel Walker's campaign and was campaign manager for state Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights. She has lived in the area since 1963.

- Qualifications: Mrs. Stevens says she's qualified because of her experience in politics.
- Issues: The biggest issue of the campaign, Mrs. Stevens said, is incumbents' salaries Although board minutes show otherwise, Mrs. Stevens said the incumbents "said before the last election they would cut their salaries and afterwards raised them." She refused to say how much of a salary cut she proposes.

AN EFFICIENT KITCHEN, like this L-shaped one, features adequate counter and storage space for family needs and good appliance placement to reduce the cook's steps. Here refrigerator and food storage units are grouped with additional pot-and-pan space near the stove. The sink is placed between these areas since studies show most food is prepared there. A trash compactor and dishwasher are additional major appliances and should be located near the sink.

Pavement, ground-cover trim yard

If you live in a house and you want to be on speaking terms with your neighbors, there is no way to climinate all the work on the property surrounding your house short of paving everything,

But there are measures you can take to eliminate much yard work. For example, don't plant hedges that require trimming. It you feel a need for privacy use fencing, but choose the type that will enhance the appearance of your property and not be objectionable to your neighbors.

Flower and vegetable gardens require much attention. If you want to hold your maintenance to a minimum, avoid these and many other elements in your landscape that will be demanding.

THOUGH PAVING your property would do away with almost all maintenance, you couldn't live with it. In the summer, broad expanses of pavement, un-relieved by planting, would be too hot and uncomfortable because of reflected heat from the sun. In cold weather, it would look bleak and barren. But you can use pavement in a useful, attractive way to reduce maintenance.

The large terrace in this plan is an example of how pavement can be used. The terrace is enclosed on the north and east sides by a stockade-type fence to give the owner privacy. An arbor planted with vines furnishes shade on the south side of the terrace. On the west and south sides of the terrace, a low wall, just high enough to sit on comfortably, separates the terrace from the other areas.

In this plan, large beds of ground-cover do away with a considerable amount of lawn mowing. These beds are relieved by occasional plantings of shrubs and trees. Though flower beds are not included in this plan because they are high-maintenance features, a landscape like this certainly need not be devoid of flowers and color. Small flowering trees such as crab apples, hawthorns, magnolias and dogwoods add some color. More could be added with

TO FURTHER diminish maintenance in a landscape like this, curbing around ground-cover beds would be effective. Curbing would considerably ease the burden of yard work by doing away with the need for hand clipping where lawn and ground-cover

Kitchen may hold key to happiness in home

by BARBARA LADD

Apartment hunters and home shoppers may be happier in their new abode if they give extra attention to kitchen layout.

When Lynn Bredemeyer and ber husband purchased their home a couple of years ago, the kitchen was not a priority item, she said. Now the North Suburban Extension home economist is dissatisfied with the cooking area and plans to remodel.

"It's a terribly inefficient kitchen." she sighed. "My husband and I keep bumping into each other all the time while we're fixing dinner. And storage space is awful. Wedding gifts for the kitchen, like dishes and appliances, are in boxes in the basement because there's just no room for them in the kitchen."

According to Mrs. Bredemeyer, who works in the Rolling Meadows office, some kitchen planning guidelines may be helpful in choosing an enjoyable

FIRST, families should determine the amount of time spent in the kitchen and the kind of use expected from it, she suggested. A tiny kitchen with poor lighting, inefficient appliance piacement and inadequate storage may not bother someone who lives alone and cooks very few meals. But the same kitchen would be disastrous for parents with small children or a single person who enjoys cooking.

"For most people an inefficient kitchen is a minor consideration when they first move. But as they work in it the flaws become more important," Mrs. Bredemeyer warned.

Basic design flaws, according to Hotpoint home economists, include a refrigerator installed so that it won't open to the stops; a range and refrigerator placed side-by side; and an open dishwasher door that blocks easy access to the sink.

THE FLOW OF work is also important, says Jan Brown, Skokie, a kitchen design consultant to Whirlpool Corp. The basic work centers should be arranged to accommodate a storage-preparation-cooking-serving progression, she said. For example, refrigerator and food storage areas should be near the service entrance, the cook-and-serve center should be as close as possible to where most meals are eaten.

A left-handed cook may want a kitchen where the work flow moves to the left, she added.

Counters and storage space are other major kitchen considerations, says Rolling Meadows kitchen designer A. E. Anderson, a member of American Institute of Kitchen Dealers and National Home Improvement Council.

"People want to squeeze as much storage space into their kitchen as is humanly possible," said Anderson. Lazy susans in cabinet corners and pantries are storage bonuses to note when evaluating a kitchen, he said.

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture recommends at least 15 inches of counter at the opening side of the refrigerator for loading and unloading, and a range area with counter space on both sides, if possible. The sink must have no less than 24 inches of working counter on each side, according to the USDA, since most food preparation is done at the sink.

ANDERSON estimates that 95 per cent of the people he works with want dishwashers. Trash compactors and microwave ovens are other popular appliances.

"When planning a new kitchen, you have to be sure there's space for these units," he said. "In the case of a microwave oven, a kitchen must have the space for one complete unit which has a conventional oven, cooking range and microwave, even if the family doesn't have the unit now."

Anderson also recommends noting the floor covering ("A low-maintenance floor is best - not carpeting"), the color of the cabinets and the amount of lighting. If the cabinets are extremely dark, some persons may feel cramped or closed in, he ex-

"And the lighting has to be so that o one squints," he said. "Lights should be under the cabinets, over major work areas like ranges and sinks and in as many places as possible.'

Some USDA studies show that bomemakers spend up to 50 per cent of their time in kitchens, so it's important to look for planning flaws when choosing a place to live.

"Our friends tell my husband and me that what happened to us happens all the time," commented home economist Bredemeyer. "Once you get into a home and are committed to it, you know what you'd like to have

In their own way plants are telling you something

You might as well stop nagging your plants. They're not listening to a word you say

Thats the word from Prof. Noe Higinbotham, a plant physiologist from Washington State Univer-

Professor Higmbotham says he's eaten plants, roasted them. plunged them into hot acid and on bad days, cursed them torridly while using accepted scientific methods. "And the electrical signais showed no effects of sensitivity." he reports

What this means in simple language is that your pet peperomia is turning a deaf ear to all that turkey jive and death-threatening epithets you fling when your plants get on your nerves.

Can you buy that? I can; My

TALKING TO PLANTS is a little like talking to a bug, an earthworm or a blob of protoplasm If plants could listen, there would surely be a Berlitz course designed for them.

Professor Higinbotham isn't a believer in the theories expounded in "The Secret Life of Plants" by Peter atompkins and Christopher Bird, who detail in serious style, experiments where plants react "humanlike" to pain and threats while their leaves were attached by electrodes to a galvanometer

If a plant stops growing, it is surely not looking for sympathy because you leave ito aalone when you go to work. (If your work keeps you away from home for more than 15 minutes per day, consider quitting your jobl) No, there are many reasons plants stop growing. They may be potbound, or not getting enough light, are they crammed too closely against other plants? suffering from pollution damage? stricken with chlorosis? Too hot? too cold? Or suffering from soil deficiencies

There are logical reasons why plants do their bizarre bad acts, and if you're alert, you can interpret what they are trying to tell

Professor Higinbotham found in one of his studies that plants do respond to stimuli by releasing electrical charges, but humans cannot force them to do so.

In contemporary ranch home

The flavor's definitely western

Strong Western flavor in home design continues to be popular, so we've included such a plan here — with a slightly different twist. Although the flavor is definitely Western, the design has been combined with a contemporary trend with a refreshing result The house is homey, attractive, crisp and clean.

The long severe stone front wall is a dominant feature. It stimulates the imagination and prompts one to take a closer look at what is inside. Along the wall's length, which outlines the flat roof above, is a double set of sixfoot-wide western barn-type doors. At the wall's end is a gable roof and window treatment which helps to maintain some of that Western touch, with the extended beams and board and batten siding adding to the effect.

A CONTEMPORARY and unique touch is the suspended planter placed under the front living room window. Normally, such planters would be on the ground or tucked up under a much higher window as a shorter window plants. A large, dramatic stone chimney is spread from indoors to out.

Inside the front entrance gates, an indoor-outdoor scene confronts the visitor. A 13 by 20-foot area is roofed and, because it is enclosed except for one open end, gives an interior appearance; actually, it is a garden and covered walk. An unusual touch is added here with wagon wheels set flat into open roof circles, casting patterned shadows when the sun shines

FROM THE COVERED garden, one enters an impressive open patio. The entrance to the house is through a stone archway, which is part of the fureplace chimney, is the large living room. The fireplace itself doubles as a dividing wall between the living and dining rooms and is stone-faced on basement stair and a wide arch provides another access to the family room from the center hall. A walllocated powder room also is in this area to serve guests as well as the kitchen-family room.

Three bedrooms line up across the rear wing. Their access hall has an 8-foot-wide sliding glass door facing and opening onto the private patio. The master bedroom at the far end service door separates kitchen and has a panoramic window with a cathedral-shaped head which follows the slant of the ceiling. A private master bath and walk-in closet complete the facilities. A second, back-to-back bath serves the other two bedrooms from

Basic plan to kitchen

Kitchens are usually designed from one of four basic plans. U-shaped, L-Shaped, Corridor or One-wall, Doors and window locations create variations, but each shape retains its advantages and disadvantages, according to US Dept. of Agriculture kitchen planning experts.

The U-shaped kitchen, when properly designed, offers ample counter and storage space. When more than one person works in a U-shaped kithen, they seldom bump into each other.

"ft's not like other designs where everybody seems to be running into each other and getting in each other's way." commented Lynn Bredemeyer, home economist in the Rolling Meadows Extension Office.

She said the U-shaped kitchen best illustrates the "triangle" concept where a path from sink to refrigerator to cooking area forms the triangle. The maximum footage around the three sides should total no more than 22 feet, she said. "Otherwise you're walking around too

THE POPULAR L-shaped kitchen utilizes two walls and allows great flexibility in appliance and storage placement, according to Hotpoint home economists. Usually there is space for a breakfast area, but whe the L-shaped kitchen is the only dining area in the home, it usually doesn't permit a desirable separation of dining and kitchen facilities.

The Corridor arrangement is a favorite for apartment builders. It's economical to install and can be an efficient work area

Sometimes this kitchen has a door at each end, which introduces family traffic to the work triangle, creating too much bustle. Also, while the twowall kitchen utilizes all its space, very often the aisles are too narrow, says Hotpoint experts, or there is unsufficient space between appliances.

OPEN APPLIANCE doors may block the sisle and the homemaker may find the kitchen uncomfortable or unsafe. The USDA recommends the aisle should be a minimum 48 inches wide

The one-wall kitchen generally is found in efficiency apartments and small summer cottages. It's a real space-saver, since everything is withto easy reach of the homemaker. The mam drawback is inadequate countertop space.

Proper cabinet space next to each appliance is important in each kitchen style, according to the USDA. The average kitchen holds from 85 to 110 utensils, electric housewares and othor items. These should be located where they are first used.

Resa Jo Marsh - Carl Raymond Jerls

For her wedding March 5 in the First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights, Resa Jo Marsh carried a lace handkerchief from her maternal great-grandmother, and her rings were from her paternal grandmother.

Resa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al-Fred W. Marsh Jr. of Mount Prospect, and Carl Raymond Jerls, son of Mr. and Rufus Jerls of Wonder Lake, exchanged vows and rings in a 5 p.m. candlelight ceremony. Afterwards they were feted at a dinner for 100 at Northbrook Holiday Inn.

'The bride's gown was of candlelight iersey with an Alencon lace and seed pearl motif at the midriff. Her floorlength chiffon veil fell from a lace cap, and she carried a cascade of white carnations, apricot roses and baby's breath.

MAID OF HONOR was DeeEllen Ervin of Lawrence, Kan., and Jack Stell, Algonquin, was best man. The other four attendants included

Cindy Marsh, Resa's sister, and Christine Barrett, Palatine, as bridesmaids and Joel Soderberg, Rolling Meadows, and Rob Crowe, Algonquin, groomsmen.

The three bridal attendants were gowned alike in apricot jersey trimmed in rust and rust picture hats accented with the apricot color. Nosegays of apricot daisy mums, orange carnations and baby's breath formed their bouquets.

The ceremony featured guitar playing by Peg-a Paluch, who was also joined by Kitty Moore in a duet. Both are friends of the bride.

The doctor says

Infections, allergies may affect digestion

Three years age I was tested for factose intelerance. I can only absorb one per cent of lactore. They told me to cut out all milk and milk products.

Now there are other things that are giving me the same symptoms as the lactose. Some of these things are all fruits except bananas, pretzels, potato chips, onions, sauerkraut, certain donnts and cakes, ricotta cheese but not mezzarella cheese, sour cream, some chocolates, erange juice and grape juice.

I was using Peto-Bismol to step the diarrhea and cramping but it stopped helping. The doctor gave be Lometil and it works pretty

Could you please tell me why these and other things are bothering me now? Is there any way to get over this problem or help

Inability to split the double milk sugar, lactose, is sometimes just part of the clinical picture of another problem, including an infection with amoeba and another organism called giardia. Infestation with either of these parasites is sometimes difficult to diagnose. Both can be picked up in more tropical areas but do occur almost anyplace these days.

Inflammation of the digestive tract from any cause can lead to poor production of enzymes from the intestinal wall cells that normally help you digest your food. Intolerance to milk may be temporary after infectious diarrhea or even after surgery, for example gall bladder surgery. Then you may also have food al-

High on the list of all allergies is an allergy to gluten, a protein from wheat. You can get flour with the gluten protein in it from surprising sources, including cream soups, ice cream, hot dogs and luncheon meats.

There is no way I can tell you which of these many problems you have, but you can try a test on yourself, Get your pharmacist to help you get some pure dextrose (glucose) that you can use for sugar. Then eliminate all other sweets, all milk and milk products, all cereals, fruit and eat only the meat group and use dextrose flavored with a little lemon juice to provide you with about 50 grams of glucose a day.

This strict diet is simply to find out if your problem is just diet related. It is not a balanced dlet and you can't stay on it without vitamin and mineral supplements. If your symptoms go away, then you can start tracking down which of the many things you eat cause the problem. Add only one thing at a time. Of course, your doctor may want to test again for intestinal parasites and that may help solve the problem. Do not use coffee (not even the decaffeinated variety), tea, chocolate, colas or soda drinks or alco-

If you have no symptoms on that diet, then you can try adding other things. You can get Lact-Ald and use enough to convert nearly all the milk sugar to single sugars. That will enable you to use milk even if you do have lactose intolerance. You can get Lact-Aid from Sugario Company, 3540 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic City, N.J 08404.

If all goes well, then you can add ordinary sugar, then rice flour and other substances that do not contain any wheat flour and possible gluten sources. I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-2, Milk Products: Good and Bad. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Housecleaning basics contained in bulletin

Dear Dorothy: Can you recommend a reference book on caring for a home? It could have instructions for electrical repairs and such but I'm more interested in how to care for carpets, removing stains, cleaning solutions and daily and monthly care.-Mrs. Ethel

There hasn't been a book like this that I know of since the mid-40s. However, Cornell University issued a highly informative bulletin on "Basics of Housecleaning and Home Care" by Grace Tasker, which answers many of the questions homemakers are interested in. It even contains a section on control of most household pests. Send a check for 30 cents and use the title above, adding Information Builetin 69, to Mailing Room, Bldg. 7, Research Park, Cornell U., Ithaca, N.Y. 14850.

Dear Dorothy: I got an automatic coffee machine for Christmas The basket became quite stained. I poured in some hot water and sprinkled in some cleaner; let it set for 15 minutes, then rinsed. Presto, it was spotless.-Mrs. M.E. Jenkins

Dear Dorothy: If any of your readers has had difficulty in stuffing a pillow or toys with foam rubber and had the stuff stick to hands and arms. I urge them to try washing with any product that claims to prevent static electricity. It works.—Win Smith

Dear Dorothy: We have a new large electric oven. There were no instructions with the oven so I'm cursous about several things. For instance, is there such a thing as an oven thermometer? Does one place the racks differently for baking or for other oven uses? I only know what to do with the broller.-Mrs. Marvin

Write immediately to the manufacturer and ask for a copy of the Instructions. No one ought to operate any appliance, and particularly a big one, without a careful study of the instructions. You should hear promptly. As for an oven thermometer, by all means get one - at any good housewares department or notions section. Every household should have one. Recipes sometimes don't turn out just right and this is when an oven thermometer serves as a useful check. Normally, for ordinary baking one uses the rack in the center position with the pan in the center of the rack. The instructions should tell you this and much more.

Bulls drive past Knicks, close in on Kansas City

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

There seems to be nothing the Chicago Buils cannot accomplish and what they pulled off Friday, aside from winning their seventh straight and 14 of their last 15, was blow out the highest paid team in the NBA by the loosided margin of 105-87.

The most recent victims were the New York Knicks, who sport such wallet stuffers as Bob McAdoo, Jim McMillian and Spencer Haywood, the latter having missed 47 games already this year including Friday

The Bulls, whose streak now makes them the hottest team in league, did it with a 16-point third quarter blitz that brought the Stadium's nearly-full house of 17,834 to their feet and sent the Knicks to their bench in total con-

TO PUT THE final touches on the evening, the Bulls gained a full game on the Kansas City Kings in their race for the remaining playoff spot. The Kings lost in overtime to the New Orleans Jazz, 100-94.

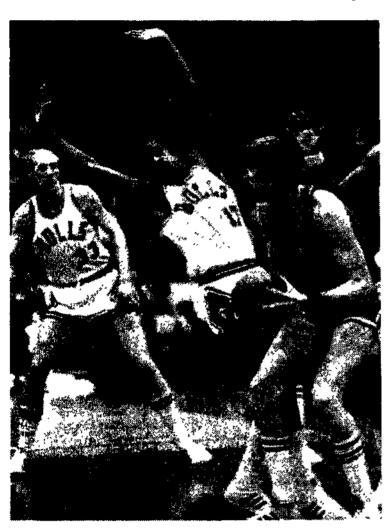

Bulls head coach Ed Badger, who is aware of the problems the Knicks are having, praised the defensive effort of his team, saying, "We played a helluva defensive game. It seemed like those five guys out there were giving a clinic.'

The Bulls put the game to sleep in the third quarter when Artis Gilmore (who led the Bulls with 21 points and grabbed 16 rebounds) went up four times before finally drawing a foul. Aided by 16 of 22 free-throw shooting in the third quarter, Chicago held New York scoreless for nearly six minutes.

Norm Van Lier hit a pull-up jumper from 15 feet to send the Knicks to the bench for regrouping, trailing 65-52, and brought the crowd to their feet for what seemed like the 20th stand-

"YOU CAN GET streaks like that with a running game," Badger said. "You have to push the ball up the floor before (Earl) Monroe and (Walt) Frazier can set up on de14-12 when Gilmore hit a sweeping hook in the lane. The guard play of the Bulls propelled them to that early lead as Wilbur Holland (20 points)

GREAT SCOTT. The Bulls' Scott May (17) seems to be doing some magic trick to stop New York's Tom McMillen in second period Friday night at the Stadium. Phil Hicks of the Bulls comes up from the rear. Surging Chicago won again, 105-87.

The Bulls took the lead for good at and Van Lier (16) dealt out three assists apiece as the Bulls loped to a 27-20 first-quarter lead.

> "The previous game we beat New York," Badger said, "Norm went to the hole well and that's what we wanted him to do tonight."

Van Lier felt his penetration played a minor part in the game, saying "Defense was the key tonight. I really think the whole team is playing good

RESERVE FORWARD Phil Hicks came off the bench when Mickey Johnson picked up his third foul at 5:34 in the first quarter to try to put the stops on the Knicks' 25.5 point per game gunner, McAdoo. Although McAdoo finished with a game-high 26 points, Hicks was content with the job

"I had covered him the last time we played when Mickey came out of there," Hicks said. "You have to get right up on him when he gets the ball, because if you let him get his rhythm, a guy like McAdoo will shoot you right out of the building."

Red Holzman, who was treated to a standing ovation in his last Chicago coaching appearance, saw little else to please him. "That was a nice gesture (the ovation)," he said. "This team (Knicks) has problems. What is needed to straighten them out is hard to say. I don't think I have the an-

Badger, rather than citing New York's problems, laid the praise on his defense.

'We were forcing the Knicks to take the first 20 footer they could get. It's good defense when that's the best shot they can set."

In other NBA games Friday night, Indiana beat Atlanta, 103-95, Philadelphia defeated San Antonio, 113-110, Portland trumped the New York Nets 131-103, Detroit topped Golden State, 107-94 and Washington romped over Boston, 122-97.

PASSING FANCY. Debbie Brinkman of Forest View does some fancy passing Friday night at the Fremd Sectional Tournament. Victorious Fremd earned a "Sweet 16" berth and a chance to go downstate for the first-ever girls finals.

When opportunity finally knocked this season, the Vikings were ready. With a solid performance from start to finish, Fremd's girls basketball team earned a spot in the first-ever girls' "Sweet 16" by beating Forest View 65-51 at the Fremd Sectional Tournament final Friday night.

This is the first state tournament for girls, and to say Fremd, whose history is short but sweet, has been ready for it is an understatement.

FREMD COACH Carol Plodzien, who has said all along the first girls' tourney should have been a year ago, and her squad apparently have survived the wait.

Led by senior Connie Bruns' 23point performance, the Vikings victory enabled them to advance to the Barrington Super-Sectional Tuesday where they will play Wauconda.

"Bruns got hot," losing coach Al Beard said simply later. "There wasn't much we could do. That was the problem we had last time, too containing their guards."

Forest View lost to Fremd in the Mid-Suburban League championship game 49-42 March 12, the only previous meeting of the two division winners this season.

Bursting to an 8-0 lead, Fremd slowed and the Falcons rallied to end the Bruns' four-point play pushed Forest View three back after two periods.

IN THE FINAL HALF, Forest View quarter and within six at 57-51 with 2:13 left in the game. But the Vikings pulled away again by scoring the game's final eight points.

Debbie Brinkman was Forest View's high scorer with 15 points, and the seniors underneath the basket helped the Falcons stay close. Senior Nancy Lachus added 10 for Forest View, while Schmidt came off the bench and turned in a strong performance with nine points.

Fremd, slightly taller but no more physical than the Faicons under the basket, did well there, too. Junior Doby Hamill with 10 and sophomore Pfaender with six.

Senior Colleen Cannon, Bruns' backcourt mate, had 12 points, including four of five from the free throw line.

"Hamill hurt us more than the last time we played," Beard said of Fremd's strong job in the middle. "And then the loss of Suchecki was too hard to make up for."

by ART MUGALIAN

Jim Lenzini of Libertyville exceeded the meet record in the shot put by nearly two feet, throwing 59-4% to take first place in the Wildcat Relays Friday night at the Wheeling High School fieldhouse.

The record distance earned the Libertyville senior the meet's Outstanding Male Athlete Award.

While Lenzini's new mark was perhaps the most impressive of four boys' and two girls' records, the most incredible performance by a team was displayed by King High School of Chicago, the winner in a field of 18 boys' squads. King sprinted past runnerup Glenbrook North by 14 points.

LED BY HURDLER Jerome Brown and do-everything James Gage, the King trackmen scored 60 points while racking up six first places, including a pair of big, 10-point relay wins.

Brown started off the festivities by winning the 50-yard high hurdles in 6.3. and later his teammates capped the evening's excitement by turning on the speed one more time for a 4:05.4 victory in the 12-lap relay.

In between, Brown won the 50-yard low hurdles in 6.1 and led off King's winning four-lap relay (1:10.7), Gage won the 50-yard dash in 5.54, finished second in the triple jump, and took third in the long jump. Keith Whitfield won the 440-yard run for King in 53.1.

Wheeling's girls captured four firsts, including records in the fourlap (1:21.6) and eight-lap relays (3:00.5). Also entering the winner's circle for Wheeling were high jumper Sandy Rainey, who reached 5-2, and Gail Miloch, who rattled off a 5:24.1 in the mile.

RAINEY AND Miloch finished the basketball season only last Wednes-

Miloch was named the meet's top female athlete.

The Wheeling boys managed just two points - in the mile run, where Ben Sanchez finished fourth in 4:35.7.

Fenton's Jim Spivey, only a junior, shattered the meet record in the twomile by clocking a 9:23, running virtually alone most of the way. Spivey ran 20 seconds ahead of his nearest competitor and hardly broke a sweat. The Bison distance ace, second last year in the Class AA cross-country finals, didn't attempt to double in the mile.

Lenzini's 59-434 shot put effort not only shattered the meet mark of 57-71/2 set in 1973 by state champion John Sloan of Rolling Meadows; it also established another Libertyville High School record for the big 'Cat senior. He had eclipsed the school standard a week ago in his first indoor meet of

"That was a surprise - 59 feet," said Libertyville track coach Gary Hodgson. "We figured he might throw 58 but not 59-5.1

LENZINI'S TOSS was more than nine feet better than the second-place distance reached by Dave Perez of Glenbard North. The record, however, didn't surprise Lenzini's weight coach, Jim Greenwaldt.

"We wanted him to get the record," said Greenwaldt. "We knew he was capable of it. He's a lot stronger this year and he's ready psychologically as well as physically."

When the outdoor season begins, Lenzini will throw the discuss in addition to his duties in the shot-put ring. Greenwaldt expects him to reach the finals downstate in both events.

Another of Libertyville's trackmen showed a career-best performance Friday. Junior high jumper Bob Bedard cleared 6-1 for third place, but it was a thrilling jump-off between Mundelein's Mark Schrimpf and Glenbrook North's Ed Kerr that produced another meet mark.

Storm team picks Windy City field

The Chicago Storm will play its 12-inch, slow-pitch softball home games at the Windy City Softball Stadium in suburban Bridgeview, Storm management announced Friday.

"We have contracted with the owners of the Windy City Stadium to play our entire home schedule of 28 games on their field," said Storm General Manager Frank Mariani, a Rolling Meadows resident.

"The playing site is ideal for our game purposes with plenty of good seating, 300-foot fences, and it is easily accessible with more than adequate parking facilities."

The Storm, coached by Milt Pappas, former major league pitcher, will open its home season on Sunday night, May 29, against Detroit.

All home games are double-headers and will be played on weekends beginning at 7:30 p.m. The Windy City Softball Stadium is located at 9900 S. 76th Ave.. Bridgeview and is reached via the Tri-State Tollway (95th St. exit).

Cubs, Sox drop one-run decisions

They went about it in different ways, but both the Cubs and White Sox lost one-run games Friday in spring training action. Gil Flores' third hit of the game, a single in the eighth inning, broke up a pitching duel and enabled the California Angels to edge the Cubs 1-0. Atlanta whipped the White Sox in 13 innings, 11-10.

The Cubs showed strong pitching work from Rick Reuschel who went six innings and yielded only three hits. But Mike Cuellar was just as tough for California with a yield of two hits over six Culifornia's Bob Jones opened the eighth inning with a walk but was forced. A stolen base, throwing error and single gave the Angels their only run.

The White Sox tled the game in Palm Beach in the ninth inning on a two-run homer by Ralph Garr and had opportunities after that, but Atlanta cashed in the home half of the 13th for the victory.

An encouraging item for the Sox was the strong mound work of Lerrin LaGrow, who just came to the club in a trade for Clay Carroll. LaGrow retired the only five hitters he faced, striking out

Petraglia bowls to U.S. Open lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Johnny Petraglia of Staten Island, N.Y., seeking his first professional victory since 1974, grabbed the lead from Bill Spigner in Friday night's final match play games in the $100,000 PBA U.S. Open.

Petraglia started the final session of match play Friday trailing Spigner by 30 pins. But he took an early lead, continued to widen the margin and finished the night 168 pins ahead of his nearest Rounding out the five finalists for Saturday's nationally televised championship were Spigner of Hamden, Conn., Charlie Venable of Brooklyn, N.Y., Dave Davis of Atlanta and local favorite George Pappas of Charlotte.

Watson fires 67 for 1-shot lead

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. - Tom Watson, feeling relaxed and playing well, fired his second straight four-under-par 67 Friday to take a one-stroke lead at 134 after the second round of the $225,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

Danny Edwards, whose best finish so far this year was a tie for eighth in the Tucson Open, also shot a 67 over the 6,665-yard Harbour Town Golf Links to take second place at 135.

First-round co-leaders Graham Marsh and Hale Irwin didn't come close to matching their six-under-par 65s of the first round. Irwin missed putt after putt on his way to a two-over-par 73 and tinished the second round four strokes behind Watson.

Marsh, an Australian playing his first year on the PGA tour, fired a 72 for a two-day total of 137 - three strokes behind.

Chris wins as beau Burt watches

NEW YORK - Top-seeded Chris Evert, struggling through a hard-fought 6-2, 7-5 victory over Virginia Wade while giving occasional desperation glances at her new beau, actor Burt Reynolds, joined Sue Barker with two triumphs in the round-robin $150,000 Virgnia Slims Championship Friday night.

Evert wore down the 31-year-old Wade by moving her around the court splendidly, but it was not a typical Evert victory. The 22year-old Floridian seemed a step slower than usual and was pressed hard by Wade's aggressive net-charging tactics.

Everet was out late Thursday night with her "good friend" Reynolds.

Other news in the sports world...

John Naber tied an NCAA record with his ninth individual title Friday night and anchored the Trojans' awesome relay team as Southern Cal reached the brink of its fourth consecutive title at the 54th Annual NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships at Cleveland State University . . . Naber also set a record with 266 points in NCAA title competition, breaking Mark Spitz' record of 218, as he won the 100-yard backstroke in an American record :49.36 becoming the first man ever to win that event four times . . . The Trojans had 281 points after two days to runnerup Alabama's 120 and could well pass Saturday their 1976 total of 398. Billie Jean King needed only 55 minutes to finish off Marcie Louis, 6-2, 6-2, to advance to the finals in the $20,000 Lionel-McFarlin Cup Tennis Tournament in San Antonio . . . and Jim Schoenfeld.

Brewers don't see title but should make strides

by JOE SARGIS

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) - Alex Grammas has been around baseball most of his life, but he says he learned more about the game in 1976 while managing the Milwaukee Brewers than he had in any other year.

"I think the players learned something about me, too," Grammas says in referring to his first big league managerial season. "My hope now is that we can go from there and grow into a better team."

Grammas is a realist. He doesn't see his Brewers as a serious challenge to the New York Yankees and "all their stars," but he does think Milwaukee can improve on its last place finish of a year ago and move all the way up to second or third place in the American League East.

"WHILE IT'S no cinch," says Grammas, "I don't see how anyone can match the Yankees. They were a pretty damn good club last year and now they have added Reggie Jackson and Don Gullett. Our team is younger and maybe a little short on experience, but we expect to move up. I don't think we will finish 32 games behind New York this time."

Third baseman Sal Bando, of course, was Milwaukee's big winter acquisition - via the re-entry draft and the trade the Brewers made with Boston that brought over catcher Cecil Cooper should prove beneficial. Still another trade - with Kansas City - put outfielders Jim Wohlford and Jamie Quirk, both solid hitters, in Milwaukee flannels, and that has to be considered a plus, too.

Strengths - Hitting with Bando, Cooper, Wolhford, Quirk, Don Money, who probably will play second base this year, and Sixto Lezcano and three solid starters in Jim Slaton, Bill Travers and Jerry Augustine.

WEAKNESSES - Behind the plate where Larry Haney had the best batting average in 1976 and it was only .226, and the bullpen where Bill Castro, Eduardo Rockiguez, Ken Sanders and Kevin Kobel will have to improve dramatically to save some of the games the hitters have "won."

New Faces - Bando, who is pleased to have escaped Oakland and showed it this spring with solid hitting, Cooper, Wohlford, Quirk and outfielder Steve Brye.

Outlook: Not a pennant contender, but probably the equal of every club in its division save the Yankees. Could make dramatic strides in 1977.

Barry Dean in the second period and Dave Hudson in the third.

NCAA tourney tips off with action in Atlanta

by CHRIS SCHERF UPI Sports Writer

Marquette's Al McGuire and Nevada-Las Vegas' Jerry Tarkanian, each already convinced someone is out to get them, are matched in today's NCAA national semifinals against North Carolina teams that seem to be blessed by destiny.

Marquette's Warriors, attempting to give McGuire a long-sought national championship as a retirement gift, advanced to the national semifinals in Atlanta's Omni by defeating Wake Forest, 82-68, in the Midwest Regional

The Warriors' victory, coming two days after McGuire claimed officials of the NCAA "brainwashed" referees into calling technical fouls on him, set up a semifinal contest at 1.15 against the University of North Carolina-Charlotte, which upset top-ranked Michigan, 75-68, for the Midwest Regional title.

LAS VEGAS' Rebels, reportedly un-der investigation by the NCAA, outsprinted Idaho State in the second half of the Western Regionals for a 107-90 victory and a semifinal berth against Eastern champ, North Carolina at 3:15.

The Tar Heels, who entered the Eastern final against Kentucky already crippled by injuries, were further handicapped by the loss of guard Phil Ford in the second half, but still managed a 79-72 victory as John Kuester directed 15 minutes of "fourcorners" for North Carolina.

Ironically, McGuire's one last shot at a national title was preserved by 6-foot-9 Bernard Toone, the coach's favorite whipping boy, who scored 18

McGUIRE HAS used Toone sporadically this season, but freely admits the sophomore is more talented than others playing ahead of him.

"Bernard is a first-round draft choice," said the outspoken and sometimes outrageous McGuire, who has complained in the past about Toone being the only player he could not motivate. "Bernard is probably the purest shooter in the country. But it doesn't make any difference how well he played today — he could have scored 32 points — I won't start him ın Atlanta."

McGuire kept his explosive temper under control against Wake Forest and there were none of the technical fouls, which have plagued his previous efforts in the NCAA tournament.

"IF WE WERE going to blow it, I wanted one of our players to blow it," McGuire said. "I've hogged the show in the past."

UNCC coach Lee Rose has charged the major college powers have been ducking the 49ers, but there's been no place to hide in the NCAA tourna-

Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell, who made third-team All-America, scored 25 points and Lew Massey added 19 as UNCC fell apart before a furious Michigan comeback early in the second half and then regrouped to defeat the Wolverines.

"When they came back, they exhausted themselves," Rose said. "But we maintained our poise "

UNCC ALWAYS has played in the shadow of the Atlantic Coast Conference and especially the North Carolina Tar Heels. Even in making it to the national semifimals, the 49ers were unable to steal the spotlight from Dean Smith's Tar Heels

The Tar Heels entered the season as one of the top favorites for the national title with Olympians Ford, Walter Davis and Tom LaGarde. But as soon as tournament time came around, La-Garde went out for the duration with a leg injury and Davis broke a finger on his shooting hand.

Although racquets and balls will be provided, he participant must wear tennis shoes. For reservations call The Court House at 882-4636.

Kuester and freshman Mike O'Koren managed to guide the Tar Heels through the ACC tourney and the early games of the NCAA, but hyperextended his elbow in a win over Notre

AGGRAVATING the injury in the first minute of the second half against Kentucky, Ford was forced to the bench and Smith put his faith in Kuester and his notorious four-corners offense Kuester sank all eight of his free throws during that span to preserve North Carolina's victory. Tarkanian, considered a bit too crafty by some NCAA officials since his coaching days at Long Beach State, used a bit of psychology to pull the Rebels past Idaho State, which previously had eliminated UCLA from the tournament.

"The first half we played against Idaho State was the worst for us this year," Tarkaman said "At halftime I opened up on them, but good. I got madder in the locker room than I've been at a halftime and, by the time we went back on the floor, the players were mad at me "

The Rebels may have been mad at Tarkanian, but they took it out on Idaho State by shifting their highspeed offense in overdrive. Eddie Owens led the Rebels' offensive with 24 points

'Rapid' transit for white-water rafting

by JIM COOK Outdoor Editor

Looking to plunge into the outdoors this spring? Or at least get your feet White-water rafting can literally promise both and it is an adventure not soon to be forgotten. The activity is bordering on the "craze" stage both in the east and west where wild rivers provide the tracks for a rollercoaster trip through foaming rap-

The thoroughly refreshing and sometimes drenching experience has forced the emergence of several outfitters who book trips well in advance, supply the proper gear and provide transportation to and from the launching and docking points.

ONE OF THE most appealing attractions of the sport is that you only need gym shoes and a little nerve to enjoy it. A few simple instructions about which way to lean and distribute weight and a warning about floating down the river head first if the craft capsizes and you're ready.

The excitement is now enjoyed by thousands of persons each year. It is a thrill rarely duplicated.

Despite its fear-provoking description, white-water rafting has a safety record that makes checkers sound like a contact sport. The bulky, but soft and cushiony inflated rafts take a head-on collision with a rock better than the shock-absorbing, collapsible bumpers on a new car.

The crafts are piloted by licensed and seasoned guides and all riders are required towear Coast-Guard-approved personal floatation devices.

THE TYPICAL white-water rafting season begins in April and closes in late September. Trips are available for as short as an hour or up to seven

One outfitter on the Youghiogheny River in Ohiopyle, Pa., (50 miles southeast of Pittsburgh), offers a ride through 21 sets of rapids during a six and one-half mile journey. Rates (with a guide) are $25 per person or $20 during the week. Without a guide, rafts may be rented for $35 plus a $25

Western outfitters on the Green and Colorado Rivers furnish everything except personal effects on floats that range from 2-6 days.

Expect to pay slightly more for the scenery out west. $194 per person. A seven-day expedition is priced at $297. A two-day float, though, can be re-

If Burt Reynolds and his antics in the movie "Deliverance" didn't scare you off, there's nothing quite like the feeling of anticipation and hopelessness in a raft just before the current sucks you into the rapids.

WHITE-WATER rafting is gaining popularity in both the east and west. The rubber craft cruises last for hours or days, but there's never a full

Hunting on state property

Northern Illinois hunters will have and snipe) at Des Plaines Conessentially the same targets to shoot at while hunting state managed areas this fall. The most notable change is that squirrel shooting has been added to hunting at Silver Springs State Park in Kendall Co.

Opportunities offered will include permit pheasant and waterfowl hunting at Chain O' Lakes State Park, permit pheasant, dove and upland game (including pheasant, quall, rabbit, Hungarian partridge, woodcock servation Area in Will Co.

Permit dove, squirrel, upland game, archery deer and waterfowl seasons will be permitted at Kankakee River State Park and permit dove, squirrel, upland game and archery deer at Silver Springs.

The Will Co. Wildlife Management Area and William Powers-Wolf Lake Conservation Area will again be open to waterfowl hunting.

Big bass in Illinois lakes

Maybe it took Ed Waibel's monster 13-pound, 1-ounce state record largemouth bass to draw attention to northern Illinois' fishing opportunities.

Although Waibel yanked the lunker from a stone quarry pond, the amazing trophy seemed to shatter the traditional belief that big bass could only be caught downstate where warmer temperatures and longer growing season were more conducive to producing lunkers.

Now, according to the Illinois Wildlife Federation's 1977 fishing prospects pamphlet, two lakes within easy driving distance of the area are considered among the top seven in the state for housing tackle-straining bucketmouths.

East Loon Lake, a thoroughly underrated lake that has always yielded its share of mounting-size northern pike and largemouth bass and Four Lakes Fishing Area, a miniature 17.8 acre pond that is holding largemouth bass averaging 2½ pounds.

The survey, conducted by Illinois Dept. of Conservation fish biologists who annually stock many of the lakes for sampling purposes and veteran anglers who regularly fish the lakes, does not take into account the extremely harsh winter that suffocated shallow ponds and lakes, completely killing entire fish populations.

Biologists suggest pounding the south end of the lake and shorelines with Big O's beetle spins and Bomber baits. The average largemouth weight is a whopping three pounds.

5. GILLESPIE LAKES (NEW & OLD) - At 207 acres, this body of water gives Macoupin Co., a tremendous 1-2 punch for black bass. The lakes are located 31/2 miles west and 1½ mile north of Gillespie.

The best month is May, but fishing in September and October has also been fruitful. Fish the south shoreline and east side bays with Big O's to turn the bass with an average weight of three pounds.

Early April, May, June and September fishing around weed beds and submerged trees is effective. Cast Bombers and spinning lures for best results.

7. BALDWIN LAKE - located in Randolph Co., two miles morthwest of Baldwin. The rectangular 2,018 acre cooling lake for a power company has given up nine-pound bass in the past. Its continual warm-water environment is a breeding ground for forage fish, the main diet of largemouth. The weed beds at the south end of the lake and channels are most productive when attacked with jig and eel combinations, plastic worms, Big O's, spinner baits and Little George's.

Marathon field filling

Officials of the 20th annual Des Plaines River Canoe Marathon May 22 have begun accepting applications for the colorful 19-mile event.

Entry blanks are available from the Chicagoland Canoe Base in Chicago or by calling 777-1489. Limited numbers of canoes and kayaks are also available for rental in the race. The first 1,000 entries will be eligible to compete in the day-long festivities that surround the contest, beginning at Oak Spring Rd. in Libertyville and concluding at Dam No. 2 in Wheeling.

SEVERE DROUGHT conditions have created low-water hazards at some points along the route, but marathon founder Ralph Frese insists the event will be conducted "even if we have to run along side the cances and pull them."

Two new divisions in the race have been added. There will be competition in C-2 Master's Class for people 40 and over and in K-1 Junior Class for individuals in kayaks.

If past performances hold true, the 1.000-craft field will be completely filled in 10 days. Entry fee this year is $4, up $1 from last year's cost.

Effects of winter kill measured

Winter fish kills do not usually affect carp, but this year even rough fish were suffocated in several lakes in northeastern Illinois due to extreme cold weather conditions." This additional gauge of the severity of the coldest winter on record was recently given by Illinois Dept. of Conservation Regional Fishery Biologist Gary Erickson.

Ice cover only in the last week has completely left all the waterways of the Chicago area, making it possible to assess the damage to the area's fishery population.

"Although the fish kills were unusually severe, in most cases they were not expected to adversely affect anglers in the Chicago area," Erickson said. "This is because most of the dieoffs occurred in lakes with either limited public access or unbalanced fish populations and very shallow water."

THE MAJOR exception to this circumstance is extensive fish kills in Cook Country Forest Preserve District lakes and sloughs.

Unusually thick ice over the winter limited the amount of sunlight that could get through to aquatic plants which in turn, through the process of photosynthesis, produce oxygen for the fish to breath.

Major fish kills reported to Department of Conservation biologists in the Chicago area are:

Cook County Forest Preserve District ponds and sloughs suffering severe fish kills were, Saganaskee Slough, Belly Deep Slough, Papoose Lake, Tuma Lake, the Tampier marshes north of 131st St.

JOE'S POND, McGuinness Slough, Sag Quarry West, Schiller Pond and all shallow marshes associated with lakes or wildlife refuges. The Cook County Forest Preserve District has indicated that it will restock these fish with fingerlings this summer.

• Milliken Lake at Des Plaines Conservation Area, Will County, (22 acres), suffered a 100% fish kill. Although small, this lake is one of the few public fishing lakes in Will County. It will be restocked with bass, channel catfish, and panfish this summer. It had been closed for the past three years in order to build up a population of game fish and would have been ready this year to be fished · Dead River in the nature preserve at Illinois Beach State Park, Lake County. Substantial die-offs of carp, bass and northern pike were discovered in this very sluggish river, where fishing is not allowed.

• Slocum Lake near Wuaconda, Lake County, (215 acres), suffered complete fish kill. Some 60,000 pound of carp were removed. It is not deemed a severe loss to anglers and to fishery billogists because nearly all the fish in the lake were carp. • IROQUOIS RIVER near Sugar Island, Kankakee County, suffered extensive kills of channel catfish, carp, and buffalo which were discovered in this section of the river where water was extremely low. Nearly 800 large channel catfish were found dead along the bank of the Iroquois in a one-mile • Pistakee Lake, Lake County (17 acres) lost sizeable numbers of bluegill, bass and crappie at the south end of Pistakee Lake in Pistakee Bay. Only this small section of the lake was affected, however, because it is away from the channel. Previous tests for dissolved oxygen in the water showed that there was none in the bay area.

• Duck Lake, Lake County, (99 acres), which contains primarily rough fish, lost a large percentage of its fish population.

"How was I to know?" groaned South. "No way," replied North. "Machia-velli himself couldn't have used a better bit of hocus-pocus."

West had cashed the ace and king of diamonds and shifted to a spade. South had won in his own hand, led the five of hearts and finessed dummy's queen. Without a moment's hesitation East had dropped the eight spot.

South had returned to his hand with the queen of clubs in order to lead the jack of trumps. If that eight had been played from 10-8 doubleton, South would pick up the whole suit and make an overtrick. If it had been a singleton, South would lose one heart to West and make his contract. Unfortunately for South. West held the singleton and once South led the jack East was sure of two trump tricks and South's nice game had disappeared forever.

We can't absolve South completely. He had a sure-fire safety play at his disposal. He could have led a low heart instead of the jack from his hand. This would give him an overtrick if East had played the eight from 10-8-3 and would have insured the contract against any and all trump breaks.

famous law of motion that proved that the paths of the planets and moon in their orbits could be explained by some invisible force of gravity.

In 1672 or 1687 — historians aren't sure which year — Sir Isaac Newton came up with a statement called Newton's Law of Universal Gravitation He said that the same force that kept the planets in their orbits also made objects fall to the ground He added that this attraction exists between any two masses regardless of their position. The attraction occurs to both masses equally because the first mass attracts the second mass with the same force as the second attracts the first

In other words, gravity is the force of attraction by which an object tends to fall toward the center of the earth

The force of gravity which earth exerts on a body is called weight Because the surface of the earth is farther from the center at the equator, the force exerted on a body is smaller and weighs less there than at the poles A 180-pound man would weigh one pound less at the poles than he does at the

Rising jobless insurance rate hurts firm, but consumers pay

The unemployment compensation rate for the Pioneer Screw and Nut Co., 2700 York Rd., Elk Grove Village, this year is five times the amount it was in 1975 and eventually consumers will absorb the increase.

Ironically, the firm is paying for help wanted advertisements while at the same time paying an additional $12,000 this year to help fund the state's insurance fund for unemployed

Irwin Danz, company treasurer, said the state will have to make changes in unemployment insurance regulations to curb skyrocketing increases in rates companies are pay-

DANZ SAID in 1975, Pioneer, which has 300 employes and produces threaded fasteners, paid .6 per cent of its annual payroll into the fund. This year 4 per cent of Pioneer's payroll will be paid to support unemployment insurance claims.

"Many people have taken advantage of the laws." Danz said, adding there should be laws requiring people collecting benefits to take job offers.

Consumers pay for excessive payments to jobless workers, said Warren Rogers of the Warren Rogers Printing Co., 611 S. Vermont St. in Palatine. Rogers, who said he "hasn't gotten the bill yet," for unemployment insurance payments, said he's been lucky because no claims have been filed against the firm which employs 13

"But there are a lot of people out of work and the money to pay them has to come from somewhere," Rogers said. He said state standards should be more stringent.

Rogers' call for tighter eligibility standards was seconded by Jim Lancaster, president of the Bank of Elk Grove, 100 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village. Within the past year, the bank's unemployment insurance rate has doubled to 1.5 per cent of the annual payroll.

LANCASTER SAID the bank has protested some claims, "and our experience has been pretty good." The rate hike "is just one phase of the picture that is causing a deterioration of the business climate in Illinois,"

Lancaster said, of the cost of workmen's compensation.

An employer's unemployment insurance rate is based on the firm's track record of people leaving and the overall condition of the state insurance fund, said Leonard Day, labor relations specialist with the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

As of March, the fund is $700 million in the red, Day said. These funds, borrowed from the federal government, must be repaid.

At the same time, the statewide average rate among employers' payrolls for jobless benefits has increased from .9 per cent in 1976 to more than 3.3 per cent this year, Day said.

The state chamber has drafted a bill aimed at correcting abuse of Illinois payments. Day said.

"Unemployment insurance should be for those involuntarily unemployed, he said. "Now, many are getting paid who are not involuntarily unemployed."

The state chamber's proposed reforms, which Day said are slated for introduction next week in the Illinois General Assembly include:

• Disqualifying people for quitting voluntarily. If a person leaves a job for marital or domestic reasons, there would be a restriction on benefits.

• Trimming benefits to six or eight weeks for people who quit without good cause or if they were discharged for misconduct or if they refuse suitable work offered by the state. Under Illinois law, 26 weeks' benefits, plus extended benefits of another 13 weeks may be offered.

• Considering a person ineligible for benefits if he is involved in a labor dispute, such as a lockout or refusal to cross picket lines.

• Changing the qualification for children's allowance to 50 per cent support, from the current 25 per cent support standard

Allowing employers to challenge a recipient's availability for work.

· Basing benefits on take-home, rather than gross pay.

• Establishing a variable benefit period, from 10 th 26 weeks, based on earnings. Current payments extend 26 weeks for all recipients.

The proposed reforms would not result in relief for employers this year, but future improvements might be expected, Day said.

Imports take 51% of shoe market

Footwear manufacturers reported Friday foreign shoe imports took a record 51 per cent of the domestic market last January, threatening to destroy their industry in the United States. Mark Richardson of the American Footwear Industries Assn. told a news conference that the figures provide a convincing reason why President Carter should impose import quotas on shoes. Carter has until April 9 to determine what form of import relief the government will provide for the American shoe industry. The International Trade Commission recommended restrictive tariffs, but the industry has demanded quotas. "uota opponents argue against them on grounds they reflect a protectionist trade policy.

'Banks don't live up to their ads'

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., accused the banking profession Friday of failing to live up to its own television commercials about helping communities. Presiding over a hearing of the Senate Banking Committee, Proxmire confronted representatives of banking groups with samples of their TV ads, printed out on large charts. Proxmire contended that banking institutions as a whole aren't investing enough in the economic development of their communities. He said $55 billion of their $382 billion in loans during the last four years went overseas. The hearing was on a bill Proximire has introduced which would require bank regulatory agencies, in ruling on applications to open new branches, to take into account what percentage of deposits the hank planned to invest in its immediate community.

Jewel to sell chicory coffee

In an effort to combat spiraling prices, Chicago's largest food chain Friday announced it is selling coffee containing chicory at about 40 cents less per pound than nationally advertised coffee brands. Jewel Food Stores, with more than 100 outlets, most of them in and around the Chicago area, said "Park Coffee with Chicory" is now being sold in one-pound quantities at $2.89. The coffee can be brewed the same as any regular ground coffee, a

Lake shipping season opens

The Cason J. Callaway, carrying 24,000 tons of taconite pellets from Two Harbors, Minn., arrived Friday at the U.S. Steel Corp. South Works to open the 1977 Great Lake shipping season in the Chicago area. The 1976 shipping season on Lake Michigan ended Jan. 25. 1977, during one of the coldest winters of the century, when the steamer Philip R. Clark went directly from the South Works to Milwaukee for winter layup.

Drought to hike food prices: U.S.

John Block, Illinois director of agriculture, said Friday there have been indications federal help will be forthcoming for droughtstricken farmers. Speaking informatly during an agricultural luncheon, Block said there has been "some progress in getting federal disaster help. I've seen some indication but I can't say exactly what form it will take in Illinois." Block, himself a Knox County bog farmer, said, "I hope we get some help for small towns to drill wells and build reservoirs." The 1977 farming year is "not lost yet," Block said, "but we'il have to look in August to see just how bad the drought was." He said it will be necessary this summer for many farmers to haul water for animals and to apply chemicals to their soil.

Long Island Press quits business

NEW YORK (UPI) - The 156-yearold Long Island Press, suffering increasing expenses and declining circulation, went out of business Friday - the latest in a long line of folded New York City newspapers.

In a front-page announcement the newspaper blamed its demise on union "featherbedding," soaring printing costs, declining advertising revenues and poor circulation over the last three years because of the flight of the middle class from the citv.

The Press, a Newhouse newspaper. had a daily circulation of 292,000 and Sunday circulation of 279,000, The death of the Press left New York City with only three major daily newspapers - the New York Daily News, The New York Times and the New York Post - and left a stall of 600 - Including 110 editorial employes – without jobs.

THE PRESS was the latest of New York City's newspapers to fold. At the start of 1931 there were 17 major daily newspapers serving the city. Then, in March of that year, the New York World merged with the New York Telegram.

Since then, 14 of those papers either folded outright or merged in a vain attempt to survive, including the Herald Tribune, which held on until 1966. when it merged with the Journal-American and World Telegram and Sun to become the World Journal Tribune. That paper folded just one year later

Both the Long Island newspaper Newsday and the Post - afternoon popers lke the Press - are expected to make the strongest blds for the Press readership in New York's borough of Queens. In January, Newsday began a special Queens Sunday section and will begin a Queens daily edition next week.

Battling inflation as an individual NEW YORK - If you're looking at a watermelon, it's hard for the salesman to convince you it's really a peach.

And one reason ordinary citizens tend to doubt the bland assurances from Washington that inflation is coming under control lies in their own personal experiences to the contrary.

I'm not talking here about the brutal, special shocks of a winter of frigidity and drought. Spring will thaw some of these, and others will balance out by the end of the year. I'm talking, instead, about the continuing, upward pressures on nearly all prices pressures that originate not with the weather but with Washington, that come not from polar temperatures but from political temporizing.

Not enough people make the connection in their minds. The explanation is simple: time lag. There are too many months between the heroic talk about expansion, employment and stimulation, and the villainous arrival of too much money in pursuit of too few goods that is inflation. The benefits seem instant; the backlash we can argue about tomor-

Dow Jones down 6.81 pts.

NEW YORK (UPI) - New York Stock Exchange issues finished their worst week in 15 months Friday with a seventh consecutive loss in second slowest trading day of the year.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 6.81 points to 928.86, bringing its seven-session loss to 39.14 points. For the week, it fell 32.16 points, the worst performance since it lost 41.87 points the week ended Dec. 5, 1975.

Late selling followed a report that Bethlehem Steel's first quarter is expected to be "unprofitable" because of the severe winter weather, the stock, a dow average component, lost 3/8 to 36-7/8.

The NYSE common stock index skidded 0.33 to 53.92 and the average price of a common share decreased by 20 cents.

Declines topped advances, 902 to 488. among the 1,868 issues crossing the composite tape at 4 p.m. EST.

Production has started on "Alexander: The Other Side of Dawn," a two-hour NBC movie starring Leigh J. McCloskey and Eve Plumb. The film is a sequel to "Dawn: Portrait of a Teenage Runaway," and will focus on Alexander's efforts to find a legitimate job and start and new life for himself and Dawn. -

"The Amazing Howard Hughes," a four-hour special which traces the life and career of one of the world's most mysterious men, will be telecast in two parts Wednesday, April 13 and Thursday, April 14 on the CBS Television Network, The special is based on Noah Dietrich's book!

Hal Holbrook will head a distinguished cast including Ned Beatty, Barbara Bel Geddes and Sada Thompson in Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," on NBC, Monday, May 30. The special television approach to the play was worked out with the late playwright over the last three years. of his life.

At this time NBC is still planning to telecast "Jesus of Nazareth," the six-hour epic on April 3 and April 10, even though General Motors has backed out of sponsoring the program. The network is looking for sponsors to share the cost rather than a single firm picking up the entire tab.

Tom Snyder will host "The National Disaster Survival Test," a home-audience participation special to test Americans on their knowledge and ability to survive a natural or man-made disaster, on NBC Sunday, May 1.

Dale Wolthoff carefully gets off the Lake Street "L" at Adams and Wabash and heads to work.

The short walk up Dearborn to the Internal Revenue Service offices is one he makes every day. It is no different in August than it is now in March. It is always accompanied by the sound of tapping on the concrete around him.

The walk takes him to the tall, black John C. Kluczynski Federal Building. He enters through a revolving door and steps automatically toward the second set of elevators. Only a handful of people are gathering outside.

As he reaches the eighteenth floor, the time is approaching 7:45 a.m. Work does not start until 8, but Welthoff is almost always early.

He has a "compulsion" about being on time. It is something that was bred into him back on the farm in Minnesota; his father had always demanded punctuality. Wolthoff would just as soon not come in at all if he is going to be late.

When he gets to his desk, he folds his collapsible cane into quarter parts and leans down to his right, placing it, without turning his head, under the flat metal cabinet next to his desk.

A co-worker comes up as he begins to put his desk in order, and asks Wolthoff a technical question relating to pensions. Wolthoff offers an answer, explaining in similar technical terms, and feels with his fingers for the lock to his desk.

He takes out information on the cases he will be working on today and his calculator, and positions the silver-gray braille typewriter on the center of his desk.

At 8 a.m., Wolthoff turns on his phone, and it rings.

His day at the IRS has begun.

Across the hall, the group of taxpayers waiting to talk with taxpayer service representatives is much smaller than most people would expect in tate March as the deadline for filing approaches.

More than two dozen chairs are set up in the waiting area adjacent to the rows of semi-isolated cubicles. Many of the chairs are empty.

In early February, says Barbara Del Bene, a tax auditor who helps out with taxpayer questions during the January-to-April filing season, people were lined up outside the large office into the hall.

But now, says Steve Mongeliazzo, IRS public affairs, the office is experiencing the calm before the storm.

Contrary to popular belief, activity at the IRS does not build up gradually from the first of the year to a mad frenzy at April 15. It comes in spurts.

During most of the filing season, the activity is steady and manageable.

It is in the first couple of weeks of February and a week or two before the April 15 deadline that the rush takes place.

"It's busy in February because the W-2s go out at the end of January," Ms. Del Bene says.

Most of the taxpayers who seek assistance then are filing relatively uncomplicated forms that will bring refunds. On the other hand, most of those who file in April take more time when they ask the IRS for assistance because their tax situation is more complex and they have to pay additional taxes.

"In other words, they put it off for good reason," Ms. Del Bene says, "The first week in April is busy not so much because of the volume but because people have put it off because of large returns."

The fluctuation in activity at the IRS is reflected in her work schedule. Today is one of three days Ms. Del Bene spends "on detail" working taxpayer assistance; the other two days she devotes to her normal tax auditing duties. In early February and in April she is assigned to taxpayer assistance full time.

The number of returns filed reflects the rise and fall of activity.

Filings from the twenty-six counties in the Northern Illinois District served by the Chicago office peaked at 361,000 during the week of Feb. 11. By the first week of March the figure had slumped to 233,000.

However, the biggest fallacy about heavy activity at the IRS is that April 15 is the most active day.

In the phone offices, James Ferrar, assistant chief of the taxpayer services division, is extolling the truth behind the myth,

"Everybody figures that the fifteenth is the busiest day," he says. "It really isn't. The Monday before April 15 is always the busiest day."

Ferrar runs the phone division of the taxpayer assistance program that occupies half of the twenty-seventh floor. It is now 10 a.m. and even during so-called slack periods in the filing season, it is a hectic time to be on the phones answering tax questions.

A bank of lights at the juncture of the L-shaped room monifors calls coming into the 120 IRS lines. It is a conglomeration of white, red and green lights. The red lights represent calls now going through; the white, calls that are on hold; and the green blinking lights represent calls placed on hold while representatives research the answers to inquiries.

The board is constantly lit up, and while most calls will eventually get through, the caller must be diligent to get the answer to his tax question.

Few calls go straight to a tax service representative. Generally, the call is not answered until after the seventh ring, and then it is answered by a recording:

"IRS. All our representatives are busy now. Please hang on the line, and the first available representative will help you."

The recorded message continues with further information about tax returns and includes an estimate that refunds on returns now being filed will be processed in four to six weeks. Then, there is a click and part of the message repeated.

The caller is left with silence. Typically, the silence will last seven to eight minutes until a representative picks up the phone and a red light replaces the white one on the board,

It's a busy season for Dale Wolthoff of the Internal Revenue Service as taxpayers ponder their returns and seek out the help of the experts.

One of the people answering the calls is Wolthoff. Wolthoff generally gets the more specialized calls. His specialty is pension.

The calls are referred depending on their complexity to three different levels of personnel. The first level includes the taxpayer service representatives and the 130 WAEs (when actually employeds), who are temporary help, they answer the basic questions.

At the second level are the taxpayer service specialists who will get referrals on questions relating to such things as pensions and state and gift taxes. A third level of people to (Continued on page 8)

Swimming to WIN WIN WIN

John Eliot has earned a reputation as a stern taskmaster who drives his swimmers as though they were Olympic hopefuls. But he's also a man in love with what he's doing and doing what he loves oh so well.

Photos by Anne Cusack and Mike Seeling

by Bob Gallas

Some call him the "Animal Trainer," partly because he occasionally throws styrofoam floats, or runs cold water on his swimmers to get their attention in the pool.

He's cocky and sometimes arrogant, demanding perfection and usually getting it from kids who come from as far away as Chicago and even Wisconsin to swim on his team. He's the aquatic version of Vince Lombardi, a nitpicker, a perfectionist who's so successful he's respected, yet often envied by his peers. In ten years of coaching, he's won eleven meets for every one he's lost.

If it floats, Camp Duncan YMCA swimming coach John Eliot will probably know something about it.

More than 200 swimmers aged seven to eighteen turned out for the Camp Duncan Dolphins this season, a number Eliot had to pare down to a "manageable 150."

Swimming is big business for this Volo YMCA team, which boasts a parent organization that raises most of the squad's annual budget, hosts meets that run from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. with up to 700 participants and sells programs that include seventy-six pages of advertising.

Eliot served seven years as aquatics director and swim coach at Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines before moving over to Camp Duncan four years ago. And things have really changed since the early days when a handful of swimmers turned out for the first practice.

"We started by swimming widths of the pool," he grinned. "When we did graduate to swimming lengths I had to walk along-side the pool to make sure they didn't stop and hold onto the lane markers for a rest."

First time observers of the "Eliot Machine" are a little stunned when they learn of the long practice sessions and the twice weekly meets. Obviously, Camp Duncan is not the place for those with a lack of dedication.

"I guess we're looking for someone who wants more than what the normal swim program has to offer," said Don Sammett of Palatine, chairman of the 100-family parent group that is pretty much the lifeblood of the program operating under the wing of the YMCA.

Swimming is a family affair for the Eliot family of Arlington Heights. John, a full-time coach whose salary is paid by the parents' association, works days out of his home office, nights at the Camp Duncan pool or the St. Viator pool, which the team rents because it needs the room for practice. Wife Jean, though she admits to "backing out little by little," attends most of the weekly meets from September through April as a meet official. Eliot's three sons still swim for their dad. His daughter is a "graduate" of the Dolphin program.

With a budget of $20,000 that must also cover awards, entry fees, travel and the salaries of two part-time assistant coaches, it's no secret that Eliot isn't becoming a rich man. But no one could be more satisfied with his lot in life.

"I guess each year I think a little about quitting, but then I get so involved watching these young people progress. I feel like I have to come back next year just to see what happens to them."

This year, the Dolphins took second place on both the boys and girls levels at the state YMCA meet last week, beaten as in years past, by their arch rivals, at the B.R. Ryall YMCA of Glen Ellyn. Ryall's swimmers have won both the boys and girls state titles every year since 1968, except 1972 when the Northwest "Y" boys won the honor. And the Northwest coach that year was none other than John Eliot. The season, however, is far from over for the Dolphins, who have qualified twenty eight swimmers for the YMCA national meet April 21-25 in Florida.

Eliot's swimmers are about as familiar a sight in second place at the state meet as Ryall is in first. But the winning margin was cut this year to less than 100 points from last year's 300. When a member of the Dolphins says "wait until next year" he really means it.

Eliot's boys and girls teams were given an outside chance to dethrone Ryall but for the fourth straight year the girls took second place. For the second year, the boys took second. Earlier in the season the boys beat Ryall's team which was minus several of its top older swimmers, while the girls lost by just a handful of points.

"The funds really aren't there for the YMCA to provide a program like ours," said Sammett, whose 12-year-old son, Frank, is a member of the Dolphin team. "But it's unreasonable for any 'Y' to afford a program like ours."

Despite the larger number of children who turn out for the program, as few as possible are turned away. Individual attention and instruction is paramount, and particular emphasis is given to making all team members feel like equal contributors. There are no "benchwarmers" at Camp Duncan.

"Several teams (from other programs) have so many kids that they have 'A' and 'B' squads competing at the same time at different sites," said Eliot. "But why should a kid grow up with a 'B' team mentality?"

With a team of 150, Eliot, too, has "A" and "B" teams, but the teams are balanced with good and struggling swimmers and members are switched around.

"One weekend, we had five meets going at the same time, all against so called 'A' teams," said Eliot. "And we won all five meets.

"When you go into the blocks to represent our team, nobody knows whether you're the first or tenth swimmer on the team. That way, the bottom kid is forced into the second or third spot and must pick up points. Our 'bench' swims."

The luxury of being able to switch around his squads is partly the result of Camp Duncan attracting many of the top swimmers in the area and some from outside the area. That has led to charges from outside that Camp Duncan recruits swimmers.

"We're very careful to stay away from anything that even looks like recruiting," said Sammett. "It's the success of the program that brings them in. We don't recruit."

Though Eliot and his two assistants, John Fleck and Jeff Fujino, had to cut hopefuls at tryouts this season, many potential Camp Duncan swimmers cut themselves long before trying out.

"A lot of the cutting process unfortunately takes place before we even see a swimmer," said Eliot. "There's a preconceived idea that we're so good, they couldn't make it. That couldn't be farther from the truth."

St. Viator freshman, Mike Harvey, one of the top high school distance swimmers in the area this year is a former Dolphin and an example Eliot likes to use to encourage potential swimmers.

"When Mike came to us as an eight-yearold we took him, even though he didn't do well in the time trials. He had an angular build and worked hard. The first few meets we put him in the outside lanes and he had super times. We thought our watches were wrong. By the end of the season he was one of our top swimmers."

Those who do make the team are expected to attend at least three, and sometimes more, practices a week, depending on their age group. With one or two meets per weekend during a season that runs from September to April, that's a lot of time in the water. Swimming is a lonely and often monotonous sport, but Eliot has a talent, a charm that keeps the swimmers coming back for more.

"Yes, he works the kids hard, but he has a very good way with kids," said Don Andersen, Arlington High School swim, coach and the dean of area coaches. "His rapport with kids at practice keeps it loose. He keeps them coming back."

Andersen has seen first hand Eliot's abilities as a coach. A number of Arlington swimmers are graduates of the Duncan program.

"I've seen definite improvement in the kids who've been in his program," said Andersen, whose team has won five Mid-Suburban League swimming titles in a row. "They're well trained and their mechanics are better."

Eliot has coached swimmers who have gone on to become star high school swimmers, and even state champions. Swimmers he started coaching ten years ago now come back for one-on-one help sessions if they're having trouble.

In his ten years Eliot has won about 165 meets and lost only fifteen. More than half of those losses have come at the hands of Eliot's nemisis, the powerhouse B.R. Ryall YMCA. The "Y" meets are huge, approaching 300 participants at times. Last week's satellite area championships were hosted by the Duncan team and had some 600 participants and a meet staff of 100, supplied by Duncan.

The parents group is the backbone of the Camp Duncan squad. The Dolphins sometimes travel around the Midwest to, meet some of the better YMCA teams in the coun(Continued on page 7)

movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments based on reports of the Independent Film Journal, for selected films of interest to readers.

"Fun With Dick and Jane" — Comedy spoof about an aerospace industry executive and his wife who find their affluent American Dream evaporate when he is suddenly unemployed. Crime becomes their only available ploy to avoid welfare and continue in their accustomed lifestyle. Stars George Segal and Jane Fonda. (PG).

"Rocky" — Sylvester Stallone wrote the script and stars as the title character in this small, unpretentious and genuinely involving story of a local clubhouse prizefighter who gets a chance-of-a-lifetime shot at the world heavyweight title and finds love and self-respect along the way. (PG).

"Bound for Glory" — The early career of legendary folk singer/composer Woody Guthrie provides the core to Hal Ashby's stunningly evocative tapestry of the Depression-era west, a beautifully framed but highly realistic look at the persistence of hope and humanism against barely surmountable odds. David Carradine is outstanding as Guthrie. An academy award nomination. (PG).

ARLINGTON — Arlington Heights — 255-2125 — "The Seven-Per-Cent Solution" (PG).

Participants in the program pay healthy fees that raise some of the money, $30 for the first child in the program, $15 for each additional child. Also charged is a "transportation" fee of $12 per child, with a $20 per family maximum. In addition, each child must "raise" an additional $50 by a variety of means, including swimathons staged by the team or the sale of ads for the meet program. In lieu of the child's raising the money, parents can simply pay the $50.

To raise the funds, the well-oiled parents organization works the concession stands at meets, where homemade cakes and cookies join the standard fare of hot dogs and Cokes. Mothers and fathers work as meet officials, timers, publicity agents. They schedule busses, make travel arrangements and sell advertising nine months of the year.

And if that isn't enough, the parents are already discussing expanding the program to a full 12 months, in order to take part in summer events staged by the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU).

Eliot's drive, his high-powered methods and sometimes cocky attitude has drawn the wrath of some area high school coaches. He admits he sometimes forgets that not every competitive swimmer wants the grueling training of an Olympic hopeful. He's openly critical of some high school coaches.

"High schools should be more concerned with who they put on the decks of their swimming pools. Too many times in high school, they get thousands of yards up and down the pool and not a lot of fundamentals."

Eliot hasn't exactly ingratiated himself with many of the high school coaches, who sometimes have seen their top talent opt to swim year round for the YMCA program under Eliot.

"It doesn't matter where you made that time when it comes to getting a college scholarship in swimming," said Eliot, "Your time is still good."

"I can only go by my son and some of the other kids I know," said Sammett who, like most who take the time to get to know Eliot, becomes a booster of the coach. "He can relate to and understand the kids of each age group. They believe him. He gets every bit of work out of a swimmer. But his coaching, his caring not only affects them in swimming, it helps mold their character.

"John starts all over and trains a swimmer in every stroke. That gives our team greater depth than many teams because our kids can do any stroke."

Critics of the high powered Dolphins picture them as elite swimmers who are pushed, bullied and pushed some more to win, win, win. What the critics don't explain is how Eliot manages to keep the interest of youngsters, if all he does is play the role of slavedriver.

"We have little pool time so our philosophy is that we have to use every minute wisely," countered Eliot. "As for goofing off, I think the coaches are more guilty of it than the kids."

Eliot is sometimes brash, but he has a true love of his sport and of children. Often his dedication is mistaken for cockiness, his pride in "his kids" is sometimes called boastfulness. But he is a man in love with what he's doing.

"No, I don't know why I'm still in it," he said. "There's surely not much money in it."

To make ends meet, he runs a park district swimming program during the summer, and has his own two-week swim camp.

"But my wife is a good sport. She works to help out."

Eliot lives by a maxim passed on to him once by a parent, who perhaps more than anyone had an idea of what makes up John Eliot. Eliot quotes it:

"In 100 years from now it won't matter what kind of house I lived in or how much was in my bank account. But perhaps the world may be different, because I had some effect on the life of a child." §

This is the first year that questions are being routinely referred. The purpose is to increase speed and decrease the chance for error', Mongellazzo says

Wolthoff is on the phone talking to a taxpayer about worksheets that have been added to the back of a tax form related to pensions. As he talks, Wolthoff punches down hard on the keys of his braille typewriter, a loud clatter accompanying every

He listens to the other end and the banging on the typewriter stops. He chuckles

"Oh, my goodness," Wolthoff exclaims, and his chuckle turns into outright laughter.

Wolthoff, 40, of Oak Park is blind, but few of the taxpayers he deals with realize it. His desk is centered in the middle of the service specialist area, he is one of six blind phone representatives working at the Chicago IRS office. He is the only one who has climbed to the second plateau.

The other five are located at one end of the room, isolated by a long row of cabinets Mongellazzo says the isolation is purely one of logistics. They need the area for storage; braille reference material takes up about seven times the space of material written for people who can see

The location also gives the representatives access to a computer hooked up to the Kansas City system The computer is similar to those in other parts of the room, but it differs in that it gives read-outs in besille.

The hour is approaching noon, and today Wolthoff will take the elevator down to the Department of Labor offices to give a lecture on changes in the tax law.

It will be about the sixth or seventh lecture he has given this year In early February, he also taught a class of volunteers who wanted to learn the basics of the tax laws so that they could go out and help residents in shelter homes and similar facilities.

Across the hall, the activity is picking up The moon hour is one of the busiest times for the walk-in assistance program.

Lunch periods are set up in three different shifts so two-thirds of the staff is generally there to help taxpayers.

Most of the seats in the waiting area are filled, and representatives are working with groups of two and three taxpayers in the

Ms Del Bene said she normally doesn't have to spend more than ten minutes with any one person "Most people, when they come in, already know what their tax is going to be like" That means her job is more-or-less "answering questions, egging them on "

Usually Ms Del Bene starts by asking questions about the person's type of income, whether he's married, whether he has children. This year, she said, she automatically asks whether any children are left with a baby-sitter while the parents work. The question is asked because there's a new child care credit without a standard deduction this year.

In the phone area, the atmosphere has re-

One representative sits with his legs crossed, his ear to the phone

"Oh, yeah, use the adjusted gross," he says "Yeah, you could do that "

Another woman picks up the phone

"Sorry to have kept you waiting," she says, and immediately begins jotting notes

In the background voices can be heard coming from the voice-calculators used by each of the blind representatives They push a number and an electronic voice out of "2001: A Space Odyssey" tells them the number they pushed and adds, subtracts or multiplies when an answer is requested by another button.

The afternoon is more relaxed than the morning Most of the calls seem to come about 9 to 10 a m , Ferrar figures They are calls that apparently come from people who ran into trouble preparing their returns the previous evening.

Wolthoff pauses to reflect on how he came to the IRS. He got the job in October of 1970 after he went through a five-month training program in Arkansas The federal government was just opening up jobs for the blind at that time, and he says they have equipped him well.

He takes his calculator from the desk and shows how it works, smiling at the sound of the electronic voice All of the blind employes have one.

But Wolthoff still carries along his abacus pulling the small mathematic tool out of his sport coat pocket and fingering the beads.

The only problem he has is space. He has piles of boxes stacked under and around his desk with braille material that takes up more room than the regulation space provided He points to seven thick books about 12 inches high when combined

That equals in braille the thin 1040 packet that most taxpayers use

"You can get an idea of the problems we have storing the stuff," he says.

The phones in the background continue to ring, although now in late afternoon, the pace downstairs in the walk-in area has slowed By the time the walk-in area closes at 4.30 p.m., few taxpayers will remain in the office.

Upstairs, one of the taxpayer representatives puts a call on hold and walks over to the computer

"About this time of year, the most common call is about their refund," explains "They've filed three or four weeks ago and they wonder where their refund is "

The computer has a direct line to Kansas City, and by dialing in the taxpayer's codes, a representative can determine where his return is in the system and usually, the date a refund is to be mailed.

"It used to be in years past that they'd have to take information down, send it to Kansas City and wait to get it back," Mongellazzo says "Now, it's instantaneous"

It is approaching 4:30 and Wölthoff will soon be calling it a day.

He was born with congenital glaucoma. When he was 14-months-old he underwent surgery for it. He has been blind ever since.

The last six years have been "ideal" for him, he says

He attempted to be a piano player for a dance band for a little while after getting out of high school in Minnesota That didn't pay well, so before taking the training for the tax job, he had been "starving to death tuning pianos" in Minneapolis

He took the training because he figured "I had very little to lose and very much to gain "Two years ago, he was promoted to his present position.

The job is the "most satisfying profession I've eyer engaged in" because it enables Wolthoff to help people solve their problems.

It also proves a point.

"A lot of people still suffer under a misimpression. I think, of what blind people can do for work," Wolthoff says "Obviously, we can't drive trucks. We can't drive taxis. But we can do things like this "

The phones are turned off, and Wolthoff clears off his desk. He checks once more to be sure that he has locked the drawer containing confidential information about the taxpayers he is working with

Then, he pushes his chair back slightly, leans to the right and locates the folded cane under the cabinet with his fingers §

Chicago hears the bad news about his tax return from an IRS employe. Normally taxpavers spend no more than ten minutes with an IRS representative in the downtown office. "Most people, when they come in, already know what their tax is going to be like," said one employe.

Down down down down state

by Katherine Rodeghier

Downstate.

The term is used quite liberally by many people in the Chicago area. It's a word that is freely tossed about to describe just about any section of the state that is beyond the tentacles of the megalopolis on the lake. At times it is as though Illinois is divided into two parts — there's metropolitan Chicago with its skyscrapers and superhighways, and then there's downstate with its cornfields and cows.

But when we refer to Downstate Illinois in such general terms we are covering a lot of ground. Illinois has an area of 55,748 square miles while Cook County is a mere 954, a slatistic that should prove that there's a lot more to the Land of Lincoln than Chicago and its suburbs.

Just take a look at the Illinois' map. It's 380 miles from the Wisconsin border to the toe of the state where the Ohio and Mississippi rivers merge at Cairo. If you jumped in your car right now and headed south it would take you as long to travel the length of the state as if you headed east bound for Cleveland or west bound for Des Moines.

And contrary to popular belief, Downstate Illinois is a whole lot more than cornfields and cows, particularly in the southern reaches of the state. So next time you're looking for a place to relax and unwind head down, down, down, downstate and get ready for a pleasant surprise.

Unlike the flatlands of the north, Southern Illinois has a rolling, often rocky landscape which is an extension of the Little Ozark Mountains. Spring comes early in the south. The grass is green by the first of March and all year long the temperatures average 10 to 15 degrees above the thermometer readings in Chicago.

But it's more than geography that separates Southern Illinois from the rest of the state. The industrial North, with its abolitionist heritage, is a cultural contrast to this part of Downstate Illinois with its roots planted deep in the Old South.

History reports that it was here in Thebes courthouse near Cairo that the notorious slave Dred Scott was imprisoned. His trial was to lay the political groundwork for the Civil War, a war that prompted most folks in Southern Illinois to side with the Confederacy.

In many ways Southern Illinois is a lot like the Old South. The people speak in a slow, Southern drawl and they have their own special brand of Southern Illinois pride. Down here people do things their own way and they aren't beholden to their city cousins up north. Shawneetown (pop. 1,400) is a Southern Illinois community that has gone down in Illinois history as the town that refused to grant a loan to the fledgling community of Chicago. The people in Shawneetown just figured Chicago was "Too far away

Southern Illinois is scattered with dozens of small towns like Coulterville, Pinckneyville, and Jonesboro Farming and coal mining are a way of life for many people Yes, there is poverty in Southern Illinois, but there is also wealth — a wealth of natural beauty. When folks look out their picture window here they don't see high rises or steel mills but hills and lakes and forests. People spend much of their spare time hiking, camping, horseback riding, canoeing, fishing and hunting as do the visitors who come here to get away from it up North.

Southern Illinois is about an 8 hour drive from the Northwest suburbs, but it also can be reached by air in under 2 hours. Air Illinois has flights twice a day Monday through Friday from Meigs Field to Carbondale. Ozark Airlines operates from O'Hare and has one direct flight and three flights via St. Louis each day to Marion, til. The fare on both airlines is an even $100.

First on the list for exploring in Southern Illinois should be the Shawnee National Forest and, in fact it would be difficult for a traveler to miss the forest since it covers 240,000 acres stretching almost 100 miles between the Ohio and Mississippi rivers It covers nine counties with wooded hills, wind-etched ravines, lakes and rock crags

Interstate Rte 57 leads into the heart of the Shawnee with headquarters at Harrisburg. The main east-west route through the forest is III. Rte 13

There are more than 500 camp and picnic sites in the forest and a network of trails is maintained for hiking and horseback riding. Boating and swimming are popular as are fishing and hunting. Large- and small-mouth bass, bluegill, striped bass, catfish and crappie abound and there are 500 species of wildlife including whitetail deer, drumming grouse, wild turkey, beaver, possum, raccoon, red and gray fox, bobcat, red, gray and fox squirrel, woodchuck, muskrat and cottontail rabbit.

In the western section of the Shawnee is the LaRue-Pine Hills Ecological Area, an area of rare plants, abundant wildhie and dramatically towering limestone bluffs Forty per cent of the plant life in Illinois can be found in this primitive spot and there is also a cypress swamp

The Oakwood Bottoms Greentree reservoir, also in the western section, is a re markable oak forest, part of which is flooded annually from October to February. Here waterfowl find food and shelter and the rich soil which has evolved through the annual floods produces fine crops and commercially valuable trees.

The Garden of the Gods, in the eastern section, offers a spectacular display of rock formations sculpted more than 200 million years ago when the area underwent geological uplifting and the exposed rock was chiseled by wind and water Camel Rock is the most outstanding of these formations eastern section. Operating from 1839 to 1863 as the first charcoal fired iron furnace in lilinois it was rebuilt in 1967 as a visitor's attraction.

A point of interest in the central area of Southern Illinois is Giant City State Park on Rte 51 just south of Carbondale. Huge ar rangements of sandstone blocks sit scattered throughout the area as if they were remnants of an ancient community. There are per pendicular stone walls and other rock for mations which may once have been forts. Some experts say the stone structures may have been used by early Indians as buffalo traps.

Accommodation is available in a dozen cabins in the park. Camping facilities are also available. A rustic stone lodge with in viting lounge and dining room also lures the traveler off the beaten path.

Just east of Carbondale is Crab Orchard Lake and the 43,000-acre Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge During the winter months there are about forty eagles in the refuge as well as all sorts of migratory waterfowl Each; ar geese begin to arrive from Canada via the Mississippi Flyway on or about September 21 For 15 years their punctuality has startled observers With winter's end the 90,000 honking geese make their way north leaving an eerie calm in the refuge

Some 22,000 acres of the refuge are open to the public all year. Here animal watchers focus their binoculars on deer ducks, quait and wild turkeys and fishermen try their luck on Little Grassy. Devil's Kitchen and Crab Orchard lakes. Vacationers spend les surely afternoons boating and swimming.

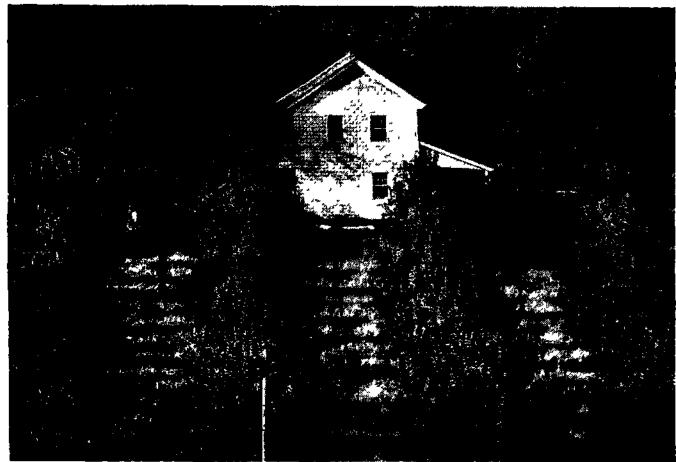

The Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge can be explored from Marion, Ill, via the Crab Orchard and Egyptian Railroad which runs exclusively for the pleasure of the tourist. The train is a 1920s vintage steam engine which departs from Marion on a 15 mile route through underbrush and across fields.

Due north of Crab Orchard Lake is Rend

Lake, an 18,900-acre waterway which is a haven for everything from bass to walleye to northern pike. Nearby is the 3,000-acre Wayne Fitzgerrell State Park.

Further north, a few miles east of East St. Louis, is the 26,000-acre Carlyle Lake. Eldon Hazlet State Park shares the Carlyle shoreline and features 3,000 acres of camping and hiking facilities.

The Ohio and Mississippi rivers, which form the southern boundaries of the state, have always played a significant role in Southern Illinois life. The rivers were a source of food and transportation for Indian tribes and they made this wooded southland a magnot for frontier explorers and adventurous fur traders who eventually settled the area. Their story is a colorful chapter in Southern Illinois history.

Traveling south on the Mississippi toward East St. Louis today's explorers stumble across a bit of Illinois history that goes back more than 1,000 years. Cahokia Mounds State Park, west of Collinsville, contains eighty prehistoric earthenwork mounds built by prehistoric Indians and it is the only prehistoric Indian city north of the Mexican horder.

Named for the Cahokia Indians, the last tribe to settle on the site, the city of Cahokia once covered 6 square miles and had a population in the tens of thousands. The earthen mounds were built by the Indian tribes primarily for ceremonial purposes although a few were used as burial mounds. Many of the mounds are rectangular in shape and flat on the top serving as a platform for buildings used for religious and ceremonial purposes.

The largest mound is Monks Mound, the largest prehistoric earthen construction in the world. Its base covers 14 acres and it rises in four terraces to a height of 100 feet. Archaeologists estimate it took 1,000 men at least three years to complete.

The 65-acre state park is maintained by the Illinois Department of Conservation but archaeological research on the site is under the supervision of the Illinois State Museum. Excavations can be viewed by visitors in the park during summer months when interpreters and resident archaeologists are on hand to answer questions.

Near Cahokia State Park is the oldest house in Illinois which is believed to have been constructed shortly after 1737. Now called Cahokia Courthouse State Memorial the building was the home of Captain Jean Baptiste Saucier, the builder of Fort des Chartres. It was once the governmental seat for a portion of the Northwest Territory.

The Church of the Holy Family in Cahokia is another dusty reminder of Illinois rich history. The present structure was built in 1799 and despite the natural process of age, the church's massive walnut beams still seem sturdy enough to last another 300 years.

Stretching along the Mississippi River south of East St. Louis is the French colonial district of Illinois. Here is Fort des Chartres State Park. The jewel of French-controlled territory during the 1700s, Fort des Chartres was thought to be the best example of this type of fortification in North America. Today visitiors explore the custodlan's quarters and the museum which has been erected on the original foundation of the old fort. A guardhouse, chapel and gateway are nearby and every Saturday and Sunday during the summer a brass 6 pound French cannon is ceremoniously fired for visitors at precisely 1 p.m.

Near the fort is Prairie du Rocher, a hamlet of 700 residents, which is an example of a French colonial village. It features a 200year-old "Creole House," a colonial-style home which is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Each summer the townspeople of Prairie du Rocher and surrounding communities celebrate their heritage during the annual Fort des Chartres Rendezvous which features demonstrations of historical crafts such as blacksmithing and copperage and demonstrations of French colonial cookery. There are also special events such as greased pole contests, militia events, and birchbark canoe races. The partially reconstructed walls of the old fort serve as a back-drop for flint-lock shooting and tomahawk contests.

Further south along the Mississippi is Fort Kaskaskia State Park and Memorial. Kaskaskia's history began when Pere Marquette built a log church on the spot in 1675. A few years later the village grew and soon dominated the commercial theater of the Illinois wilderness, at one time commanding an undisputed role as cultural center for all that lay between Canada and the Gulf Coast.

Kaskaskia became the capital of the Northwest Territory when it was created in 1787. It became Illinois' first capital in 1818 and remained so for two years until the capital was moved northeast to Vandalia. A flood nearly destroyed the town in 1844 and in 1881 an island was formed when the Mississippi changed its course. Each spring flood washed a portion of the town away until nothing remained.

Today there is a shelter and overlook where visitors get the best view of the site of old Kaskaskia. Enshrined in a tiny brick building in the park is the "Liberty Bell of the West," a gift from King Louis XV to his pioneer settlers in the New World. The historic bell even has a crack similar to that of its eastern cousin, Adjacent to the park is the home of Pierre Menard, presiding officer of the first Territorial Legislature and first Lieutenant Governor of Illinois. Mirroring the typical architecture of colonial France during the 18th Century, the Menard home was built early in the 1800s. Completely refurbished, the home is open to visitors and features several authentic colonial pieces.

Below Kaskaskia the Mississippi meets the Ohio River at Cairo. The Ohio makes wide bends along the southern border of the state and on one of these bends is found Cave-in-Rock State Park located east of Elizabethtown. The 60-foot high bluffs edging the park command a long and scenic view of the Ohio River. The most striking feature of the park is the large cave on the face of the bluff, an opening 55 feet wide extending into the gray limestone. When the river is at pool stage the mouth of the cave is about 70 feet from the edge of the river but when the water is high the cave can be entered by boat.

The cave has the appearance of a mysterious arched crypt and, in fact, it has been shrouded in mystery for most of its history. Pirates and outlaws like Sam Mason and the Kentucky brothers Big Harpe and Little Harpe made the cave their hide-out while preying upon unsuspecting river travelers.

The park has many picnic areas and one established hiking trail, Pirates Bluff Trail, plus several other unmarked trails.

Southern Illinois is filled with scenic and historic spots such as these. Explore them and perhaps you will agree with some of the folks here that there are really two faces of Illinois. There's Southern Illinois with its rolling wooded hills, orchards, takes and wildlife and then there's that big city up north with its congested expressways, noise and pollution. §

The helicopter service now has scheduled stops from atop the Pan Am building and American's terminals at La Guardia, Kennedy and Newark airports.

New York Airways is operating ninety trips daily on thirty-passenger helicopters. The service is available between 8:30 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. on weekdays, and between 12:20 p.m. and 8 p.m. on weekends.

Celebrating spring with arts festival in Knoxville, Tenn.

April brings out the best in Knoxville, Tenn., according to visitors who flock to this city to take part in the activities of the annual Dogwood Arts Festival.

Scheduled to coincide with the blooming of the area's millions of native dogwoods and other spring flowers, the Festival is planned for April 15 through 24 this year. Called "America's Premiere Salute to Spring," the Festival fills ten days with events and activities ranging from fine arts to native crafts, concerts to Bluegrass competitions.

In addition to America's largest high school band competition and parade with some ninety bands from throughout the nation already signed up to participate, the Festival will conduct its first River Parade with boats of all sizes cruising past a reviewing stand on Loudon Lake through downtown Knoxville.

Several events are planned especially for children this year, including a return engagement by the Nicolo Marionettes, a children's art show and a host of activities on Knoxville's historic Market Square Mall. Special exhibits will be held at the zoo, the

Children's Museum and the amusement area of Chilhowee Park

There will be a wide range of art exhibits and sales, as well as the craft shows planned for the Market Square Mall and Knoxville's West Town Mall. Professional artists will submit their art works for judging in a show at the Hyatt Regency Hotel near Knoxville's Civic Coliseum. Performances by leading musical artists highlight an evening's festivities at the coliseum.

The stars of the Festival are still the dogwoods and the myriad of other blossoming plants and trees that burst into bloom in an unparalleled spring spectacular in the Knoxville area. Dogwood Trails take motorists through six of Knoxville's most beautiful neighborhoods on more than 50 miles of clearly marked auto routes, with many blossom displays lighted for night viewing. Those preferring to park their cars at the Coliseum can enjoy a free bus ride over the trails. In addition, there are open gardens and specially selected camera sites.

A program of events brochure is available from the Knoxville Tourist Bureau, 811 Henley St., SW, Knoxville, Tenn. 37902.

The world of the 'Pink Collar Worker'

By Ellie Grossman

"All we've heard about these last six months is Barbara Walters and her million dollar contract," says Louise Kapp Howe, autho of "Pink Collar Workers," published by Putnam.

"We don't hear that the earning gap between working men and women is higher than ever," she says. In 1956, the average earnings of fulltime working women were 63 per cent of men's; in 1974, they had shrunk to 57 per cent.

We don't hear, she adds, that "women in the labor force are as segregated today as they were at the turn of the century."

In 1900, most working women had agricultural, manufacturing or domestic jobs; today, most are in clerical, service or sales positions.

Women comprise 40 per cent of the country's workers, but only 15 per cent of them are "professionals," mostly teachers and nurses, traditionally female categories.

The rest are "pink collar workers," Mrs. Howe's term for the underpaid, undervalued yet socially useful beauticians, sales workers, waitresses, office personnel and homemakers whose stories she relates in her book.

It took her three years and conversations with perhaps two hundred women around the country to write the book. She took the time, she says, "because it was becoming more and more clear that the strategy defined by the women's movement was not affecting the majority of working women in this country."

"When it all began," she says, "women were saying we don't want to do what women have been doing all these years. But they didn't all necessarily mean that pink collar world had no value." It just seemed that way.

And even if they didn't say that, society has always undervalued women unless they perform a man's job.

Strangely enough, if you put a man in a "pink collar" job, that in itself upgrades the position. Mr. Seymour coifs your hair and he's fawned on, respected and paid very well.

The typical female beautician who performs the same functions, however, earns less, has no job security, no adequate union protection, and is subject to the bad temperament and hiring and firing whims of the man who owns the shop. She's not Ms. or Miss Anybody.

Then there are waitresses and waiters.

He gets the better paying jobs in fine restaurants, hotels, and private clubs, enabling him to assume a well-paid air of superiority.

She works in coffee shops, cocktail lounges (where she's often marked as fair game by some male customers), in the less expensive eateries, again without fringe benefits, job security, perhaps even a locker to change her clothes.

Louise Kapp Howe

'In the largest occupational group in the country, office clerical workers where 97 per cent of the typists are women and 99 per cent of the secretaries are women, there are other ills.

Say you work for a large insurance company which is giving you a pension, health insurance, free lunches and lulling you into stupefaction with Muzak. The company is probably paying you a poor wage (after all, look at the benefits). It's definitely counting on you to leave, not too long after arriving, to marry or have a child. Then it can hire another high school graduate at base pay to take your place.

Worse, these days, the company will hire an overqualified college graduate who can't find work elsewhere.

"Credential requirements are being upped year after year for the same job and it's absurd," Mrs. Howe says. "College grads are going into yesterday's non-college jobs and the chances non-college women had before, which weren't that great, will be less and less."

Since seven out of eight working women don't have college degrees, that means everyone gets hurt.

Mrs. Howe doesn't know what the answers are: how, for instance, sales women selling 'soft goods" can work their way into the big commission jobs in furniture and major appliance, which they usually don't want anyway because they fear the reaction of the men already working there; how to fight a department store's policy stating managers must be college grads which means promoting from outside the company, not within; how, finally, to deal with the inertia clouding the "pink collar" world that prevents women from fighting for fair union representation, among other things often because after caring for small children and the house all day, and working parttime on a night job, they're just too tired.

One thing is clear: for all the hoopla the media have given the women's lib movement and female advancement since 1900, it seems working women have actually been running in place. (NEA)

An informative reference work for opera lovers

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF OPERA edited by Leslie Orrey (Scribners, $25).

Reviewed by Tom Von Malder

This new reference work claims to be the first comprehensive, illustrated one-volume encyclopedia on opera. What is new are the illustrations, twenty-two in full color, more than 175 in black and white. But more than the illustrations help this book serve as an excellent introduction to the world of opera.

The book contains more than 3,000 entries, covering more than 700 operas — with dates of premieres and outstanding revivals — as well as composers, librettists, singers, conductors, producers, stage designers, directors, opera companies, opera characters and technical terms. Musical comedy and operetta also are covered.

Being only a single volume, editor Leslie Orrey has had to make countless numbers of decisions on what to and not to include. In his introduction, which includes a brief history of previous operatic reference books, Orrey states: "The main criterion in choosing items for inclusion in this book has been their relevance to the contemporary scene."

If operas of the past have historical importance or have been revived, they are included. So too are performers of the past, who have made "significant" contributions to operatic art.

The familiar repertory of Western Europe is downplayed so that more space can be given to operatic activities in the United States, Canada, Latin America, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union. Plot synopses are very short, especially for the more standard works, so that new and experimental works can be more fully explained.

The book's entries are not of a critical nature and most are very short. An example of a longer entry is that for Richard Wagner, who gets nearly three-quarters of a page.

The entry for Chicago will give an example of the style used:

The Chicago-Philadelphia organization (1910-21) was formed from the carryover of the defunct Manhattan Opera in New York. Notable for artists of the highest rank and for unusual works, often by French composers, this company served both cities and toured extensively (excepting 1914-15), including Boston in its seasons. Campanini was general director 1913-19. After Hammerstein I's death (1919) the Chicago Opera Assn. was established, then the Chicago Civic Opera Co, with Samuel Insuli as chairman and principal guarantor, Garden as director and Polacco as principal conductor. Soon after the new Opera House was built (1928) the entire Chicago operatic scene came to a halt with the Depression and the collapse of the Insull

"Ravinia Park, from 1911 to 193t, had a 10-week season during the summer of standard works, slightly abbreviated, with eminent singers and occasional novelties. Louis Eckstein was guarantor. Revived later as Ravinia Festival, it included presentations by the Chicago Orchestra

"The Chicago Lyric Opera (founded 1954) now presents standard fare and a few novelties, with the best singers obtainable from Europe and the USA."

Both newcomers and those familiar with the world of opera will find this reference book informative, interesting and appealing.

A lawn expert has the answers to your problems

ASK THE LAWN EXPERT by Paul N. Voykin (Macmillan, $9.95)

Reviewed by Mary B Good
Whats the first thing that comes to mind when you think of your lawn? Dandelions, crabgrass, nightmares? "Ask the Lawn Expert" is green hope for the frustrated weed-pullers of America.

Paul Voykin dispenses sound lawnscaping tips with sporadic quips. You come to realize that this guy's got a good sense of humus!

"Ask the Lawn Expert" doesn't miss a shot in covering all the ground about lawn care from "Heinz 57" lawns and the prima donna strains of grass seed (for those considering putting in a new lawn) to renovating decrepit grass. It hits the key factors of maintenance success — mowing, watering, and fertilizing. Voykin discusses all the forces that conspire to knock off a lawn, and how to conquer them.

The author has been making his living from lawn maintenance for twenty-fire years.

A professional golf course superintendent whose job it is to keep Briarwood Country Club in Deerfield looking super, this writer knows his subject inside and out.

In "Ask the Lawn Expert," Voykin's second book, the author zeros in on just about any lawn problem a homeowner could dream up. While you might think a question-and-answer format would be a hodge-podge of information, the topics are well organized, and it's easy to find a tidbit missed in passing (or needed for possible future reference) in the thorough index. And, his casual style releases him from strict adherence to the standard Q and A approach.

Chapters on regional grasses may not seem important to those firmly planted in their old homesteads, but in this mobile society, who knows if you'll have to pull up roots and move to a totally foreign part of the country, where the type and care of lawn is completely different. This is a book to pack in the moving van.

Most books about lawns come off like room temperature Velveeta. Voykin's is Quiche Lorraine in comparison. This lawn expert has a special quality of spicing up what the average person might call a dull subject—not an easy task. Voykin anticipates when his turf talk might get heavy for the reader, and manages a diverting bounce with a breezy comment or anecdote, thus seducing the reader's continued interest.

Example: In what other lawn book can you find a recipe for mint julep (to sip while resting between chores), or a hilarious story about a cowboy fistfight in a Las Vegas casino (presumably while Voykin was researching that regional grass chapter), or a kooky experiment in rooting grass stolons in separate glasses of water with scotch, bourbon, rum and gin? And, wildly enough, it all works well together, woven into the serious business of lawn care.

If you need help with your lawn, want to tackle the job of getting it in shape and come out on top of it, I can see two possibilities: a) pick up a copy of "Ask the Lawn Expert" and follow its advice, or b) abduct Paul Voykin — but return him to the tenth tee at Briarwood by 1 p.m. He's got plenty of work of his own to do!

'Changing' takes you inside famed actress Ullmann

Reviewed by Laura Schmalbach

Liv Ullmann declares on page one that her book "Changing" is "not the Liv Ullmann people meet in magazines and newspapers." It was never her intention to write an autobiography.

Indeed, "Changing" is bound to disappoint those with an appetite for spicy theatrical memoirs — but the actress' self-portrait goes beyond Hollywood gossip to show us an insecure little girl behind the accolades.

It is that eager-to-please child and her struggle to grow up that preoccupies Ullmann in "Changing." She writes in a sparse style, often using fragments of thought to convey the mood of a schoolgirl's diary. The result: a well-written collection of experiences from one of the world's most admired actresses.

If Ullmann becomes too self-indulgent with "Changing," it is when she describes her search for self knowledge and indepependence — her need to "put behind one the desire to live the life of the surroundings."

That theme has been explored by many women writers in the past few years, and Ullmann's story is no different from the rest. At times, her reminiscences and observations on the struggle turn maudlin in tone.

Still, Ullmann's guilt-ridden love for her young daughter, Linn, articulates the conflict and concern of many working mothers; her insecurity about her appearance (she writes that she would change a dress if her daughter sent her a critical look) does make her human.

Ullmann's "diary entries" range from recollections of an awkward adolescence in Trondhjem, Norway to her five-year love affair with film director Ingmar Bergman and her ambivalent thoughts about life in Hollywood.

She writes of attending a party at Hugh Hefner's mansion, only to sit awkwardly while her host falls asleep on the couch in his terry cloth pajamas; of the conflict between the generosity of her Hollywood friends and her disdain for the "great, enclosed fortresses" that those friends call

But Ullmann is at her best not when she is recalling her mother's death or Bergman's intense jealousy, but when she describes herself: an actress who presents a character to her audience with the help of every. emotion she has ever felt; who loves the challenge of her famous close-ups because they "show what is behind the skin, the eyes, inside the head."

Twenty full-color reproductions of never-before-published works by Danish artist Kay Nielsen will be unveiled in the Peacock Press/Bantam Book publication of THE UN-KNOWN PAINTINGS OF KAY NIELSEN edited by David Larkin ($7.95).

The large format paperback features paintings by the popular children's book illustrator completed between 1918 and 1922 for a Danish translation of A THOUSAND AND ONE NIGHTS, which was never published.

The art was first exhibited at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art in the late 1940s before being turned over to Nielsen's widow in the 1950s. The original paintings have been presented to the Los Angeles County Museum of Art.

THE ABSOLUTELY MOST CHALLENG-ING BASEBALL QUIZ BOOK EVER by David Nemec (Collier Books, $1.95)

Reviewed by Art Mugalian

You finally decide to go to that wild singles bar you've heard so much about but never had the nerve to try. You walk in smelling of cologne and decked out in your best duds and you immediately head for the bar.

You order a drink and even before it comes you notice a blonde over in the corner giving you the eye. This is it. It's true what they say.

Just when you've made up your mind to go over and strike up a meaningful relationship, the guy on your right taps you on the shoulder and, in his best drunken stammer, asks you the darnedest question you've ever heard in your life.

"Hey Mac? Who played third base for the 1908 Cubs?"

"Not now, some other time, rube," is what you want to tell him, knowing that the blonde won't wait forever.

But something else is gnawing at your psyche, something you can't quite beat down.

"Harry Steinfeldt!" you shoot back, and you've stepped over the line.

"Who replaced Lou Gehrig at first base?" you ask with a tinge of excitement building in your voice.

Out of the corner of your eye you notice the blonde getting up and walking out with a 200-pound weightlifter.

You don't care.

Baseball trivia, the bane of a normal social existence, has done it again.

Don't let it happen to you. Next time, be prepared. Always carry with you a copy of "The Absolutely Most Challenging Baseball Quiz Book Ever," and when the jerk at the bar asks you about Harry Steinfeldt or Tracy Stallard or Three-Finger Brown, just throw the book at him.

If that doesn't shut him up, nothing will. If he can answer two questions in a row from this book, buy him a beer and go join the blonde in the corner.

"Absolutely Most Challenging..." is no ordinary trivia book. There are no "Who was Harry Steinfeldt" questions. This is serious stuff for real baseball experts only.

You know it's tough when the answers are harder than the questions.

Forrest Jacobs? Jim Turner and Lou Fette? Chuck Hostetler? Braggo Roth?

Those aren't exactly everyday baseball names, but don't be put off. Every once in a while an easy question comes up, as a sort of change of pace. Who managed the 1968 World Series champs? Who did the Mets trade for Joe Foy? And, oh yes, who pitched Roger Maris' 61st home run?

The book is arranged in seven games of nine innings with each inning comprising several questions. Degree of difficulty ranges from infield singles to grandslam homers.

It can be frustrating. You begin to realize that there is an awful lot of baseball you never knew existed. Fred Taylor, the former Ohio State basketball coach, once played major league baseball. Two guys named George Burns were contemporaries in the 1920s and each had over 2,000 hits. The Phillies have never won a World Series.

There are errors, too, but just a few. The book's very first question contains an inaccuracy. Jim Finegan wasn't the Rookie of the Year in the A.L. in 1954. Bob Grim was. Everyone is entitled to an error occasionally.

The author, David Nemec, has good credentials. He was once thrown off the $64,000 Question because he knew too much. He probably wouldn't last long in the neighborhood bar, either.

One thing. When you finally meet that blonde and you win her heart and rush her. to the altar, throw away your copy of "Absolutely Most Challenging...". Late at night there are better things to do than trying to remember Harry Steinfeldt's famous teammates.

KING OF THE FISH, written and illustrated by Marian Parry (Macmillan, $6.95, ages 4-8)

Reviewed by Dorothy Oliver

There is an old Korean folktale about the King of the Fish who has a fish hook in his nose and goes into a royal rage to have the thing removed. The Old Sea Raven, wisest fish of the ocean, has a one word answer to the King's predicament: Theeyesofahare.

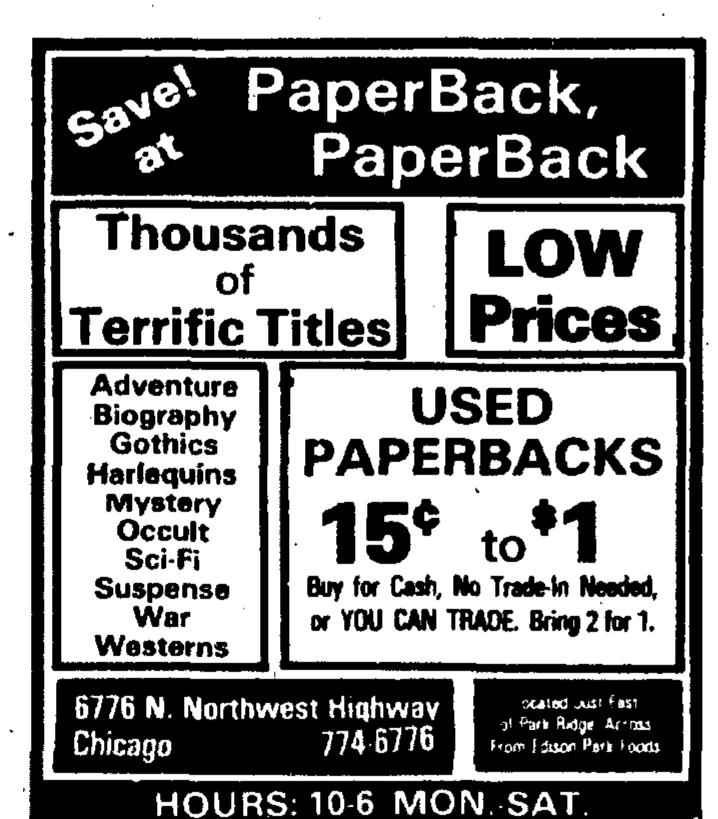

The tale continues as an unsuspecting hare is lured from the seashore to the depths of the sea where he is ordered to give up his eyes as a remedy for the King. But the hare is as tricky as his captors. With cunning and compliments he outwits the fish and returns to shore, eyes intact.

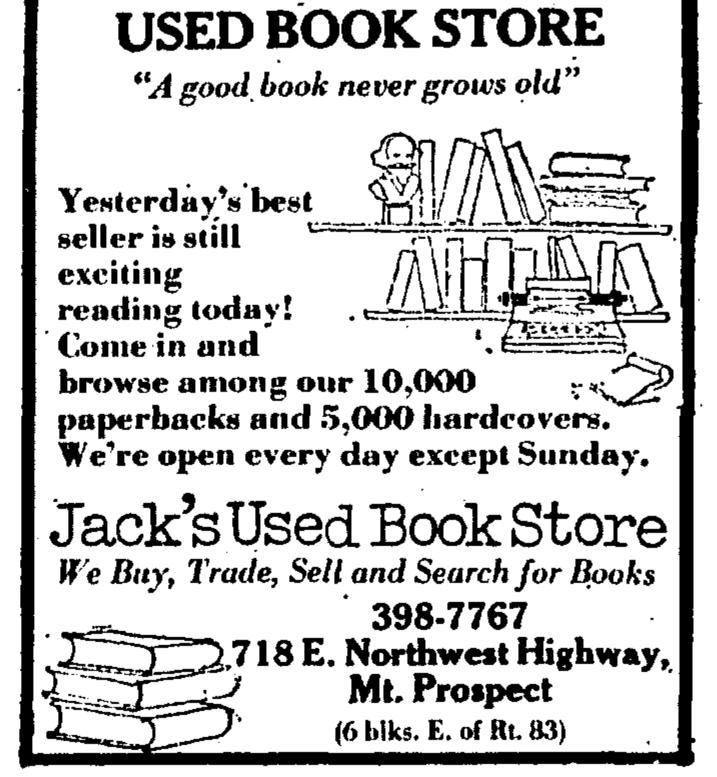

This simple story is the basis for Marian Parry's "King of the Fish," a short, beautifully-illustrated book by the children's author/illustrator. Parry is best known for her art, having exhibited in galleries solo and in groups. Her work also is part of the print collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Her children's book "The Birds of Basel" was on the New York Times list of the ten best-illustrated books of 1969.

"King of the Fish" has the same high quality artwork. A pompous king wears a golden fin crown. He swims in a sea of blues and grays surrounded by his expressive, detailed subjects.

The simple text moves quickly and although even a smart eight year old may have trouble with a few words, it is basically easy reading.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Topsy-turvy days ahead, Ari, as dinky problems loom monumental. However, you can do more than just survive, you can actually flourish if you remain close to your natural habitat. You realize that your batteries need recharging as week jumps to a close.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Concerning member of opposite sex, feel free to flirt and flatter. Just don't fall flat on your fanny while performing this flummery. Week, incidentally, ends on key of F, for faux pas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Slow down, Gem. There is always time for good sense and good manners, no matter how harried you may be. Chance encounter could turn into something rather special. Week ends on key of F, for foolishness.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If it's within the realm of possibility, throw your duds in a duffle bag and split. Tuck a few sou in your money belt and head for the hills/ocean/desert. Take an extra sweater, avoid honky-tonks and don't, don't take candy from strangers. Otherwise, enjoy!

LEO (July 23-August 22): You are a born showman, Leo, whether it be in business or in the boudoir. This week you have a chance to turn seemingly sticky situation to your advantage. Week ends on key of A, for amour, applause and again.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): The unexpected apt to occur during business hours.

Love among the filing cabinets, perhaps? Let's hope it's something nice like that. No matter what, Virgo, you will still remain the most dependable one around. Week ends with a sigh.

LIBRA (September 23-October 21): First, read Virgo. You spend some time this week, Libra, fighting for your rights. Others seem oblivious to your plight. Continue to squawk. By last day, the scales should balance.

scorpio (October 22-November 21): You are known far and wide as the most highly sexed sign in the Zodiac, Scorp, for you literally cannot survive without love. This week Cupid lays his annual spring number on you. You yield.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21):
You have the ability, Sag, to carry on a sparkling conversation on almost any given subject. In short, you know a little bit about a lot of things. Your mind is a veritable treasure-trove of minutia. Pirate may come digging this week. Why hold back?

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19):
Don't nurse wounds. Future not nearly as dreary as may appear. Melancholy moments are the common lot, but mercifully, the mind tends to obliterate the remembrance of most pain. Week ends on note of hope.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): If possible, find a nice quiet spot in which to hole up and just let the world go away. If a mini-vacation is out, how about a wee spree on the town? Week ends on key of F, for fun, fool and flapdoodle.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): Self-discipline is in order, Pisces. Now don't roll those beautiful eyes of yours heavenward and start sighing. You know perfectly well you are a child emotionally. Separate business from monkey business. Week ends on key of B, for banana.

The stamp was designed by Robert Bateman, noted wildlife artist and conservationist, who pictured the cougar in its known habitat — the remote forested area of New Brunswick and the Gaspe' peninsula.

Twenty-two million stamps will be printed in four-color lithography by Ashton-Potter Ltd. of Toronto. Marginal inscriptions, including the designer's name, will appear in the four corners of each pane of fifty stamps.

Mint stamps and an official first day cover with a single adhesive affixed (32-cents each, Canadian) are available from the "Philatelic Service, Canada Post, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada K1A OB5." Remittances must be by postal money order or international bank draft, in Canadian funds, payable to "The Receiver General for Canada."

You may also submit your self-addressed, unstamped covers for the new adhesive and the first day cancellation though the tardy notice makes me wonder if your covers could arrive at the Philatelic Service by the March 30 deadline.

The Northwest Stamp Club will sponsor a swap night at their regular meeting, 7:30 p.m. Monday, at the Arlington Heights Public Library, 500 N. Dunton St. All area stamp collectors are invited to attend.

Al Lenz has been elected president of the Twinbrook Stamp Club for the 1977 season. Other officers include Stanley White, secretary; Terry Wehrheim, treasurer and Steve Sherman, librarian.

The Twinbrook Stamp Club meets at 7:30 p.m. on the second Friday of each month at the Vogelei Park Field House. Vogelei Park is at Golf and Higgins roads (Rtes. 58 and 72) in Hoffman Estates.

The next meeting will be April 8 and will feature a slide program. Guests are welcome.

Servicing your own first day covers is an inexpensive way of collecting those first day cancellations with the added dimension of personalizing the envelopes to suit your own individual taste.

You may purchase engraved cachets—envelopes with art designs engraved on the left hand side — from your local stamp dealer or you may submit plain envelopes, though I would recommend you use a good grade envelope and not the boxed type you can buy in grocery and variety stores. (The Washington Press, Maplewood, N.J. 07040 will sell either their Artcraft engraved or plain envelopes by mail.)

Your envelopes must be addressed, either to you or to another party if you wish them delivered to a friend or relative. Place your address low and to the left of the envelope, in pencil, typed or using peelable labels — a favorite with many collectors since they are removable once the covers are returned.

Inside the envelope place a piece of cardboard or other stiffener so the covers do not get wrinkled in the mail.

The Postal Service now has two procedures for acquiring first day cancellations:

1) You may request the postmaster at the first day city to affix the new issue stamp(s)

to your cover. In this case, you pencil in lightly in the upper right hand corner how many stamps you wish affixed — single, pair, block of four, etc. You then must enclose enough money to pay for those stamps, which is the only charge involved. Make your personal check or money order payable to the postmaster at the first day city.

2) You may purchase your own stamps, usually the day after release, at your local post office, and affix your own stamps before submitting the covers, within fifteen days, for the first day cancellation. In this case, there is no need to send money for the cancellations are applied at no charge.

For either method, enclose your covers in another envelope and mail it to the proper address; the first day notice should specify where to send the stamped envelopes and where to send the envelopes which must be stamped by the Postal Service.

Your covers will be serviced at the first day site and placed in the regular mail stream for return to the address on the envelope. If they are returned damaged, send them back to the servicing address for replacement, though you will have to supply another envelope.

BEGINNER'S CORNER — Hint and explanation: The black queen is overworked.

Do you remember the stir last summer when it was reported in bits and snatches that Bobby Fischer and Anatoly Karpov had met several times and were near agreement about terms of a match.

An account in the British-published newspaper "Soviet Weekly" reveals some of the nuance of those meetings.

Fischer first showed up in Tokyo, where Karpov had stopped after a tournament in Manila. A cordial meeting between the two took place at the Hilton Hotel.

A month later Fischer "caught" Karpov again as the latter completed another tournament in Spain:

"So unexpected was Robert Fischer's appearance from behind-the-scenes darkness to the bright footlights of chess that ex-World Champion Michael Botvinnik asked (Karpov), 'Are you sure that you really met Fischer and not a double.'"

The sticking point in the negotiations was Fischer's proposal that they play without limitation until one player won ten games. Fischer, himself, predicted that the match would last "five or six months."

Karpov "could only shrug — you cannot play chess for half a year on end."

The Soviet writer of the report concluded:
"He (Fischer) has to put forward some realistic terms for an unofficial match."

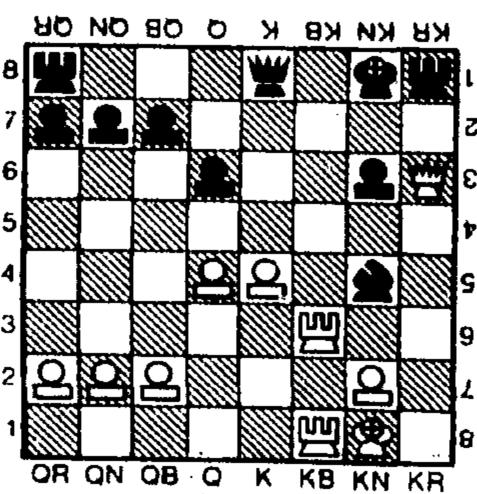

In a period of months, England has gained its second grandmaster. Raymond Keene, noted for his skill as writer and analyst, showed his playing strength and gained the title, when for the third time he was undefeated as a member of the British Olympic chess team!

In SOLVE-IT is a sharp draw he played in a preceding Reykjavik tournament against the Soviet grandmaster Tukmakov. Note the thematic exchange sacrifice on move 13.

Homes checked before MSD blast

Some residents of Mount Prospect and Des Plaines aren't taking any chances. They're afraid the dynamite blasting by the MSD will damage their homes and they want to be able to prove it.

The house by house checks this week are the latest in a continuing controversy between homeowners and the MSD.

MSD OFFICIALS have received complaints from residents since the blasting began last June — complaints that the explosions are cracking their windows, walls and ceilings. No one, however, seems to be able to prove that the defects are caused by the dyna-

Pigeons fail to show at execution

SIENA, Italy (UPI) - The guillotine was waiting for them, but the pigeons didn't show up.

One of them must have been a stool

It was the first day of the Siena City Hall's plan to capture and execute by beheading the estimated 4,000 pigeons which officials say are a health hazard to the piazzas of the ancient medieval fortress.

City workers were out at dawn. spreading nets strewn with corn on the piazzes in an attempt to lure the pigeons to their death.

But the pigeons weren't buying it. They stayed in their niches under the eaves of the city's roofs, refusing to descend to their usual haunts.

SOME RESIDENTS said a drizzling rain may have been the reason the birds stayed in their dry nests. But others noted that rain has never scared pigeons off before.

Siena's Socialist-Communist City Council earlier this week set Friday as the first day for netting and destroying the pigeons. A city spokesman said the birds are suffering from a form of salmonella first noticed in Copenhagen which could be dangerous to

"Guillotining has been approved as the most humane way of destroying the birds after consultation with local animal protection league offi cials," the spokesman said. He said the pigeons' bodies would then be burned in the city incinerator.

The pigeons apparently did not agree with city hall.

He takes snapshots of the ceilings and moldings and draws miniature yet detailed sketches of every room.

The survey, which is optional and at no cost to residents, is the project contractor's way of documenting structural defects existing before deep tunnel dynamite blasts occur in various neighborhoods. The surveyors have been hired by contractors Healy-Ball-Greenfield, McCook, builders of 3 of the 11 tunnel shafts in Mount Prospect and Des Plaines that eventually will connect the deep tunnel.

"WE'RE LOOKING for normal defects that have occurred from normal conditions," Van Schoyck said. "A crack that might appear from blasting is almost impossible to distinguish from a normal hairline crack. That is why it is imperative to take these preblast surveys."

When completed in 1979, the deep tunnel will collect and store storm water and sewage and send it on to the O'Hare Reclamation Plant under construction at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street, Des Plaines.

Van Schoyck said most residents' gripes have surfaced because they are not accustomed to dynamite blasting in the area. "It's a typical human response. The people are aggravated with the blasting," he said. "They don't like it. So they claim the blasting has caused defects when it hasn't. So far, Healy-Ball-Greenfield has blasted within all of the MSD limita-

But Liljequist contends the contractor, by surveying his home is 'just investing time and money to build up a defense. I have nothing to gain from this."

As a result, Liliequist hired his own appraiser, Muriello/Meyer & Associates, Elk Grove Village, to follow Van Schoyck as he studied the interior of the Mount Prospect home.

AND THE TOUR of the Liliequist home began. Van Schoyck started in the living room - tapping the walls, checking the windows, sketching frantically and photographing just about everything. He followed the same procedure in all of the rooms explaining as he went along.

"Oh no, those won't come off," he said pointing to some plates the Liljequists have hanging on their dining room walls. "These are typical paint cracks," he continued. "There are ho visible defects in the kitchen. There is a cracked window pane in the southeast window of the basement."

The survey will be filed along with about 40 others Van Schoyck has completed. The blasting will begin. Homes will rattle and shake. The complaints will start all over again. Who is to blame?

Harold J. Bernstein, 25, of 4412 Euclid Ave., Rolling Meadows, died at 5:50 a.m. Friday when the car he was driving on Fairfield Road near Kruger Road in Ela Township, Lake County, ran off a road and crashed ınto a split rail fence.

DOROTHY MIRAGLIA, 28, also of 4412 Euch Ave., a passenger in Bernstein's auto, received minor injuries. She was reported in fair condition Friday night at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Zelmer Turner, 39, of McHenry, the driver of the truck in the Palatine Township accident, also was taken to Northwest Community Hospital where he was treated for minor cuts and released.

Trooper John Kopecky of the Illinois State punce said the Pace brothers were westbound on Dundee Road approaching Quentin Road when they saw two friends with car trouble in a parking lot near the intersection.

Pace's auto turned left to enter the parking lot, into the path of the eastbound truck driven by Turner and owned by H&H Cartage Co. of Lake Zurich.

The truck hit the car broadside and forced it off the road and into a telephone pole, pinning both men inside. Kopecky said.

JERRY W. McINTOSH, 18, of 1235 N. Linden Ave., Palatine, was one of the friends whose car was disabled.

"My friend's car broke down and I was crawling underneath it," McIntosh said, when he heard the Kopecky said the car had been turned on its side and crushed against the pole.

McIntosh and his companion, Jeffrey A. Roggenbuck, of 1936 Ivy Pl., Palatine, recognized the smashed auto as that of the Paces. They could do nothing to help the brothers.

"The trailer was on top of the car," McIntosh said. "It had them pinned inside."

POLICE AND Palatine firefighters worked 40 minutes to free the brothers, who were taken to Northwest Community and pronounced dead on arrival.

Police did not ticket Turner.

In the other crash, witnesses told police Bernstein's car was southbound on Fairfield when it failed to negotiate a curve, crossed the centerline, left the roadway and hit a fence. Bernstein died when his head hit the fence rail, although his car went back across the road and landed amidst trees, said a Lake County Sheriff's police spokesman. A Lake Zurich rescue squad took Bernstein and Ms. Mıraglia to Condell Memorial Hospital in Libertyville, where Bernstein was pronounced dead on arrival.

MS. MIRAGLIA was transferred to Northwest Community, where she was admitted for observation.

Jeff Soaasted, 17, of 4328 Wilson Ave., Rolling Meadows, worked with Bernstein at Jack's Texaco service station at Hicks Road and Euclid Avenue in Rolling Meadows.

He said Bernstein was "a really nice person'

"He got along great with a lot of people," he said.

Bernstein was 25 Wednesday, and was to celebrate his birthday Friday night with fellow members of the Sojourners Cycle Club.

"He just liked bike -- he liked bikes totally," Soaasted said. While he never spoke of his personal life, he lived for his motorcycle, Soaasted said.

Four bandits sought in 2 holdups

Des Plaines police are seeking four 8:58 p.m. Thursday. bandits who stole $143 cash from two service stations in the village.

A ski-masked bandit armed with a 9-mm automatic pistol stole $62.50 cash from the Martin Oil Co. station, 1982 River Rd., Des Plaines, at 9:58 p m Thursday, police said.

Police said two ski-masked men drove up in a car to the station. One of them, armed with a pistol, jumped out, ran into the station's office and demanded money, police said. The attendant handed over the cash, and he and a friend were forced into a back room by the bandit, police said.

THE ROBBER ordered them to stay there and fled, police said.

Police said two teen-agers robbed the Cheker Oil Co. service station at 1199 S. Elmhurst Rd. of $80 cash at Police arrested and charged Sayyah. He was released after he posted $100 bail on a $1,000 bond, and ordered to appear April 15 in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Income tax workshop

Income tax preparation will be the topic of an all-day workshop from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at Oakton Community College, 7900 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove.

Sponsored by Oakton's adult and continuing education program, the workshop will emphasize the legiti-mate deductions available to homeowners and small businessmen.

Fee for the session is $20. For information call 967-5821.

Police described the teens as about 17 years old; one stood 5-feet 8-inches tall, weighed 150 pounds, with dark eyes, dirty collar-length brown hair, and wearing a blue waist-length jacket and dress blue jeans.

The other youth was 6 feet tall, weighed 175 pounds, medium build. with dark collar-length hair and wearing a blue parka and dark pants, po-

Police said they believed the two incidents were unrelated.

Youth for Bolek rally Monday

Mayoral candidate Charles J. Bolek has invited young residents of Des Plaines to meet him at a "Youth for Bolek" rally Monday from 7:30 to 11 p.m. at the Knight's Pub, 901 E. Oakton St.

Arrangements for the rally are being made by Billy Marquette, who can be contacted at 296-6261 for details. Information on other appearances by Bolek is available at his campaign headquarters, 554 Lee St., or by calling 298-7600.

Republicans, Awarness candidates face off in Maine

Supervisor: J. J. Dowd

Supervisor, Republican Party Address: 1503 Walnut St., Des Plaines

Age: 58 Occupation: attorney, Dowd, Dowd and Dowd of Chicago

Residency: 24 years Community Involvement: Maine Township supervisor, 1973-77; Des Plaines city attorney, 1967-64; justice of the peace, 1957-61; member of the Lious and Elks clubs and the Knights of Columbus.

· GOALS: "I'd like to continue the things I started." James J. Dowd said in his four years as supervisor, the board consolidated all township offices into one building, established commissions for troubled youths and alcoholics, provided extra police protection for the unincorporated areas and developed a popular senior citizena program.

• QUALITY OF SERVICES: Dowd said he sees township government developing more and more into a provider of social service programs, particularly with the availability of federal revenue sharing. He said the programs Republicans instituted during the past four years have served many: .900 elderly persons participate senior citizens programs; 318 youths and 186 families have received help from the Committee on Youth, for example.

Dowd denies charges that the township's Council on Alcoholism duplicates services at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Alcoholics Anonymous. Hospital officials asked the township to start the counseling and referral program.

UNINCORPORATED AREAS: "If they need more police, we'll furnish more." Last year, the township contracted for two additional Cook County sheriff's Police officers to patrol unincorporated areas, Dowd said, explaining the number of officers normally provided by the county was inadequate. He and his slate have opposed rezoning for more apartment construction in the area, he said.

Supervisor: P.L. Feichter

Address: 9127 Potter Rd., Des

Occupation: sociology teacher, Maine Township South High School, Park Ridge

Community involvement: President, Greens Tenants Assn.; president, Maine Township Democratic Organization; member of Knights of Colum-

• GOALS: Patton L. Feichter said his goals are improving the unincorporated areas and making township government more open and vis-"I believe the unincorporated part of Maine Township is rapidly deteriorating . . . becoming a suburban slum. The township is the only government that can help the situation. He also proposes township meetings be held at different locations throughout the year.

QUALITY OF SERVICES: "I would think unless the alcoholism program is shown to be viable, it should be eliminated." The program's work mostly referral, which is not enough to justify spending $80,000 annually for it, Feichter said. As a teacher at Maine Township South High School, he said he could find no students who are aware of the Council

Feichter

• UNINCORPORATED AREAS: Deteriorated unincorporated developments will drag down the property values of adjacent incorporated property, Feichter said. Thus, the plight of unincorporated areas is the plight of the entire township. He proposed increasing police protection, contracting for additional health and building inspectors through the county and dedicating private streets.

"What I'd like to do . . . over a few years is get these (private roads) dedicated to the township - we can step

Clerk, Republican Party Address: 225 Valerie Cl., Glenview

Occupation: owner of M.P. Meat Co., Chicago Residency: 21 years

Community involvement: Maine Township Clerk, 1967-77; Maine Township Regular Republican Organization committeeman; township auditor, 1965-72; first vice president of the North Shore Shrine Club • GOALS: "We will provide more services as the need arises," said Phillip H. Raffe. "We provide so many services now, I don't know any others we can provide." Township residents can buy county stickers and fishing and hunting licenses at the clerk's office. If the state legislature passes a bill now under consideration, Raffe said he will handle collection of absentee ballots in the township. The county now handles that job inadequately, he said.

Shirley J. Sandelands

Address: 1925 Oakton St., Des

Age: 41 Occupation: history teacher, Maine Township South High School, Park

Residency: nine years

Community involvement: president of Deer View Condominium Assu.; past president of Maine Township Teachers' Assn.; member of Delta Kappa Gamma wemen's honerary

 GOALS: "The clerk doesn't vote, of course. He or she keeps the books. However, I certainly hope I could influence other trustees for effective use of money and better communications with the public." Mrs. Shirley Sandelands said as clerk she would like to extend the office hours of township hall and mail out all applications for license and vehicle stickers to residents. She wants to keep the public better informed about township business and meetings.

• GOALS: "More of the same . . . In some areas we'll expand, in other areas, we'll just maintain," Harvey Frindt said, explaining, "There's a limit on how far we can go with the taxpayer's funds." He named the senior citizens program as one under the expansion category, "because there seems to be a great demand for that service."

• QUALITY OF SERVICES: "We're providing many more than Council on Alcoholism complements other area alcoholism programs, such as the one at Lutheran General Hospital, park Ridge, he said. • GOALS: Paul K. Halverson said he wants to return tax collection and absentee ballot collection duties to the township. He plans to begin a study which he said will show county takeover of those responsibilities cost the taxpayer more money.

• QUALITY OF SERVICES: Township services are the most economical and efficient because they are administrated on a local level, Halverson said. They meet the needs reflected Residency: 32 years Community involvement: Maine Township trustee, 1971-77; member of Maine Township Republican Woman's Club, Immanuel Lutheran Church Women's Guild.

· GOALS: "I'd like the town board to establish a mental health board," said Mrs Kay Korff. The present Illinois mental health code is being revised and probably will turn over coordination of mental health funds to local mental health boards. "It seems to me the ideal local government body is the township.'

She also is interested in expanding the Council on Youth services. The council could provide counseling for single women with children, temporary homes for children during crises and foster homes, she said. More elementary school children could be involved in the council programs.

Community involvement: first vice president of the 16th Congressional District Democratic Women's Organiantion: past vice-president of Golf Mill Homeowners Assn.; member of the northwest Suburban Jewish Congregation; past board member of the Maine Family Service and Mental Health Assn.

• GOALS: "Communications with people is the main thing," said Harriet Sumper. "We need to encourage people to attend our meetings and air their concerns. I really basically want to be a lisison to my areas. Right now there is no indication that a township government even exists."

. QUALITY OF SERVICES: "Right now the quality is questionable. There is a youth commission, for example, and I'm not sure what it really does. It's asked for a large budget and should have a good reason for asking for it."

Community involvement: member of the Democratic Weman's Organization of the 16th Congressional District; Jefferson School Parent Teacher Organization; president, Niles Po-Hee Dept. Ladies Auxiliary.

• GOALS: I think the biggest thing I would like to do is set up some kind of phone contact where people could call us directly," said Gloria Baltzersen. "If we couldn't help, we could direct them (elsewhere)." Providing free bus service to the shopping centers also is high on Mrs. Baltzersen's list of priorities. "This would be really nice for the elderly." QUALITY OF SERVICES: Mrs. Baltzersen said many needy people in the township do not know a public assistance program exists to provide them with emergency financial help. She said the township should publicize this service, possibly by advertising. She suggests a separate telephone line for people needing assistance.

Trustee, Awareness Party Address: 9459 Bay Colony Dr., Des

Age: 27 Occupation: teacher, Chicago Beard of Education Residency: 14 years

township government should be more visible. "I've lived in Maine Township for a long time. I never hear of the township election . . . I've yet to receive any kind of mailing or information from them." He proposed printing a list of township phone numbers residents can call.

• QUALITY OF SERVICES: After researching the work done by the Council on Youth, Kalin said, "I realize they're a new group, but I have a feeling more can be done." The senior citizens program is successful, but he suggested expanding it to include health clinics and free bus service. • UNINCORPORATED AREAS: "I see the lousy streets and I know the crime rate has gone up." The township should find some way to alleviate these problems, he said.

Santos S. Bruno

Trustee, Awareness Party Address: 7437 Lawlet St., Niles

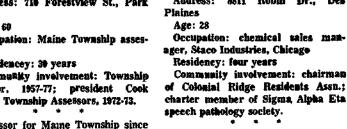

Occupation: assistant vice president, BlueCross - Blue Shield, Oak

Residency: 22 years

Community involvement: former Niles Village trustee (two terms); chairman of the Niles Fire and Police Commission; chairman of the Josquil Terrace Civil Assn.; chairman of the North West Italian American Society.

• GOALS: Working out a cooperative program with area municipalities for services such as supplemental police protection and generally improving the lot of the unincorporated area resident are Santo S. Bruno's main

• QUALITY OF SERVICES: The youth and alcoholism programs should be re-evaluated, Bruno said. "The alcoholism program more or less is a referral service," he said, addint it appears to duplicate services aiready available in the area. The Council on Youth programs shows no creativity, apparent by local youths' lack of involvement or encouragement, he said.

Voters must approve two questions on the ballot if the park district is to purchase the golf course. The first question asks authorization for the sale of $3.7 million in bonds. The second asks for an increase in the district's bonding limit to make the purchase possible.

THE PARK BOARD last month announced plans to purchase the 128acre golf course at 1003 N. Milwaukee Ave., Vernon Township, if the referendum passes. The bond issue also includes $200,000 for the purchase of the 9.5-acre Childerly Retreat Home, 506 McHenry Rd.

The park board has agreed to pay $25,000 an acre or $3.2 million for the land. The purchase price also will include $200,000 for all the buildings and equipment on the property. Park officials estimate the total cost will be $3.5 million, including allotments for golf course maintenance, operating

SIENA, Italy (UPI) — The guillo-tine was waiting for them, but the pigeons didn't shew up.

One of them must have been a stool

It was the first day of the Siena City Hall's plan to capture and execute by beheading the estimated 4,000 pigeons which officials say are a health hazard to the piazzas of the ancient medieval fortress.

City workers were out at dawn, spreading nets strewn with corn on the plazzas in an attempt to lure the pigeons to their death.

But the pigeons weren't buying it. They stayed in their niches under the eaves of the city's roofs, refusing to descend to their usual haunts.

SOME RESIDENTS said a drizzling rain may have been the reason the birds stayed in their dry nests. But others noted that rain has never scared pigeons off before.

Siena's Socialist-Communist City Council earlier this week set Friday as the first day for netting and destroying the pigeons. A city spokesman said the birds are suffering from a form of salmonella first noticed in Copenhagen which could be dangerous to

"Guillotining has been approved as the most humane way of destroying the birds after consultation with local animal protection league offi cials," the spokesman said. He said the pigeons' bodies would then be burned in the city incinerator.

The pigeons apparently did not agree with city hall.

The average Wheeling Park District resident, whose home is assessed at $7,000, is expected to pay a maximum of $12.60 more a year in taxes if the golf course is purchased.

PLANS FOR development of the golf course include golf, a jogging trail, winter archery, cross-county skiing, bike trails, fishing, horseshoe pits, shuffle board courts and outdoor hasketball courts.

The park district also plans to use the 48-year-old Tudor-style clubhouse for dancing, exercise classes, yoga, theater and arts and crafts.

The Childerly site will be developed as an outdoor education and recreation site. The park district also will work with the Wheeling Historical Society to restore historical buildings on the property.

Building funds sought in '77-78 planned budget

"The bulk" of the village capital improvements program should get underway in 1977-78, Wheeling Village Mgr. Terry L. Zerkle said Friday

Zerkle told trustees reviewing the proposed $4.1 million operating budget that he has requested funds "to get the capital improvements program off the ground."

"We've got the money to begin work on the architectural and engineering plans. I'd like to see us tie down a site for the public works building so we can make application for grants to fund these programs," he

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS proposed for 1977-78 include: expansion and upgrading of the municipal building, construction of a public works building and construction of a new main fire station.

The village also has asked the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District Board to aid in funding a second viilage fire station west of the Soo Line R.R. tracks. Zerkle said he will meet with fire officials today to discuss the request.

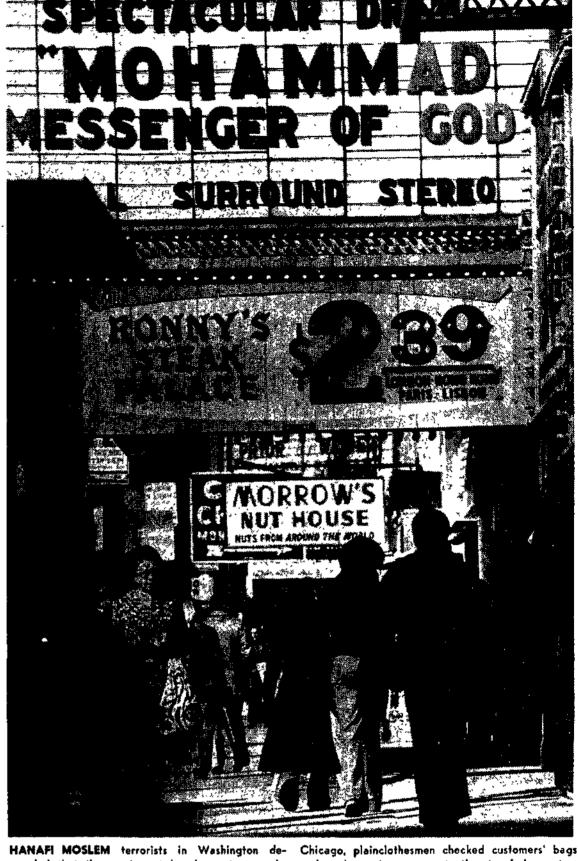

Village officials estimate construction of the two fire stations and purchase of a new pumper will total $1.055 million. The police department is asking for $30,171 in capital 'improvements for expansion of the po-

Dist. 21, teachers OK calendar

The teachers' union and board of education in Wheeling Township Dist. 21 have settled on a 1977-78 school calendar with an extended winter vacation and a later closing date in June.

The board Thursday approved the calendar which was prepared by Supt. Kenneth Gill and teachers' union Pres. Bob Mudd. The board and union each had submitted a different calendar, but neither was accepted.

The compromise calendar starts. winter vacation Thursday, Dec. 22. Classes will resume Tuesday, Jan. 3, 1978. The board originally suggested having the vacation start Dec. 23 and continue for the following week. The teachers had asked for the entire week before and after Christmas for Mudd said the teachers wanted the two-week break "to go on longer uninterrupted vacations."

The school year will end June 13, 1978, according to the new calendar. The board's first proposal would have ended classes June 9, while the teachers had requested a June 16 closing date, to accommodate a longer winter vacation.

The calendar retains Aug. 30 as the starting date for classes, with teachers beginning Aug. 29 with a workshop. The school year includes four institute days for teachers.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Attorneys for five followers of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon asked an appellate court Friday to block a decision which placed the young adults in their parents' custody for 30 days so they can be "deprogrammed."

THE FIVE "MOONIES" were whisked away by deprogrammers Thursday after Vayuris ruled in the parents' favor.

Vavuris appointed the parents temporary conservators under a section of probate law - an order which is not subject to appeal. Nevertheless, Ralph Baker, lawyer for the children and the Rev.

Sun Myung Moon's Unification church, said the state Court of Appeal would be asked to intervene with an extraordinary writ. If the court declines, the petition will be taken to the California Supreme Court in the same building.

Baker was working against time. At 5 p.m. Monday the parents are free to fly their adult children for 30 days to the Freedom of Thought Foundation, Tucson, Ariz., a group which deprograms youthful members of religious cults.

IF THE FIVE EXHAUST their remedies in the state courts, Baker said the case could be taken to the U.S. District Court, or directly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Vavuris ruling, Baker said, might be "a blessing in disguise" because it affords an opportunity to win a binding precedent in a

The young Moonies are Leslie Brown, 23, Westfield, N.J.; John Hovard Jr., 23, Danville, Calif.; Janice Kapan, 24, Toledo, Ohio; Jacqueline Katz, 21, Wolcott, N.J. and Barbara Underwood, 25, Portland, Ore.

Recently, numerous parents have won conservatorships in private conferences in chambers of California judges. Typically, youths involved were then forcibly seized and flown to Tucson where they were physically restrained from leaving.

WHEN VAVURIS WAS confronted with a batch of five petitions, he ordered a brief public hearing which ballooned into an 11-day affair featuring expert witnesses for both sides. In reaching his decision, he had no legal precedents and Vavuris expressed hope higher courts would now rule.

Vavuris apparently was persuaded that the young people had been brainwashed. The judge, unswayed by an argument that the Tucson operation also involved brainwashing, said he was certain the parents would not submit their children to harm.

Baker said Vavuris' ruling suggests that "every time a parent disagrees with his adult child he can get a conservatorship. This thinking will be applied to all kinds of religious groups, including some Catholic orders as well as Hare Krishnas, and we'll have to get a big concentration camp to hold all the people."

Pigeons fail to show at execution

SIENA, Italy (UPI) - The guillotine was waiting for them, but the pigeons didn't show up.

One of them must have been a stool

It was the first day of the Siena City Hall's plan to capture and execute by beheading the estimated 4,000 pigeons which officials say are a health hazard to the piazzas of the ancient medieval fortress.

City workers were out at dawn. spreading nets strewn with corn on the plazzas in an attempt to lure the pigeons to their death.

But the pigeons weren't buying it. They stayed in their niches under the eaves of the city's roofs, refusing to descend to their usual haunts.

SOME RESIDENTS said a drizzling rain may have been the reason the birds stayed in their dry nests. Butothers noted that rain has never scared pigeons off before.

Siena's Socialist-Communist City Council earlier this week set Friday as the first day for netting and destroying the pigeons. A city spokesman said the birds are suffering from a form of salmonella first noticed in Copenhagen which could be dangerous to man.

"Guillotining has been approved as the most humane way of destroying the birds after consultation with local animal protection league offi cials." the spokesman said. He said the pigeons' bodies would then be burned in the city incinerator.

The pigeons apparently did not agree with city hall.

Glueckert would not comment on how the cuts were arrived at. He said trustees will receive copies of the new expense figures at the meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in village hall, 50 Raupp GLUECKERT SAID he had not been aware projected golf course expenses were greater than course revenues.

The board also will review expense projections for the golf course debt retirement fund, police pension fund, public service center debt retirement, garbage fund, bond retirement fund and working cash fund.

The village staff is still preparing expense projections for the village's two largest funds, the general government fund and the waterworks and sewerage fund, Glueckert said.

Police nab three in drug traffic among students

Police arrested three men they say were involved in illicit drug traffic among Wheeling and Buffalo Grove high school students.

Arrested were James Palm, 20, of 236 E. Wayne Pt., Wheeling; Luz Marquez, 19, of Chicago; and Andrew Di-Buduo, 26, also of Chicago.

The three were charged with possession of marijuana, controlled substances and hypodermic needles and syringes, said John J. Hinchy, director of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group in the Northwest suburbs.

Paim also was charged with unlawful use of weapons for allegedly possessing an unregistered .22-caliber rifle. Marquez was charged with two counts and DiBuduo with one count of sale of controlled substances, police HINCHY SAID the men were arrested at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday after Marquez sold $400 in PCP, an animal tranquilizer, to undercover MEG agents the previous week and $800 in PCP that night at Palm's home.

After the second sale, MEG agents moved in and arrested the trio and found the rifle in Palm's home, as well as 12 hypodermic needles and syringes, marijuana, amphetamines and barbituates.

The three men were released after they each posted $5,000 bail on $50,000 bonds, and were ordered to appear Tuesday in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

DOROTHY MIRAGLIA, 28, also of 4412 Euclid Ave., a passenger in Bernstein's auto, received minor injuries. She was reported in fair condition Friday night at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Zelmer Turner, 39, of McHenry, the driver of the truck in the Palatine Township accident, also was taken to Northwest Community Hospital where he was treated for minor cuts and released.

Trooper John Kopecky of the Illinois State police said the Pace brothers were westbound on Dundee Road approaching Quentin Road when they

MSD OFFICIALS have received complaints from residents since the blasting began last June - complaints that the explosions are cracking their windows, walls and ceilings. No one, however, seems to be able to prove that the defects are caused by the dynamiting.

In an attempt to determine how much of the problem is legitimate, James P. Van Schoyck of VME-Nitro Consult Inc., Evanston has been conducting the surveys.

With a camera in one hand and a note pad in the other, a professional geologist examines several Mount Prospect homes for paint chips and window cracks.

He takes snapshots of the ceilings and moldings and draws miniature vet detailed sketches of every room.

The survey, which is optional and at no cost to residents, is the project contractor's way of documenting structural defects existing before deep tunnel dynamite blasts occur in various neighborhoods. The surveyors have been hired by contractors Healy-Ball-Greenfield, McCook, builders of 3 of the 11 tunnel shafts in Mount Prospect and Des Plaines that eventually will connect the deep tunnel:

"WE'RE LOOKING for normal defects that have occurred from normal conditions," Van Schoyek said. "A crack that might appear from blasting is almost impossible to distinguish from a normal hairline crack. That is why it is imperative to take these preblast surveys."

When completed in 1979, the deep tunnel will collect and store storm water and sewage and send it on to the O'Hare Reclamation Plant under construction at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street, Des Plaines.

Van Schoyck said most residents' gripes have surfaced because they are not accustomed to dynamite blasting in the area. "It's a typical human response. The people are aggravated with the blasting," he said. "They don't like it. So they claim the blasting has caused defects when it hasn't. far, Healy-Ball-Greenfield has blasted within all of the MSD limita-

But Liljequist contends the contractor, by surveying his home is 'just investing time and money to build up a defense. I have nothing to gain from this."

As a result, Liljequist hired his own appraiser, Muriello/Meyer & Associates, Elk Grove Village, to follow Van Schoyck as he studied the interior of the Mount Prospect home.

Liljequist said he would allow the survey only if Van Schoyck agreed to provide him with copies of all photographs and notes taken. He and Van Schoyck signed an agreement to that effect, witnessed by Liljequist's ap-

AND THE TOUR of the Lifjequist home began. Van Schoyck started in the living room - tapping the walls, checking the windows, sketching frantically and photographing just about everything. He followed the same procedure in all of the rooms explaining as he went along.

"Oh no, those won't come off," he said pointing to some plates the Liljequists have hanging on their dining room walls. "These are typical paint cracks," he continued. "There are no visible defects in the kitchen. There is a cracked window pane in the southeast window of the basement."

The survey will be filed along with about 40 others Van Schoyck has completed. The blasting will begin: Homes will rattle and shake. The complaints will start all over again. Who is to biame?

"The formation is a wise idea, but not the cease-and-desist power," said trustee candidate Lee Garr. "That's putting people in a position to impose controls and they might use their powers unwisely."

MICHAEL SMITH, a former candidate for village president, asked Pres. Charles Zettek to consider forming the commission and giving it the authority to order a business to stop deceptive practices. Zettek has said he supports the idea of a commission, but has not given any details.

"Let me put all the debate to end," Zettek said Friday. "This will be an advisory board and nothing else. It will never have the authority of ceaseand-desist."

"It's a duplication of other agencies that already exist," Trustee Nanci L. Vanderweel said. "I'm not interested in it at this time."

spreading nets strewn with corn on the piazzas in an attempt to lure the pigeons to their death.

But the pigeons weren't buying it. They stayed in their niches under the eaves of the city's roofs, refusing to descend to their usual haunts.

SOME RESIDENTS said a drizzling rain may have been the reason the birds stayed in their dry nests. But others noted that rain has never scared pigeons off before.

Siena's Socialist-Communist City Council earlier this week set Friday as the first day for netting and destroying the pigeons. A city spokesman said the birds are suffering from a form of salmonella first noticed in Copenhagen which could be dangerous to are surfacing as main issues in the election.

BUT MOST OF the discussion was directed to the incumbent village board, as the session took, on a "why did you do that" tone.

Businessmen said they were concerned about a "grandfather clause" in the village's building code, which requires them to remodel old buildings to meet current standards.

"What we're asking you to do is obey the law, and you're saying you don't understand the law," Zettek said. "The building code is there to protect you. It's difficult for you to digest because it'll cost you more money."

But one audience member said the village is reluctant to issue building

"I deal with eight to 10 municipalities, and it takes four times as long to get a building permit in Elk Grove as it does in any other," said Allan Hamilton, Tramwell Crow Co.

"Nobody in 16 years has come to me with this problem," Zettek said angrily.

"If this is such a problem and driving people out (of the village), I would think one of you or all of you would take the time to talk to me," he said.

ZETTEK THEN proposed the group form a committee to discuss the problem and bring it to the village board.

The debate between Zettek and the businessmen gave the nonincumbents little time to speak. "The board is a tight-knit group," said candidate James Petri when he got his chance. "The problem is communication; maybe as an outsider looking in, I can see that better than they can.

Enrichment class approved in Dist. 54

A sample after-school enrichment class for adults and children to be held at Adams Junior High School, 700 Springinsguth Rd., Schaumburg was approved recently by the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education.

The "School after School" art class will meet after the regular school day and will fast until no later than 5:45 p.m. If the sample class is successful, other enrichment courses will be scheduled in the same time period.

The plan calls for courses to last as long as necessary, probably four to six weeks. Students will buy their own materials and teachers will receive a base salary of $7 per hour, payable through student tuition.

Residents who wish to enroll in or teach "School after School" classes may call the district instructional cen-

Perry is pupil personnel director at Hoffman Estates High School, and has been employed by the district since 1968. Perry will receive a salary of $28,000 in his new position, said Gerald Chapman, assistant to the superintendent

Conduct code studied

A code of student conduct will be developed by a group of Dist. 211's student behavior committee, a group of board members, administrators, parents and one student formed by the board of education in January to discuss ways to improve student behavior at after-school activities.

The code will define acceptable behavior at athletic and social events at Dist. 211 schools. Committee members will make a final report to the board about ways to implement the code in May.

The committee's preliminary behavior report was presented to the board this week. It cited six behavior problem areas and recommended ways to deal with these problems. The areas are:

· Supervision at social events. The committee called for more supervision at events and the use of parent chaperones to supplement faculty and police supervision. • Supervision at athletic events. More consistent supervision was recommended, including a training program for chaperones. · Parking lots supervision. The committee recommended improving supervision by stationing a police officer in lots during athletic and social activities.

 Vandalism and trespassing. The posting of warning signs on school grounds was suggested.

• Legal drinking age. The committee suggested supporting state-wide legislation raising the legal drinking age to 21.

· Public attitudes. The committee asked for more parent education about alcohol use to combat the attitude that drinking is better than taking drugs.

Salary raises awarded

Salary raises effective April 1 have been given to the following

Donald Skinner, director of personnel, received a raise from $21,300 to $24,000. Rinehart Schroeder, director of buildings and grounds, received an increase from $25,000 to $27,300.

Legal misnomer

Ghost steps from history to ballot

by PAT GERLACH

As it stands now, ballots for the April 5 Schaumburg Township election list the name of a U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice who died in 1835 as the Democratic candidate for a four-year trustee ship board.

So township officials must move quickly to obtain a court order to replace the name of John Marshall, who fought bitterly with Thomas Jefferson and other presidents to mold the Constitution, with the name of Joseph W. Marshall, a 38-year-old data proces-SOT.

The error came to light this week when Marshall, 108 Salem Dr., Schaumburg, noticed his first name was incorrect on a specimen ballot. TOWNSHIP RECORDS show Democratic Committeeman John F. Morrissey approved a certificate of nomination for "John W. Marshall."

Joe Marshall is one of nine members of a Democratic slate opposing the incumbent Republican township officials. John Marshall became Chief Justice in 1801.

"I made a mistake," Morrissey said. "But you can't deny that John Marshall is a very prominent name in legal circles." Ironically, Morrissey is a graduate of John Marshall Law School, Chicago.

And Joe Marshall isn't worried about the problem. "It's one of those things that happen and I feel confident it's going to be solved quickly." Marshall said. But the candidate said he is "sure glad" he noticed the error. The candidate said he looks at it as "IF THE BALLOT was left as is and I won the other side could contest it. And if I lost, I could contest it. I'm glad there's still time to do something about it," he said.

But Marshall said he is "relatively certain" his son, Jon, who has not reached his third birthday "isn't working behind the scenes to take the election away from me."

Township Atty. Norman Samelson said he and Morrissey will go before Cook County Circuit Court Judge Harry Comerford Monday to seek approval of the change. The court order, Samelson said, is needed because "there is no provision in the election code for things like this.'

Fortunately, representatives of Frank Thornber Co. who print the ballots, say the change can be made with little difficulty.

Pigeons fail to show at execution

STENA, Italy (UPI) - The guillotime was waiting for them, but the pigeons didn't show up.

One of them must have been a stool

It was the first day of the Siena City Hall's plan to capture and execute by beheading the estimated 4,000 pigeons which officials say are a health hazard to the piazzas of the ancient medieval fortress

City workers were out at dawn, spreading nets strewn with corn on the plazzas in an attempt to lure the pigeons to their death.

But the pigeons weren't buying it. They stayed in their niches under the eaves of the city's roofs, refusing to descend to their usual haunts.

SOME RESIDENTS said a drizzling rain may have been the reason the birds staved in their dry nests. But others noted that rain has never scared pigeons off before

Siena's Socialist-Communist City Council earlier this week set Friday as the first day for netting and destroying the pigeons. A city spokesman said the birds are suffering from a form of salmonella first noticed in Copenhagen which could be dangerous to

"Guillotining has been approved as the most humane way of destroying the birds after consultation with local animal protection league offi cials," the spokesman said. He said the pigeons' bodies would then be burned in the city incinerator.

The pigeons apparently did not agree with city hall.

23 first-year teachers dismissed by Dist. 211

Twenty-three first-year teachers in High School Dist. 211 have been released for 1977-78 by the board of edu-

None of the teachers has received tenure, said Gerald Chapman, assistant to the superintendent. He said all 23 were hired with the understanding they would be released after one year of employment.

'We don't know what our needs are for next year," he said. "The problem is we don't know how many teachers in special subject areas we'll need."

ENROLLMENT IN departments such as business education changes from year to year which also changes the number of teachers needed each year in those departments, Chapman

The district also will have to determine which coaching jobs and activity supervision positions need to be filled for next year, Chapman said.

Some of the dismissed teachers were hired a year ago to replace teachers who took leaves of absence in 1976-77, he said.

The Illinois School Code requires dismissed teachers to be notified by April 1, but teachers on leaves may wait until May 1 to inform the district whether they will return to their jobs

All of the teachers on leave have tenure, Chapman said, and "if they decide to come back, we have to find a place for them." THE TEACHERS who have been released will be considered for openings that occur in the district for next year, Chapman said.

Teachers' Union Pres. George Stewart said union members currently are discussing with the administration ways in which staff reduction should be done.

"I'm concerned about (teacher) morale," he said, "because we've never had staff reductions before." Stewart said the union would like to work out a staff reduction policy that would coordinate the April 1 and May 1 notification dates, so the district would know its staffing needs before the deadline for notifying teachers of their dismissal.

"We are reasonable and we want to see the people on leave keep their jobs," Stewart said. "But with earlier notification, teachers won't have to go through such mental anguish."

Perry is pupil personnel director at Hoffman Estates High School, and has been employed by the district since 1968. Perry will receive a salary of $28,000 in his new position, said Gerald Chapman, assistant to the superintendent.

Conduct code studied

A code of student conduct will be developed by a group of Dist. 211's student behavior committee, a group of board members, administrators, parents and one student formed by the board of education in January to discuss ways to improve student behavior at after-school activities.

The code will define acceptable behavior at athletic and social events at Dist. 211 schools. Committee members will make a final report to the board about ways to implement the code in May.

The committee's preliminary behavior report was presented to the board this week. It cited six behavior problem areas and recommended ways to deal with these problems.

· Supervision at social events. The committee called for more supervision at events and the use of parent chaperones to supplement faculty and police supervision.

• Supervision at athletic events. More consistent supervision was recommended, including a training program for chaperones. • Parking lots supervision. The committee recommended improving supervision by stationing a police officer in lots during athletic and social activities. Vandalism and trespassing. The posting of warning signs on school grounds was suggested. · Legal drinking age. The committee suggested supporting state-wide legislation raising the legal drinking age to 21. · Public attitudes. The committee asked for more parent education about alcohol use to combat the attitude that drinking is better than taking drugs.

Salary raises awarded

Salary raises effective April 1 have been given to the following district personnel:

Donald Skinner, director of personnel, received a raise from $21,300 to $24,000. Rinehart Schroeder, director of buildings and grounds, received an increase from $25,000 to $27,300.

Overnight parking ban for Princeton

A ban on overnight parking along Princeton Street has been approved by the Hoffman Estates Village Board. The ordinance prohibits parking on the street from 2 to 6 a.m. and followed complaints by 18 homeowners in the area that renters were leaving their autos parked on the street for days, causing traffic hazards and making it difficult for police to detect

Fines for violations of the restriction would range from $10 to Earlier, the board had considered restricting parking to one side of the street, but it amended the proposal when the homeowners said they preferred an overnight ban.

Annex moratorium requested

Village Pres. Virginia M. Hayter called for a 120-day "moratorium" on new annexation proposals to allow village officials a "breathing spell" to make changes to the zoning code. "One needs to take the time to sit back and look at what you've done," Mrs. Hayter said. She said village officials need to review the community's zoning regulations because some may be out-of-date and some new classifications may be added. Village Atty. Richard Williams will study whether the moratorium would be legal.

It would delay consideration only of annexation proposals that have not already been brought to the village's attention. Projects that already have been proposed for annexation and requests for any rezoning of land already in the village would not be included in the moratorium.

Judges to get pay increases

Judges for next month's village election will receive a raise if they agree to attend a training session.

Pay for each of the 67 election judges was set at $35, and at the recommendation of Village Clerk Helen Wozniak, judges who attend the training session will get a $5 bonus. In the past, election judges in Hoffman Estates have received a flat $35.

Several issues have surfaced during the campaign for the township board. One is the problem of the double it-brary tax paid by homeowners in the the past, the board has earmarked the Elk Grove Village portion of the town-

Another is the question of the proper use of revenue sharing funds. In funds for programs available to all township residents. But thus year, township officials plan to spend about $18,000 to hire off-duty sheriff's deputies to patrol unincorporated areas that have been hard hit by vandals.

And there's a question of whether Schaumburg should continue working toward a joint mental bealth center win Elk Grove Township or begin planning an independent facility.

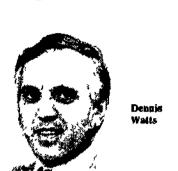

For supervisor

Dennis Watts

Dennis Watts, 34, of 221 Quincy Ct., Schaumburg, since 1971, is a hardware selector for Union Oil Products, Des Plaines. A resident of Schaumburg for six years, he is a member of the Schaumburg Jaycees and Twinbrook Y-Indian Guides. The candidate attended Loyola University, Chicago.

He was elected to a three-year term on the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education last year and says he will not resign the post if elected Township supervisor because he does not see a conflict in holding both jobs.

- Double library tax: Watts says the double tax is unfair, but proposes no solution other than negotiations between the two library boards.
- Police protection for unincorporated areas: He acknowledges the problem but proposes no soluton other than providing revenue sharing assis-tance to "buy" extra hours of patrol or a special tax levy on the area.
- Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center: He questions whether the township should proceed with plans for the two-township center or should begin planning for an independent center because he believes state law will require a separate facility when the township reaches a population of 150,000. "By at least 1982, Schaumburg will have reached that point and be forced on its own anyway, so why not begin planning

• Goals: Watts says the township has "good" youth programs, but they are not well publicized. "Only about 330 kids are involved in programs costing $200,000 a year."

He said he thinks the idea of the township setting up its own crisis hotline is "good" but points out that between 11 p.m. and 2 a.m. callers will reach an answering service.

Watts predicts "chaos" if he is the only candidate elected. "There has to be a direct change of spirit brought into the township and just one or even two people would try but they would be a minority and it wouldn't work."

Vernon Laubenstein

Vernon A. Laubenstein, 44, of 125 S. Westover Ln., Schaumburg, a resident since 1961, is seeking his third term as Schaumburg Township Supervisor. He is a health insurance underwriting executive with Kemper Insurance, Long Grove, with a bachelor of arts degree from Ripon College, Ripon, Wis., and an MBA from Indiana University. He is a member of Twinbrook YMCA, the Suburban Cook-DuPage County Health Systems Agency, the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township and the Cook County Supervisors Assn.

 Double library tax: Laubenstein said the township is seeking advice from its attorney, but ultimately he believes the problem must be solved by new state legislation "which interested homeowners must seek."

· Police protection for unincorporated area. He believes the township board, as the only local government for these residents, must "act in a responsive manner" by providing revenue-sharing money to purchase extra police protection. Laubenstein concedes it is the only time revenue-sharing has been concentrated in one geographic area. He believes the village of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates may profit from a decrease in van-

Vernon A. Laubeustein

• Elk Grove-Schaumburg Town-ships Mental Health Center: "Whether or not we get federal funding you will see some kind of facility in the two-township area." Laubenstein does not favor establishment of a separate township center even though the population soon may exceed 150,000 "because one of the necessary ingredients the state officials will look for is a hospital to provide the necessary back-up care.'

· Goals: In the next four years Laubenstein hopes to consolidate more township-funded agencies in Blackbawk School being leased from Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

Should be be the only incumbent relected, Laubenstein anticipates no difficulty in working with other new township officials. "The over-all responsibility of the supervisor mandates and dictates working together."

For clerk

Wojcik

Kathleen L. Wojcik, 41, of 411 Redwood Ln., Schaumburg is seeking a third term as Schaumburg Township Clerk on the Republican slate. She has lived in the township since 1960 and is a member of Twinbrook YMCA, Spring Valley Nature Club, the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township, the 12th Congressional Dist. Women's Club and is a director of the state and county township officials organizations. A graduate of a two-year junior college, Mrs. Wojcik was appointed township clerk in 1968. She has been active in politics since 1964 as a Republican.

Mrs. Wojcik serves as full-time township clerk and office manager and is responsible for all township elections and voter registration. She says absentee ballots should be counted by individual township clerks in Cook County.

Sherman

Judith M. Sherman, 34, of 1825 Dunsford Ct., Schaumburg since 1972, is running for a four-year term as Schaumburg Township Clerk. Until recently she has been a teacher at Woodfield Jewish Day School, Hoffman Estates, and has a bachelors degree from Roosevelt University-Art Institute. Chicago. She is a member of the National Council of Jewish Women and is one of 200 members of the council's national affairs committee.

Mrs. Sherman said she is seeking the township clerk post "because I bonestly believe in standing up for my rights and I really feel if I run it will open the door for others."

She believes the "power has been concentrated in the same Republican hands too long" but says "they are not bad hands" although she would like to see a change.

Hoffman

Gienn E. Hoffmann, 51, of 154 Bradley Ln., Hoffman Estates, has been a resident since 1960. He is a Republican candidate for a second four-year trustee term. He is chairman of the social sciences department at Maine forth High School, Des Plaines, and has a bachelor's degree from Valparaiso (Ind.) University and a master's degree from Northwestern University.

Hoffmann is a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township His civic involvement includes membership on a 1963 Citizens for Snae Suburban Zoning steering committee, chairman of the GOP's Task Force I which studied the merger of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates in 1971. He served as chairman of the Hoffman Estates Police and Fire Commission from 1969 to 1972 and has managed several local Republican election campaigns.

Benedetto

John J. Benedetto, 67, of 105 Dartford Ln., Schaumburg, for five years, is a Democratic candidate for Schaumburg Township assessor. He is a retired postat supervisor and a member of the Moose.

Benedetto is running for township assessor at the request of his party, although the candidate says he would have preferred seeking one of the four trustee posts.

"I'm interested in senior citizens projects and I think the people should know what's going on in township government, which I think has really been underplayed in Schaumburg, said.

IF ELECTED, he intends to spend "at least 40 hours a week or more than enough time to get the assessor's job done." He believes he can be helpful to senior citizens and others who need information on the Homestead Act or general information about their taxes

MacEachron

Scott MacEachron, 53, of 1336 Bladon Rd., Schaumburg, is seeking a third term as Schaumburg Township assessor on the Republican ticket. MacEachron, appointed to the assessor's post nine years ago, served as township supervisor from 1961 to 1968.

He is a salesman with Printech Corp., Schaumburg and has a bachelors degree from Grinnell (lowa) College. He did graduate work at the University of Illmois, Urbana. He is a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township and has as a deputy committeeman and a member of the Township Officuals of Illinois.

MacEachron said he hopes to continue making it possible for township residents to obtain information on their taxes and assessments locally. He said he expects a $12,000 aerial survey of the township to update the local tax rolls.

For road commissioner

Erickson

David I. Erickson, 39, of 1616 Roslyn Rd., Roselle, is seeking his first elected term as Schaumburg Township road commissioner. A Republican, he was appointed to the post in 1974. He is an account analyst with Western Electric, Rolling Meadows, and attends Harper College, Palatine. Erickson is a member of the Road Commissioners of Cook County and Il-

Erickson plans to consolidate the storage of two road trucks and a tractor at Blackhawk School when the building is occupied by the township later this year. The facility also will provide space for storing salt and other chemicals used in road maintenance and repair, he said.

His goal for the next term is to contimue working toward installation of a railroad crossing signal at Rodenburg Road and the Milwaukee Road tracks south of Irving Park Road.

Kelley

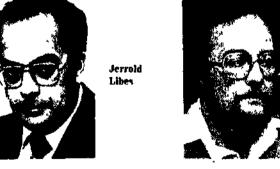

John Patrick Kelley, 23, of 1324 Chartwell Rd., Schaumburg, is a Democratic candidate for Schaumburg Township road commissioner. He has lived in the township for 19 years, has a bachelor of arts degree in political science from Northeastern Illinois University, Chicago, and is employed as a pipeline and electrical construction worker. Kelley is a member of the Schaumburg Township Democratic Organization.

Kelley is running for township road commissioner because he believes he can save money in road maintenance. "I'm young and healthy and single and I think I can do some of the road work myself that the township now pays to have done."

Kelley believes the $5,000 road commissioner's salary is "very adequate" for the part-time job. If elected he says he would look at his role as a combination administrator and work-

Pigeons fail to show at execution

SIENA, Italy (UPI) - The guillotine was waiting for them, but the pigeons didn't show up.

One of them must have been a stool

It was the first day of the Siena City Hall's plan to capture and execute by behending the estimated 4,000 pigeons which officials say are a health hazard to the piazzas of the ancient medieval fortress.

City workers were out at dawn, spreading nets strewn with corn on the plazzas in an attempt to lure the pigeons to their death.

But the pigeons weren't buying it. They stayed in their niches under the eaves of the city's roofs, refusing to descend to their usual haunts.

SOME RESIDENTS said a drizzling rain may have been the reason the birds stayed in their dry nests. But others noted that rain has never scared pigeons off before.

Siena's Socialist-Communist City Council carlier this week set Friday as the first day for netting and destroying the pigeons. A city spokesman said the birds are suffering from a form of salmonella first noticed in Copenhagen which could be dangerous to

"Guillotining has been approved as the most humane way of destroying the birds after consultation with local animal protection league offi cials," the spokesman said. He said the pigeons' bodies would then be burned in the city incinerator.

The pigeons apparently did not agree with city hall.

Police said they arrested Dale Christensen, 17. of 725 N. Patton Ave., Arlington Heights, and Ronald W. Kittner, 18, of 2615 Rohlwing Rd., Rolling Meadows, after a truck owned by Marshall Spitcaufsky Co., 712 W. Eastwood Ave., Mount Prospect, was burglarized.

The company is an appliance repair and collection agency.

Police said one of the firm's employes had left the truck unlocked at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the parking lot of Kittner's apartment building. Police caught the pair after they

MSD contractor hires, geologist to inspect homes and Des Plames aren't taking any chances They're afraid the dynamite blasting by the MSD will damage their homes and they want to be able Take Jon L. Liljequist, 801 S. Elmhurst Ave. When the surveyor came to his house to inspect it prior to the underground blasting, he had another expert of his own there to make sure the inspection was being done fairly.

The house by house checks this week are the latest in a continuing controversy between homeowners and

MSD OFFICIALS have received complaints from residents since the blasting began last June - complaints that the explosions are cracking their windows, walls and ceilings No one, however, seems to be able to prove that the defects are caused by the dynamiting.

In an attempt to determine how much of the problem is legitumate, James P Van Schoyck of VME-Nitro Consult Inc., Evanston has been conducting the surveys.

With a camera in one hand and a note pad in the other, a professional geologist examines several Mount Prospect homes for paint chips and window cracks

He takes snapshots of the ceilings and moldings and draws miniature yet detailed sketches of every room.

The survey, which is optional and at no cost to residents, is the project contractor's way of documenting structural defects existing before deep tunnel dynamite blasts occur in various neighborhoods. The surveyors have been hired by contractors Healy-Ball-Greenfield, McCook, builders of 3 of the 11 tunnel shafts in Mount Prospect and Des Plaines that eventually will connect the deep tunnel

"WE'RE LOOKING for normal defects that have occurred from normal conditions," Van Schoyck said. "A erack that might appear from blasting is almost impossible to distinguish from a normal hairline crack That is why it is imperative to take these preblast surveys."

When completed in 1979, the deep tunnel will collect and store storm water and sewage and send it on to the

A request for a preliminary injunction to the April 9 Elk Grove Township unit school district referendum has been filed in federal district court by the Village of Arlington Heights.

Village Atty Jack M. Siegel said he expects U.S District Judge George N. Leighton to rule on the request Wednesday or Thursday.

A similar request has been filed in Illinois Appellate Court by High School Dist. 214.

Slegel also filed a suit in U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois charging the referendum is a violation of the United States and Illinois constitutions because it does not allow residents of Dist 214 to vote

THE ENTIRE Village of Arlington Heights is included in the boundaries of Dist. 214 and about 10 per cent also is part of Dist 59, one of seven elementary school districts in the Dist. 214 area.

The unit district would combine Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools, Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village and Forest View High School in

James Halloran, Democratic candidate for Palatine Township highway commissioner, said the job should be one of "diminishing responsibilities."

Early in the campaign he accused his opponent of "trying to secure a position for himself on into infinity," when Highway Comr. Robert L. Bergman announced he would like the job to be full-time. When the township board voted to keep the highway commissioner job part-time, Halloran took credit for it.

"I prompted that," Halloran said after the vote.

"The municipalities within the township are actively annexing new properties," Halloran said. "They are expanding as the unincorporated areas become less and less."

But Halloran said the increasing number of roads built to give access to apartment complexes "are quite a different problem."

"Present law does not allow the township government a voice in the zoning of unincorporated areas," Halloran said. "The road commissioner should encourage and cooperate with the village to eventually annex developments to use their authority in behalf of better roads. Presently this is not done."

Pigeons fail to show at execution

SIENA, Italy (UPI) - The guillotine was waiting for them, but the pigeons didn't show up.

One of them must have been a stool

It was the first day of the Siena City Hall's plan to capture and execute by beheading the estimated 4,000 pigeons which officials say are a health hazard to the piazzas of the ancient medieval fortress.

City workers were out at dawn spreading nets strewn with corn on the plazzas in an attempt to lure the pigeons to their death.

But the pigeons weren't buying it. They stayed in their niches under the eaves of the city's roofs, refusing to descend to their usual haunts.

SOME RESIDENTS said a drizzling rain may have been the reason the birds stayed in their dry nests. But others noted that rain has never scared pigeons off before.

Siena's Socialist-Communist City Council earlier this week set Friday as the first day for netting and destroying the pigeons. A city spokesman said the birds are suffering from a form of salmonella first noticed in Copenhagen which could be dangerous to

"Guillotining has been approved as the most humane way of destroying the birds after consultation with local animal protection league offi cials," the spokesman said. He said the pigeons' bodies would then be burned in the city incinerator.

The pigeons apparently did not agree with city hall.

Kopecky said the car had been turned on its side and crushed against the pole.

"The trailer was on top of the car," McIntosh said. "It had them pinned

POLICE AND Palatine firefighters worked 40 minutes to free the brothers, who were taken to Northwest Community and pronounced dead on arrival.

Police did not ticket Turner. *

In the other crash, witnesses told police Bernstein's car was southbound on Fairfield when it failed to negotiate a curve, crossed the centerline, left the roadway and hit a fence.

Bernstein died when his head hit the fence rail, although his car went back across the road and landed amidst trees, said a Lake County Sheriff's police spokesman.

A Lake Zurich rescue squad took Bernstein and Ms. Miraglia to Condell Memorial Hospital in Libertyville, where Bernstein was pronounced dead on arrival.

MS. MIRAGLIA was transferred to Northwest Community, where she was admitted for observation.

Jeff Soaasted, 17, of 4328 Wilson Ave., Rolling Meadows, worked with Bernstein at Jack's Texaco service station at Hicks Road and Euclid Avenue in Rolling Meadows.

23 first-year teachers dismissed by Dist. 211

Twenty-three first-year teachers in High School Dist. 211 have been released for 1977-78 by the board of education.

None of the teachers has received tenure, said Gerald Chapman, assistant to the superintendent. He said all 23 were hired with the understanding they would be released after one year of employment.

"We don't know what our needs are for next year," he said. "The problem is we don't know how many teachers in special subject areas we'll need."

ENROLLMENT IN departments such as business education changes from year to year which also changes the number of teachers needed each year in those departments, Chapman

The district also will have to determine which coaching jobs and activity supervision positions need to be filled for next year, Chapman said.

Some of the dismissed teachers were hired a year ago to replace teachers who took leaves of absence in 1976-77, he said.

The Illinois School Code requires dismissed teachers to be notified by April 1, but teachers on leaves may wait until May 1 to inform the district whether they will return to their jobs in 1977-78.

All of the teachers on leave have tenure, Chapman said, and "if they decide to come back, we have to find a place for them."

THE TEACHERS who have been released will be considered for openings that occur in the district for next year, Chapman said.

Teachers' Union Pres. George Stewart said union members currently are discussing with the administration ways in which staff reduction should be done.

"I'm concerned about (teacher) morale," he said, "because we've never had staff reductions before."

Stewart said the union would like to work out a staff reduction policy that would coordinate the April 1 and May notification dates, so the district would know its staffing needs before the deadline for notifying teachers of their dismissal.

"We are reasonable and we want to see the people on leave keep their jobs," Stewart said. "But with earlier notification, teachers won't have to go through such mental anguish."

ZAJONC SAID the GOP board has been responsible for growing budgets and higher tax rates during the past four years. He said Republicans have been too quick to spend money without determining if and where budget cuts can be made.

Incumbent Republican Trustee Richard W. Fonte countered Zajonc's charge by citing figures from the 1975 and 1976 levies which show the village tax rate has been reduced from 75 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to 65 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Fonte also said the village's surplus revenue has continued to grow in the past four years.

Zajonc defended himself against charges by Republicans that he has voted against implementing improvements to the village water system.

"I was not against Well 10," Zajonc said. "I was against the time it was being put in. I asked that reservoirs be put in first before we built anymore wells so we could have the water above the ground instead of under the ground when we need it."

GUSS CITED a recent water study of the village's needs in answering Zajonc. "The report said we needed Well 10 and a reservoir," he said. "We are building Well 10 and it includes a 1.5-million gallon reservoir which he (Zajonc) voted against."

Independent trustee candidate Patricia Miramonti said she considers herself to be in the middle of the two village president candidates in philosophy. "I think we need to look at what and how we're legislating," she said. She said she would like to see village ordinances written in language understandable to a layman.

Although each of the candidates on the two slates was allowed to speak briefly to state his or her views, the question and answer period was dominated by Guss and Zajonc.

Guss outlined the GOP platform and promised to implement its objectives "point by point." The platform includes a pledge to keep taxes and licensing fees low, implement zerobased budgeting, continue flood control measures and provide open government.

ZAJONC SAID his Citizens Party of Palatine slate soon will release a list of goals which will provide for longrange planning in a "responsive, efficient manner."

William Perry, 38, has been named principal of Conant High School effective July 1. Perry will replace Carl Zdeb, who will become High School Dist. 211 assistant superintendent for operations.

Perry is pupil personnel director at Hoffman Estates High School, and has been employed by the district since 1968. Perry will receive a salary of $28,000 in his new position, said Gerald Chapman, assistant to the superintendent.

Conduct code studied

A code of student conduct will be developed by a group of Dist. 211's student behavior committee, a group of board members, administrators, parents and one student formed by the board of education in January to discuss ways to improve student behavior at after-school activities.

The code will define acceptable behavior at athletic and social events at Dist. 211 schools. Committee members will make a final report to the board about ways to implement the code in May.

The committee's preliminary behavior report was presented to the board this week. It cited six behavior problem areas and recommended ways to deal with these problems. The areas are:

• Supervision at social events. The committee called for more supervision at events and the use of parent chaperones to supplement faculty and police supervision.

• Supervision at athletic events. More consistent supervision was recommended, including a training program for chaperones. • Parking lots supervision. The committee recommended improving supervision by stationing a police officer in lots during athletic and social activities. • Vandalism and trespassing. The posting of warning signs on school grounds was suggested.

• Legal drinking age. The committee suggested supporting state-wide legislation raising the legal drinking age to 21. • Public attitudes. The committee asked for more parent education about alcohol use to combat the attitude that drinking is

The house by house checks this week are the latest in a continuing controversy between homeowners and the MSD.

Pigeons fail to show at execution

SIENA, Italy (UPI) - The guillotine was waiting for them, but the pigeons didn't show up

One of them must have been a stool pigeon. It was the first day of the Siena City Hall's plan to capture and execute by beheading the estimated 4,000 pigeons which officials say are a health hazard to the piazzas of the ancient medieval fortress

City workers were out at dawn spreading nets strewn with corn on the piazzas in an attempt to lure the pigeons to their death

But the pigeons weren't buying it. They stayed in their niches under the eaves of the city's roofs, refusing to descend to their usual haunts.

SOME RESIDENTS said a drizzling rain may have been the reason the birds stayed in their dry nests. But others noted that ram has never scared pigeons off before.

Siena's Socialist-Communist City Council earlier this week set Friday as the first day for netting and destroying the pigeons. A city spokesman said the birds are suffering from a form of salmonella first noticed in Copenhagen which could be dangerous to

"Guillotining has been approved as the most humane way of destroying the birds after consultation with local animal protection league offi cials," the spokesman said. He said the pigeons' bodies would then be burned in the city incinerator.

The survey, which is optional and at no cost to residents, is the project contractor's way of documenting structural defects existing before deep tunnel dynamite blasts occur in various neighborhoods. The surveyors have been hired by contractors Healy-Ball-Greenfield, McCook, builders of 8 of the 11 tunnel shafts in Mount Prospect and Des Plaines that eventually will connect the deep tunnel.

"WE'RE LOOKING for normal defects that have occurred from normal conditions." Van Schoyck said. "A crack that might appear from blasting is almost impossible to distinguish from a normal hairline crack. That is why it is imperative to take these preblast surveys."

When completed in 1979, the deep tunnel will collect and store storm water and sewage and send it on to the O'Hare Reclamation Plant under construction at Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street, Des Plaines.

Van Schoyck said most residents' gripes have surfaced because they are not accustomed to dynamite blasting in the area, "It's a typical human response. The people are aggravated with the blasting," he said. "They don't like it. So they claim the blasting has caused defects when it hasn't. She criticized the theater for showing the movie. The sign on the box office window misspelled Mohammad as "Mohammed," she said, adding that a Moslem instead of Anthony Quinn should have played the lead.

"They're using Allah's name for money," she said

Meanwhile, as the box office opened, five uniformed policemen arrived to keep an eye on the line out-

Four planclothesmen stood immediately inside the lobby and others were spread throughout the theater. One of the officers talked with a re-

AS HE SPOKE, a customer came through the ticket line with a briefcase in his hand. The plainclothesman directed the man to a yellow table at the side and when the customer got there, another policeman checked the contents of the briefcase.

Theater manager Mickey Gold said he had not requested the tight security. The police had been sent by headquarters, he said.

Funds sought for dispatch system

Five Northwest suburbs will seek approximately $1.5 million in funds to establish a central computer dispatching system for fire and police vehicles.

Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter said funds for the project are available from several federal agencies. The project also would establish a 911 emergency telephone number.

The five suburbs cooperating in the program are Buffalo Grove, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows.

Winter said the main advantages of the computer system are speed and

"IT IS FAR BETTER than the manual system. A computer will not make mistakes if it is fed the proper information," he said.

Village to review library budget today

The proposed $565,064 operating budget for the Mount Prospect Public Library will be reviewed by the village board at 9:30 a.m. today in village hall, 100 S. Emerson St.

Library officials have submitted a budget request exceeding last year's library appropriations by 30 per cent. The village board authorized $433,095 for library operations during 1976-77. The new fiscal year begins May 1.

The bulk of the increased budget is earmarked for administrative salaries. The library board has requested five additional employes and has said the need for increased spending is justified by the size of the new library, 10 S. Emerson St. The facility, which opened in December, is about four times larger than the old library, 14 E. Busse Ave.
